New Transatlantic Record
Comfort In a Gold Mine
Some Leave, Some Stay
More Money Is Needed

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE WORLD is full of news. Mattern and Griffin started well on their "six-day trip" around the world. They landed in Berlin yesterday after crossing the ocean in record time.

This country has the fliers, male and female. What it needs now is an adequate air fleet.

CANADA, THE second largest gold producing country in the world, last year produced fifty-five million dollars worth. Britain is the golden empire. Its territory supplied five-sevenths of all last year's gold, almost eleven million ounces. British South Africa is the greatest gold country.

Of gold there can be, under our monetary system, no "over production." And with government experts to instruct them, tens of thousands now idle could make a decent living "panning" gold within United States borders.

A GOOD GOLD mine is worth having, even a little one.

Fifty-five years ago Senator George Hearst, father of W. R. Hearst, developed the Homestake gold mine. Since then it has produced two hundred and seventy million dollars' worth of gold, has paid more than sixty-five million dollars in dividends and a much larger sum in wages to employes.

SMITH REYNOLDS, only 20, worth many millions, died of a bullet wound in the temple. His young wife, second that he had married, was near.

The coroner is "satisfied it was suicide."

Of all man's acts, suicide is perhaps the strangest. Wealth destroys itself, while poverty hangs on. One, eager for notoriety, jumps into the mouth of a volcano; another burns the temple of Diana at Ephesus that his name may be remembered. An old Greek philosopher stumbles and falls on leaving his class room, then kills himself. Napoleon, unable for many years to rise in the French army, was divided in his mind between suicide and marrying an elderly, prosperous widow. He avoided both.

O. O. McINTYRE writes for the August Cosmopolitan Magazine, on the news stand tomorrow, a story entitled "Why I Didn't Commit Suicide."

Known now to millions of Americans as a highly successful man, Mr. McIntyre writes about the suicide impulse and how it passed.

Many millions have known the same temptation.

Some struggle to leave this world, others struggle violently to stay here.

MRS. BARNEY, accused of killing a man in London, was freed by a jury yesterday, while thousands crowded around the courtroom. The Judge told the jury that Sir Patrick Hastings' speech, defending the accused woman, was "the finest he ever had heard in a court of law."

The woman said she lived with the man killed by a revolver shot in her bedroom and had supported him. Before that experience she married an American vaudeville actor. Her lawyer told the jury:

"Her life was tragic, tied to an American brute whom she could not divorce."

He asked for sympathy on that basis, and got it.

The American in this instance may have been "a brute," but if an American jury acquitted an American lady partly because she was married "to an English brute," some Britons might consider that an indication of prejudice.

SENATOR BORAH, of Idaho, says:

"We have sufficient gold in this country to justify, on a sound basis, a currency expansion to the extent of billions, if necessary."

He is right; money is too scarce and "expensive." A man who owed a thousand dollars in 1929 has as much difficulty in paying under today's conditions as though he owed three thousand dollars. And of the money now in use, much is locked up in banks that will not lend it, because "liquidity" is the all-important thing.

THERE IS SOME money left in this country of worries and doubts, fortunately. Statements published by the two biggest banks in America show that the Chase bank has assets amounting to one thousand seven hundred and thirty-one million dollars, and the National City Bank assets of one thousand five hundred and sixty-seven millions. When this money and some other billions get into business and payrolls, prosperity will come back.

But banks cannot distribute the billions. That must be done through individual initiative, which is discouraged by destructive taxation, born of reckless government extravagance.

THE INCREASE in letter postage from two to three cents will cost New York City alone $60,000 a day. It disturbs banks and brokers. The increases in registered mail charges are a heavy tax on those that ship articles of great value.

One concern that sent a registered package from New York to San Francisco paid $135. Before the new rate, it would have cost less than $8.

LOST FLIERS SOUGHT IN RUSSIA

Mattern and Griffin Long Overdue; Crash Feared

By KENDALL FOSS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, July 7.—All the resources of the Soviet government were called into play tonight in an effort to find some trace of Bennett Griffin and James J. Mattern, American fliers missing since they left Berlin at 4 p. m. (Pittsburgh time, yesterday for Moscow on their attempted record-breaking flight around the world.

By radio and telephone, government officials and officers of the Osoviachim, the Soviet civil flying organization, spread a network of inquiry over the territory between Moscow and Berlin and as far east of the Soviet capital as Irkutsk and Kasan.

CRASH FEARED

No cheering message came out of the wilderness to reward them.

At 7 p. m. (noon Pittsburgh time), 20 hours had elapsed since the daring airmen started out from Tempelhof Aerodrome, Berlin, after a record flight across the Atlantic.

Soviet officials were inclined to believe that the airmen either never reached Russian territory at all or possibly landed or crashed in some uninhabited wilderness where there are no means of communication.

It was pointed out, however, that the French fliers, Marcel Doret and Joseph Lebriv, who crashed in the Ural Mountains on a long distance flight from Paris last September, were located within three hours after their descent. Osoviachim agents in the region promptly communicated with Moscow.

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE

Little hope was held out that the fliers had passed over Moscow and continued on, as it was believed some one would have been certain to sight the red, white and blue plane and send the news to the capital. Russia maintains a regular aerial service from Moscow to Siberian points.

The weather in the Moscow region was cloudy and cold. Unfavorable weather reports were received from places east of Moscow as far as Siberia.

Although doing their best to locate the fliers, Soviet officials maintained their usual placid fatalism. To frantic questions they replied "Nitchevo" (don't worry) and "Avos"—an expression meaning "Perhaps fate will help."

LIGHT COMPANY PROFIT SCORED BY PINCHOT

$6,000,000 in Excess Return Charged; Scant Cut Hit

HARRISBURG, July 7.—The Duquesne Light Company today was charged by Gov. Pinchot with annually taking $6,000,000 above a fair rate from its customers as the Governor branded the company's new rate cut offer inadequate.

The Governor said that the estimated $700,000 annually which the proposed rate cut would cost the company was only 11 per cent of the excessive profits which he contends the company collects annually from its customers. The rate change to which the Governor referred was the proposal made Tuesday to Pittsburgh councilmen.

PINCHOT STATEMENT

The Governor's statement:

"I have just been informed that the Duquesne Light Company has now made a second rate offer. In my opinion, this second offer of the Duquesne Light Company is not much more than another 'dime a month offer.'

"The company claims that this new rate, if put into effect, will cost it $700,000 per year. The Duquesne Light Company has taken nearly $6,000,000 per year from the consumers over and above a fair return and now it is offering to return $700,000, or approximately 11 per cent of the over-charge to the consumers.

"In my opinion this proposed return of 11 per cent of the $6,000,000 over charge is too small. The rates for the do-

KIDNAP ORDEAL REVEALED BY BOHN'S SON

Youth Freed by Band Blindfolded for Seven Days

By H. A. PAUL
International News Service.

ST. PAUL, July 7.—The detailed story of his abduction for ransom was told for the first time here today by Haskell Bohn, 20-year-old son of Gebhard Bohn, wealthy refrigerator manufacturer.

Young Bohn was released last night after being held captive by the kidnapers for seven days.

Bohn revealed that his eyes were kept tightly bandaged with adhesive tape during his entire captivity. He declared his life had not been threatened, although the kidnapers had discussed the unhappy fate of victims of other kidnapings in his hearing.

BOHN TELLS STORY

Bohn told his story in response to questioning by Detective James L. Mullen, of the Minneapolis police. He said:

"I entered our garage about 9 a. m. on the morning they grabbed me. While cleaning the floor, with my back to the door, two men seized me from behind and pulled me out of the car.

"They tossed a sack over my head and forced me out of the garage and into their car. After they removed the sack they took off my glasses and taped my eyes.

"After driving about for an

Six of Crew Saved, Say Ship Is on Sea Bottom

International News Service.

PARIS, July 7.—The French submarine Promethee sank off Cherbourg today during diving tests, with 70 members of her crew trapped in her body.

Six members of the crew of the submarine were rescued when she sank, an official announcement from the French Ministry of War and Navy declared.

The official communique declared there was still hope of saving the 70 trapped in the submarine.

The boat, built last year, was undergoing her first diving tests.

Rescuing ships were preparing to put out for the spot where she is believed to have gone down.

From members of the crew who were saved it was learned the boat is resting on the bottom of the ocean.

The Promethee, built under France's 1926 naval construction program, is a submersible of 1,550 tons surface displacement. It is 302 feet long, with a 30-foot beam and a 15-foot draught. The submarine is equipped with two Diesel engines with a combined horsepower of 5,000. The craft and others of its type are capable of 18 knots on the surface.

GARNER RELIEF BILL NEAR VOTE

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(INS.)—With President Hoover and Speaker John N. Garner the targets of opposing political factions, the House today moved toward a vote on the Garner-Wagner $2,122,00,000 relief bill.

Although the Democrats were handicapped by absent members engaged in primary elections, a split in the Republican ranks gave them hope of a decisive victory.

Representative Treadway (Rep.), of Massachusetts, led the fight against provisions of the measure authorizing loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to individuals. He assumed the lead after Representative Bacharach (Rep.), of New Jersey, senior Republican on the conference committee, announced he would support the measure despite President Hoover's threat of a veto.

Authority to make private loans, demanded by Garner and opposed by the President, was defended by Representative Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, in charge of the measure.

"I am opposed to playing favorites. When the government uses its taxing power to create a banking system, every citizen in the country should be treated alike."

BEER PETITION IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—A petition to Speaker Garner urging immediate action on beer-for-revenue legislation was circulated today among Republican anti-prohibitionists.

The petition was agreed upon yesterday at a meeting of the Republican anti-dry bloc.

Its drafting was completed today by Representative LaGuardia, of New York, and it immediately was passed from hand to hand by the Republican groups.

There was no plan to seek Democratic signers.

LaGuardia predicted 60 signatures would be obtained from the Republican side.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.)—Sources close to Gov. Roosevelt made it clear today that the Governor will not use his position as the Democratic presidential nominee in behalf of beer bills or any other legislation now before Congress.

Plane Falls on Road, 2 Men Near Death

RIDGWAY, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Victims of an airplane crash on a highway, Joseph Klingle and Walter Sundell, both of Ridgway, were in a critical condition in a hospital today. Klingle, the pilot, was not expected to live.

The plane, owned by Dr. S. G. Logan, of Ridgway, was demolished.

Accused Slayer Ends Life in Cell

GREELY, Col., July 7.—(AP.)—Emile Baele, 55, Stoneman (Col.), rancher who is charged with slaying his housekeeper, Mrs. Violetta Phillips, of Denver, July 5, hanged himself today in his cell in the Weld County Jail.

SHORTSTOP BILL JURGES, CUBS . . . SHOT, HOSPITALIZED

GIRL EXPLAINS JURGES ATTACK

CHICAGO, July 7.—(INS.)—Violet Valli (born Popovich), a former chorus girl, sat up in her hospital bed today and told how a "beautiful," but waning, love caused her to take a few shots at Bill Jurges, Chicago Cubs' shortstop. Miss Valli blamed Kiki Cuyler, Cub outfielder, who formerly starred for Pittsburgh, for interfering with the affair.

Between times she sent impassioned notes to Jurges, who was on a floor above, suffering from bullet wounds in the side and hand which will keep him off the diamond for three weeks. One missive said:

"Dear: I only wanted to kill myself to show how much I loved you. If only I could take some of the pain you are under-

Grosset, Publisher, Drowns in Lake

HUBBARDS, N. S., July 7.—(AP.)—Philip Grosset, member of a New York publishing firm, was drowned here late last night when a canoe overturned on Lake Lawlor.

A double drowning was averted when A. Hefferman, of Lindsay, Ontario, rowed to rescue Mrs. Marjorie Miner, of San Francisco, who was thrown into the water when the accident occurred.

Fay Kaiser, Wife Win Vote Paroles

John Fay Kaiser, former boxer and his wife, Mary, 1703 Fifth avenue, who pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence in a First Ward election conspiracy case, today were paroled for a year by Judge Elder W. Marshall. Their testimony resulted in the conviction of Jack Schneider, former First Ward constable, sentenced last week to a year in the workhouse.

Davis Plans Plane Trip to Olympics

SHARON, Pa., July 7.—The family of United States Senator James J. Davis will visit the Olympic games this summer and will use three modes of transportation to Los Angeles. Mrs. Davis and daughters will go by boat, the lone son by automobile while Senator Davis plans to make the trip by airplane.

Batteries — Fitzsimmons and Hogan; Meine and Grace.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

FORBES FIELD, July 7.—Thousands of women and girls stormed the free admission gates at Forbes Field this afternoon as they observed the second ladies' day at the home of the Pirates.

The doubleheader between the Pirates and Giants brought out more than 5,000 of the fair sex and almost 10,000 regular customers.

Heinie Meine opposed Fred Fitzsimmons in the early fight. The Pittsburgh holdout star of the spring term sought his fifth victory.

The first game in detail:

FIRST INNING

NEW YORK—J. Moore singled on the infield. Critz singled to left, J. Moore taking third. On the throw to third, Critz went to second. Lindstrom grounded to Vaughan, who touched out Critz and then threw to Grace, doubling J. Moore. Lindstrom reaching first. Terry forced Lindstrom, Piet to Vaughan. Two hits.

PITTSBURGH—L. Waner singled to left. P. Waner singled to right, L. Waner going to third. With Vaughan up, Fitzsimmons made a wild pitch, L. Waner scoring and P. Waner taking second. Vaughan flied to J. Moore. Fitzsimmons threw out Traynor as P. Waner advanced. Barbee lifted to E. Moore. One run. Two hits.

SECOND INNING

NEW YORK—Traynor threw out Ott, Hogan flied to Barbee. Fullis singled to center. E. Moore flied to L. Waner. One hit.

Divorcee to Wed Traffic Policeman

PASADENA, Cal., July 7.—(INS.)—Dorothy Ravi Towne, divorced wife of Joseph M. Towne, a grandson of the founder of the Yale & Towne Lock Co., and Lynwood A. Robertson, 33, Los Angeles traffic officer, today had on file a notice of intention to wed.

Girl Dead in Love Tragedy, Mother Goes for Body

A little woman in black boarded a train for Cleveland today to reclaim the bullet-torn body of Margaret Ruska from the morgue.

Mrs. Julia Ruska, of 628 White street, McKeesport, the victim's mother, as though impending tragedy prompted her, had sent a letter to Margaret, 21. In it she begged the girl to come home and enclosed $5 for train fare.

The letter was delivered to detectives today at about the time that Peter Christos, 51, the girl's sweetheart, had admitted, they say, he shot the girl twice. Christos, in whose apartment the body was found yesterday, maintained four other bullets surgeons found had been self-inflicted. He is held on a murder charge.

Police presumed the shooting followed a quarrel Monday night. They had believed the girl to be Margaret Kish, of McKeesport, and only learned of her identity when Constable Kish, of Port Vue, visited Cleveland yesterday, learned his daughter was well, and then aided in the identification. Mrs. Catherine Halcomb identified the body. Miss Ruska had formerly lived with her, she told morgue attaches.

Mrs. Ruska today said her daughter left home 18 months ago to seek work. From time to time she sent money home. Lately, she said, she has been asking her daughter to return.

GOV. PINCHOT ASSAILS 'ECONOMY BLOC' IN RELIEF BATTLE

SEES CUTS ROB CITIZENS OF ESSENTIALS

Choice Between Less Service, Local Tax Boost Necessary

HARRISBURG, July 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today struck back at the state legislators whose plea has been governmental economy before relief. In a message read to both Senate and House, the Governor said many of the proposed cuts would mean that "the people of Pennsylvania will either be deprived of essentials of civilized government" or that local taxation would be increased.

The Governor classified state expenditures under four heads:

1—Subsidies granted by the Legislature in aid of schools, hospitals and other local facilities and services.

2—Construction and maintenance of roads, prisons, hospitals, sanitoriums and other institutions.

3—Services such as health clinics and inspections.

PINCHOT MESSAGE

The Governor said in his message:

"Items 1, 2 and 3 represent subsidies, facilities or services paid for by the commonwealth for the relief of local taxpayers.

"If the commonwealth does not pay for them the people of Pennsylvania will either be deprived of these essentials of civilized government or they will have to be paid for out of increased local taxation."

House Postpones Action In Clash on Relief

HARRISBURG, July 7.—(AP.)—The House today postponed from Monday night to Tuesday final action on appropriation bills in the opposing "harmony" and "economy" programs of relief and budget balancing.

The bills, after being passed on second reading, were recommitted under agreements which will bring them before the House for final action Tuesday.

The Ways and Means Committee reported for passage the Bell (Allegheny) resolution for a Constitutional amendment to permit a state income tax for educational purposes. The plan, sponsored by Gov. Pinchot, provides for return of one-half of the tax to counties for local school purposes.

BACK PINCHOT PLAN

The Wade-Sheffer rural group of the House today added emphasis to its support of the Pinchot organization program and moved to augment that plan with additional legislation of its own drafting.

Today's action was in three parts:

Reapproving the "harmony" program.

Urging House committees to report at once the various bills included in that program, thus bringing all phases of the plan before the Assembly at the earliest possible moment.

Appointing a sub-committee of seven members to draft additional legislation which the rural members can support.

The supplementary legislation would include provisions for direct unemployment relief, but would "accentuate" legislation designed to advance the rural road program and city street construction for "work relief."

Bills providing for the repeal of acts creating the Greater Pennsylvania Council, the State Aeronautics Commission and the State Athletic Commission were included in a score of measures reported favorably to the House today from the Committee on Repeal Bills. They were part of a series introduced by Representative Fred C. Patterson, Beaver County.

Among the laws the repealers would strike at are those which created the State Board of Motion Picture Censors, Professional Engineers' Examining Board, Board of Real Estate Brokers Board for the Examination of Certified Public Accountants, State Board of Architects, Board for the Examination and Licensing of Barbers.

AWAIT HOUSE ACTION

The Senate after passing its second reading bills, recommitted all appropriation bills to await House action on similar measures, and adjourned until next Monday night.

The Senate measures were all of the restoration of appropriations of schools, homes, hospitals and mothers' assistance funds curtailed by passage of the Talbot Act and total more than $6,000,000.

Bills passed and placed on the calendar for consideration on final passage next Monday are:

Baldwin—Amendment to state constitution to permit state to borrow money from federal government when loans to states are authorized.

Coyne—Providing for ratification by Pennsylvania of proposed amendment to federal Constitution to eliminate "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

Salus—Two bills providing for flat 10 per cent reduction in salaries of all state and county employes in excess of $1,800 a year.

McClure—Amendment to state constitution to permit state to float $25,000,000 bond issue for state expenses in 1933-35 biennium.

McClure—To permit installment payment of taxes in political subdivisions.

SEE AINEY CASE DEVELOPMENTS

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP.)—Lawrence C. Hickman, attorney for A. A. Chapman, today said there have been "more developments" in connection with Chapman's charges against W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Public Service Commission.

The new phase of the situation, Hickman said, makes it necessary for Chapman, Hickman and "probably a third party" to confer tomorrow with either Gov. Pinchot or Attorney General Schnader.

Chapman last week stated that during a period of six years, Ainey received $150,000 from Thomas E. Mitten, late head of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit system. Ainey has accepted an invitation by Gov. Pinchot to appear at a hearing next Monday in the Governor's office to answer the charges.

Nominations Sent Senate by Pinchot

HARRISBURG, July 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot sent the following nominations to the Senate for confirmation:

Mrs. Mary B. Foringer, Butler, as a trustee of the Butler County Mother's Assistance Fund.

The reappointment of Mrs. Clara M. Allison, Cochranton, as a trustee of the Crawford County Mothers' Assistance Fund.

BOWSER AGAIN FACES GRILLING

Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, was back in the grand jury room today answering questions about his $200,000 hauling contract at the county airport and telling more about his bid of 60 cents a ton for moving dirt which he sublet at 12½ cents.

First Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt said progress had been made in the audit of Bowser's books yesterday, and thought the work would be completed today.

The jury was excused until July 18, when action if taken would be in the form of a presentment to the court.

Gov. La Follette Seeks Second Term

MADISON, Wis., July 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Philip F. LaFollette yesterday announced his candidacy for a second term.

In outlining the causes of the business depression he assailed the platform of the conservative Republican ticket and said progressive Republicans intend to "face the arrogant forces of entrenched privilege" in the coming campaign. The Governor asserted that the national government has become "the virtual partner of the monopoly system."

COUNCILMEN DISPLEASED

City councilmen, displeased at the complicated utility offer of rate reduction, will confer with Duquesne Light Company representatives late today.

Councilman P. J. McArdle declared the rates:

President of Council John S. Herron added:

"If the city solicitors have reached the end of their rope, let's kick the whole thing over."

Open 'Penny Pantry' To Aid Unemployed

DETROIT. — (INS.) — The "Penny Pantry"—a new cafeteria in which food is priced at 1 cent and 2 cents an article—was opened here to "help part-time workers and unemployed maintain independence and self-respect by paying their own way." Some of the dishes offered include: Soup, 1 cent; chopped beef and Spanish rice, 2 cents; bread and butter, 2 cents; coffee with cream, 2 cents; pudding with fruit sauce, 2 cents; cereal with cream, 2 cents; sandwich fillings such as minced ham, frankfurter, cheese and peanut butter, 1 cent.

BRITAIN BACKS REDUCTION IN BATTLESHIPS

Baldwin Urges Some Portions of Hoover Disarm Program

International News Service.

LONDON, July 7.—Great Britain's disarmament proposals, involving radical departures from the days when Britannia ruled the waves, were laid before the House of Commons today by Stanley Baldwin, acting prime minister.

Welcoming some portions of President Hoover's one-third armament reduction proposal and criticizing other parts of it, Baldwin urged a drastic cut in future battleship and cruiser construction and recommended reduction of the tonnage of battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers.

CAPITAL SHIPS

The most important recommendation made was that to reduce future capital ship construction by thirty-three and one-third per cent, Baldwin said:

"The Hoover proposal would leave the size of these enormously expensive vessels and the caliber of their guns untouched in future consideration."

So far as land armament is concerned, Baldwin said, Britain is "largely in agreement" with the Hoover proposals.

Baldwin's chief recommendations were as follows:

1. A one-third reduction in future battleship and cruiser construction.

2. Reduction of battleship tonnage to 22,000 tons and the maximum calber of their guns to 11 inches. (If agreement is impossible, Baldwin urged reduction to 25,000 tons and 12 inches respectively.)

3. Reduction of cruisers from 10,000 to 7,000 tons and reduction of their gun caliber from 8 to 6.1 inches.

4. Abolition of submarines or their limitation to 250 tons each.

5. Abolition of air bombing.

6. Abolition of mobile guns over 6.1 inches.

7. Abolition of chemical and bacteriological warfare.

8. Abolition of tanks over 20 tons. Tanks under 20 tons are not considered offensive weapons by Britain.

9. Reduction of aircraft carrier tonnage from 27,000 to 22,000 tons and total aircraft carrier strength from 135,000 to 110,00 tons.

RAPPED BY AMERICANS

GENEVA, July 7. — (INS.) — Great Britain's disarmament proposals were received with distinct lack of enthusiasm by the American delegation to the disarmament conference here today. One delegate characterized the proposals as "just another means of sinking the Hoover plan." He said:

"After all you can't slice tonnage off battleships like the fat off a cow."

Bone Dry Repeal Favored in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 7.—A bill to repeal the state bone dry law was accepted today in the Indiana House of Representatives by a vote of 55 to 33. The Assembly had been called into special session today to enact tax relief legislation.

PARIS, BERLIN IN 'WAR GUILT' COMPROMISE

Germany in Agreement To Make Final Debt Payment

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 7.—(AP.)—It was reported this evening that France and Germany had agreed on a formula settling the "war guilt" issue by writing into the treaty which will close the reparations conference here a phrase to the effect that it "completely replaces all previous reparations agreements."

The Treaty of Versailles, in the article dealing with reparations, requires Germany to assume the blame for the World War. This stigma has been more irritating to Germany than any other part of the treaty.

The reported compromise on this formula was said to have been matched by an agreement that Germany will make a final payment on reparations of just under 3,000,000,000 marks, which amounts to about $750,000,000.

It was learned today that a debts agreement between England and Italy and England and France which was reported yesterday provides that Italy and France will not be required to pay instalments on their debts to England pending ratification of such agreements as may be reached here.

NEW YORK—Fitzsimmons singled to center. J. Moore doubled to left, Fitzsimmons taking third. Traynor threw out Critz, the runners holding their bases. Piet threw out Lindstrom as Fitzsimmons scored, J. Moore taking third. Terry flied to Vaughan. One run, two hits.

Shipstead Proposes Terms to End Debt

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—A resolution proposing cancellation of the war debts if nations of the world agree to a progressive disarmament of 5 per cent each year for 10 years was offered in the Senate today by Senator Shipstead (F. L.), Minnesota.

The resolution also conditioned debt cancellation upon agreement of foreign nations to abolish conscription for military purposes for 30 years and cancellation of reparations.

Man Doomed to Die Forgotten by State

RALEIGH, N. C.—(INS.)—They sentenced Willie Rector, Negro, to die for attacking a white girl, and then forgot to execute him. And now, after being forgotten by the state for nine months, Willie must die unless executive clemency intervenes. He was supposed to have been electrocuted last August, but due to a clerk's error the order for execution was never given.

Mussolini Holds Birth Control As 'Crime'

ROME, July 7.—(AP.)—Msgr. Bernard J. Mahoney, of Sioux Falls, S. D., had a 20-minute audience with Premier Mussolini today, the first American bishop to be received by Il Duce.

He wore the full regalia of his ecclesiastical office and, speaking in Italian, told the Premier he was eager to meet a man "whom the Holy Father calls a man of Providence."

In reply to the bishop's compliments on his attitude toward birth control, the Premier said in English:

"To me, birth control is a crime."

hour, the car was driven into a garage, where they held me for three or four hours.

"Then one of the men led me down the steps of a house nearby and I was taken down into what I believe was the basement."

HELD FOR DAYS

It was in this basement, he said, that he was held until about an hour before his release Wednesday night. Mullens asked:

"Did they threaten to kill you?"

"No; they talked mostly about other cases in which the victim had been slain."

"Did they ever take the tape off your eyes?"

"No; my eyes were bandaged all through."

Mullen said there were signs of glue on Bohn's nose, indicating his eyes might have been taped. Bohn continued:

"They questioned me several times, and I was forced to write two or three notes to my father. I pleaded for them to pay the ransom so I could go home.

"They told me they were asking for $35,000 ransom. I told them my father could not give it, and they said no more about it."

Bohn was asked if he believed his father had paid the ransom, and said he believed it had been paid. Actions of the kidnapers shortly before he was released, he said, led him to this conclusion.

Gebhard Bohn, the youth's father, intimated today that he had some clue to the identity of the kidnapers. He said:

"We are going to get them. The hunt will start tomorrow."

Commerce Chamber To Mark Anniversary

The cornerstone ceremony at the new postoffice building tomorrow, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, will mark also the fifty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the chamber.

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the Treasury, will be the principal speakers at tomorrow's ceremonies.

Jewish Children To Give Pageant

Children of the Jewish Home for Babies and Children will present a Washington Bicentennial pageant at the home Tuesday afternoon. A luncheon bridge will precede the program.

UPSHAW PICKED AS CANDIDATE OF DRYS

Georgian May Quit If Borah Consents To Head Party

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 7.—(AP.)—William D. Upshaw, former Democratic representative in Congress from Georgia, today was given a second ballot nomination for the presidency by the Prohibition party's national convention.

Upshaw said he would withdraw if Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, or some other outstanding dry leader agreed later to head a third party movement.

Upshaw received 74 votes on the second ballot; Frank S. Regan, of Rockford, Ill., 62; Harley W. Kidder, of Barre, Vt., 2, and D. Leigh Colvin, of New York, 2.

Immediately afterward Regan was nominated candidate for the vice presidency by acclamation.

BORAH WAITING

This action followed the withdrawal of the name of Borah, who, convention leaders said, preferred to await action by a large dry convention to be held in Washington next week.

With the convention willing to nominate the Idaho statesman, leaders last night talked with him by telephone and then issued the following statement:

"The Senator greatly appreciates the compliment which the convention confers upon him in its willingness to nominate him for the presidency. He advises, however, that the convention do not make such nomination, as such a call should come, if at all, from a great uprising of the people to be expressed at a subsequent convention representing the united moral forces of the nation."

DRYS MAY UNITE

The reference was to a meeting of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy and the national conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment to be held at Washington next week. These include representatives of all the major dry organizations. Throughout the convention here there have been indications these groups would be interested in backing Borah for the presidency.

In addition Prohibition party leaders who have conferred with him have said that if such support is thrown behind him he would consent to make the campaign. Others close to Borah at Washington point to Borah's repeated refusal to head a third party and his assertions that prohibition is not a promising basis for a successful third party.

Before last night's session of the convention, a platform was adopted which included a declaration for American adherence to the League Court. Borah has long been a foe of such action.

SEEK FARM AID IN HOME LOANS

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP.)—The almost completely altered home loan bank bill slowly moved forward in the Senate today with senators from agricultural states urging relief for farmers as well as home owners.

Senator Frazier (Rep.), of North Dakota, resumed his efforts to add a rider to the bill for refinancing farm mortgages at 1½ per cent through a Treasury bond and currency issue.

The Senate yesterday substituted for the administration bill a proposal by Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, which would create a home loan division in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The Senate may vote again on this proposal on a motion to reconsider by Senator Carey (Rep.), of Wyoming.

Brewers Ask Permit For Exhibit in U. S.

LONDON, July 7.—(AP.)—British brewers, anticipating the possibility of a change in the American prohibition laws, are seeking permission to display their wares at the Chicago World's Fair, it was learned today.

Their representatives have approached Lieut. Commander Langworthy, representative of the fair in London. No action has been taken.

Collegians Set for Trip to Germany in Small Boat

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 7.—(AP.)—The German-built Ketch Stortebeker, manned by a crew of young college men, starts a 3,000-mile trip late today with a German port as its destination.

The Ketch completed the second leg of its voyage late yesterday, dropping anchor in the harbor here, for a final looking over and a farewell dinner to its intrepid crew. It started from Rye, N. Y., last Saturday and made Gloucester, the first port of call, on Monday.

The youthful skipper is Charles A. Hardy, of Chatham; his crew is composed of William Crow, of Rye, N. Y.; Albert Kerdel, of Baltimore; Peter Barry, of West Orange, N. J.; Standish Bacchus, of Detroit, and William Drewry, of South Orange, N. J.

The Ketch, 54 feet over all, is a staunch, trim craft, built for the trans-Atlantic race to England last year. Drewry said the ship would stop at the Azores, which they hoped to make in two weeks. From there the course will take them to Gibraltar, Marseilles and Germany.

Other Will Rogers Upsets Oklahoma's Primary

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7.—(AP.)—Oklahoma's first primary election was still in an unsettled state today with regard to several of the numerous contests which attracted nearly 9,000 candidates, and one of the questions was whether an unknown schoolmaster named Will Rogers would be nominated for congressman-at-large.

The candidate Will Rogers—no relation to the state's famous cowboy-humorist—rapidly was rising to the head of a list of 25 candidates seeking the Democratic nomination.

So lightly was he regarded by ballot tabulators of Tuesday's election, they ignored his votes until they realized its surprising total. With his vote tabulated in 2,122 of 3,309 precincts, it totaled 34,390, barely behind E. B. Howard, who was second with 35,614 votes from 2,774 precincts. In 2,774 precincts Mrs. Babel Bassett, outspoken foe of Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, had compiled a total of 44,833 votes to rank first.

Rogers is superintendent of the school at Moore, a village south of Oklahoma City. In his home county he polled only 83 votes. He made no campaign.

J. C. (Jack) Walton, a perennial candidate since his impeachment and removal from the governor's chair in 1923, topped a long list of contenders for the Democratic nomination for corporation commissioner on the face of incomplete returns.

SHOOTING OF REYNOLDS, TOBACCO HEIR, BAFFLES SHERIFF

UNABLE TO FIND MOTIVE FOR SUICIDE

'Torch Singer' Bride May Not Share in Huge Fortune

BULLETIN.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 7.—(INS.)—Smith Reynolds, heir to a $20,000,000 tobacco fortune, lay in bed beside his wife, Libby Holman, when a bullet ended his life, the office of Sheriff Transou Scott revealed today.

Making their first investigation of the Reynolds household where the 20-year-old heir received a fatal bullet wound, said by Coroner W. N. Dalton to have been self-inflicted, officers found bloodstains on the pillow and on the floor beside the bed.

Reynolds was first reported to have received the fatal wound while alone on a sleeping porch adjoining the bedroom where his wife was preparing to retire.

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., July 7.—(AP.)—Sheriff Transou Scott said today he was up against a blank wall in his investigation of the fatal shooting yesterday of young Smith Reynolds, one of the heirs of the tobacco fortune.

Coroner W. N. Dayton has officially recorded the death as a suicide, but Scott said he had no evidence upon which to base a suicide verdict. He said:

"In every suicide case there is a reason, and I can find none here. Neither have I any evidence to call it anything else."

Scott said he would return to the palatial Reynolds estate in the exclusive Reynolda section to talk with relatives of Reynolds, including his bride of a few months, the torch singer, Libby Holman, Broadway revue favorite.

Mrs. Reynolds, who collapsed when told of her husband's death, has been under the care of a physician since and has been allowed to see no one except Miss Blanche Yeager, of New York, a friend who is her house guest.

Scott said he also wanted to talk with Miss Yeager.

Meanwhile, speculation was rife here as to the disposition of young Reynolds' estate.

Reports were circulated that Mrs. Reynolds would not share in her husband's inheritance, but only in his personal property, the value of which was not known.

GIRL EXPLAINS JURGES ATTACK

going, I would gladly suffer for you."

POLICE TO PROSECUTE

Jurges gallantly said he bore no ill will toward the girl and would not prosecute her. However, police said they intended to charge the 21-year-old divorcee with assault with intent to kill.

Miss Valli shot the shortstop in his hotel room yesterday. She said today:

"I met Bill a year ago. Such a personality! He often told me that if things were different in his home in Brooklyn he would marry me. But he said he felt he ought to support his parents a while longer.

"Our affair was perfect for many months, and then gossips began to talk. It nearly killed me, because I could see that Bill's attentions were falling off.

"Bill turned cold. I became desperate. I had a gun, and I went to his room determined to kill myself just to show him I loved him."

Miss Valli neglected to explain how some of the bullets from her revolver struck Jurges, although in a note she wrote to a brother before the shooting she signified her intention of killing herself and "taking Billy with me." The girl was wounded slightly in the left hand.

Miss Valli said she was unhappily married at 18 and was divorced six months later. Thereafter, she studied dancing at Ned Wayburn's school and got a job in Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

'DRAGGED IN MUD'

In a letter to her brother, written just before the shooting, Miss Valli said:

"To me life without Billy isn't worth living, but why should I leave this earth alone. I'm going to take Billy with me. We were getting along famously, just as everything should go, but a few people like Kiki Cuyler and Lew Steadman forgot there might be anything fine and beautiful in our love for each other and dragged it in the mud. I know what I'm doing is best for me and I hate to do it, but . . . "

DENIES INTERFERENCE

Cuyler denied he had interfered with the romance except to admit Jurges asked his advice and that he told him he was "too young to think of love." Cuyler said:

"I merely told him he was too young in the game yet. I told him he should get established in baseball first and then think of love."

3 DIE, 4 HURT IN MINE FALL

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 7.—A fall of slate today killed three men and injured four in Edna Mine No. 1, nine miles west of here.

Three miners escaped, while a relief crew of 20 organized by the John Carr Coal Company, owners, dug out the victims.

Among the victims were the mine foreman and his son-in-law, who were killed, and his son, who was injured.

THE DEAD

PARNELL, GEORGE, 47, mine foreman, survived by wife and nine children.

REROLIN, ANGELO, 30, timberman, survived by wife and one child.

SEMENCAR, PAUL, miner, 24, Parnell's son-in-law, survived by wife and two children.

In Westmoreland Hospital: Edgar Parnell, 21, son of foreman, a motorman in mine; Martin Luzar, 52, brattice man.

Injured and taken home: William Menechin, 23, road man, cut about head and body; William Baughman, 57, miner cut about head and body.

The fall came without warning, according to miners who escaped. Those killed, died instantly, and while the bodies of Parnell, the foreman, and Rerolin were recovered in comparatively short time, it was not until three hours later that the body of Semencar was found.

Drys Report Finding Still in Operation

Prohibition agents today were holding Nathan Rogoff, 39, of 750 Clarissa street, following a raid on a three-story building at 2159 Hemans street shortly after midnight.

A 250-gallon still was in operation when they entered, the agents reported. Besides this they reported confiscating 150 small barrels, 50 steel tanks of 100-gallon capacity, and mash.

Poor Boy Ruled Rightful Heir To $100,000

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.)—A little boy who was born poor eight years ago at Wauwatosa, Wis., has won a $100,000 fortune. Surrogate Slater ruled yesterday that the boy, Terry Hardenbergh, is the legal heir of his foster father, the late Lewis R. Hardenbergh, a vice president of the Carnation Milk Company.

The decision said the boy was born to Clarice Tollefson at Wauwatosa on May 27, 1924. The mother consented to his adoption by the Hardenberghs in 1924. The surrogate decided he was adopted legally.

The decision prevented the sister and mother of Mr. Hardenbergh from receiving part of legacies they would have received otherwise.

FARMER LOSES LIFE IN FLOOD

SUTTON, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—While his father made desperate efforts to save him, Woodrow Hall, 20, farmer, was drowned in the flood waters of Coon Creek 10 miles west of Sutton last evening.

Hall and his father, Addison, also a farmer, had rowed into backwaters of the creek and were salvaging drifting firewood when their boat overturned. The body of the son was recovered shortly afterwards by divers.

The flood wrought much damage in the Coon Creek district, several dwellings being washed away and crops being destroyed.

Criminal Courts Holding Plea Day

First of the weekly summer plea days in Criminal Court, through which prisoners in jail without bail may waive grand jury action to speed disposition of their cases, was being held today.

Thirty-five jail prisoners and nine who had obtained bail had signified intention of entering pleas of guilty or of no defense.

POLICE PROBE DROWNING

Police today were trying to determine how Michael J. Martin, 55, of 1125 Sheffield street, North Side, was drowned in Lake Elizabeth, West Park, shortly after 4 a. m. His body was dragged out of the lake by William J. Drummond, 22, of 1535 Irwin avenue, and James Waltham, 18, of 23 Queen street. A watch and $113 was found in his clothing.

An autopsy revealed drowning as the cause of death.

Police said the dead man was a brother of Capt. Robert Martin, of Engine Company No. 47.

Capt. Martin said he believed his brother was pushed or thrown into the lake. He said there was a rough crowd of loiterers about the lake, and his brother generally avoided passing the lake at night.

GANGS KILL 2, WOUND THIRD

CHICAGO, July 7.—(INS.)—A new outbreak of warfare among gambling syndicates was signalized today by the shooting of Arthur Gould, 50, race news publisher, in dense traffic on the North Side. Gould was the third victim of gangsters' bullets today.

Gould's automobile was forced to the curb along Sheridan road by a large sedan from which several gunmen fired at the publisher. Gould suffered only a superficial wound.

It was the third shooting in 12 hours, James (Red) McGhee, roadhouse proprietor, and Bernie Larkin, a gangster bodyguard, having been killed by rival hoodlums.

JUDGE ORDERS SPEEDY END OF HUTTON CASE

Nurse Faints After Doctor's Story Of Operation

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—(AP.)—Irked at what he termed unreasonable delay, Superior Judge Lester Roth told attorneys testimony must end today in the $200,000 breach of promise suit of Myrtle Joan St. Pierre against David Hutton. Judge Roth said the trial was being prolonged without introduction of new information for the jury's consideration.

The judge also ruled closing arguments would be limited to two hours for each side in this suit, in which the pretty, brunette, twice-married nurse seeks heart balm from the husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist.

Eugene Eben, radio organist, was the first witness called for today.

NURSE FAINTS

Originally summoned as a witness by Hutton, Eben testified for the plaintiff yesterday. His story that he never had improper relations with Miss St. Pierre was to be attacked by defense attorneys in cross-examination in their effort to establish she was a woman with a questionable past.

Shortly before Eben took the stand Miss St. Pierre fainted and was carried from the courtroom when an obstetrician testified he performed an operation on her several years ago. She moaned:

"They're crucifying me."

And Hutton muttered:

"What does she know about crucifixion? I'm the one that's getting it."

EXPLAINS GAS PEN

Previous to Miss St. Pierre's exit, Hutton himself departed from the courtroom to the judge's chambers by order of the judge, who had been informed the rotund choir singer was carrying a tear gas fountain pen. Hutton told the judge:

"I'll show you why I carry this."

He displayed a note which threatened his life. It read:

"Lissen, Dave; it won't be long now. Even us guys give a dame a break. Why don't you? Your limp ain't getting you any place. You've got a gat, but so have a couple of other guys. You're on the spot, you big egg. Remember Zeke Caress and that Long Beach copper."

Caress was a race track bookmaker who recently was kidnaped and held for ransom. A Long Beach officer was shot in the case.

Hutton told the Judge he also carried the weapon to protect his wife from fanatics and kidnapers. The Judge reprimanded him for bringing the weapon into the courtroom.

Hudson Gets Lawyer In Row With 'Ma'

LAS VEGAS, Nev., July 7.—(INS.)—Attorney Ryland G. Taylor revealed today that he had been retained by Guy E. (What-a-Man) Hudson, estranged husband of Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist of Angelus Temple.

Taylor refused, however, to discuss any plans for a possible divorce suit of Hudson against Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson.

Nancy Cunard Sails After Harlem Study

AKRON KEEPS UP YACHT SEARCH

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—The Navy dirigible Akron still was nosing over the Atlantic today, more than 36 hours out of its hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., scanning the waters for some trace of the racing yacht Curlew.

The Curlew, manned by five amateur yachtsmen of New York City, had not been sighted since it left Montauk, L. I., for Bermuda, 12 days ago. All of the 26 other entries either had reached the island or had been accounted for.

The Akron, which is supplementing scores of surface vessels in the search for the missing ketch, passed over Hamilton, Bermuda, early last night and caused much excitement among the island populace.

Beatrice Vare Will Marry Physician

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP.)—The engagement of Miss Beatrice Vare, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Vare, to Dr. John J. Shaw was announced yesterday. The wedding will take place in the late summer or early fall.

Miss Vare became acquainted with Dr. Shaw at the time he was called in to attend her father, who is the Philadelphia Republican organization leader, in August, 1928, when he was stricken with paralysis at Atlantic City.

Mexican Attorney Reiterates Star Plans Suit

NOGALES, Ariz., July 7.—(AP.)—Reiterations and denials today cloaked the plans, if any, of Norma Talmadge to get a Mexican divorce from Joseph Schenck, motion picture producer.

Francisco D. Aguilar, Mexican attorney and former chief justice of the state of Sonora, was the authority for the statement the divorce action for the former movie star will be filed in Nogales, Sonora, across the border from here.

In Chicago, Miss Talmadge declared Aguilar's announcement was "absolutely untrue."

However, Aguilar reiterated that his associate, Vincent Riccardi, of Tucson, Ariz., had been employed by Miss Talmadge, saying:

"Mr. Riccardi is preparing divorce papers for Norma Talmadge. The divorce petition is to be presented before Judge Lopez, of the Sonora Divorce Court next week."

Kenneth Grahame, British Author, Dies

LONDON, July 6.—(AP.)—Kenneth Grahame, 72, noted British author, died suddenly today at Pangbourne, on the Thames.

Kenneth Grahame was born in Edinburgh in 1859. He was the author of "The Golden Age," "The Wind in the Willows," "Pagan Papers" and "Dream Days."

SINGER AND TWO WIVES LIVE IN SAME HOUSE

Father Rewed, But Actress Causes Pair's Reunion

By JIM MITCHELL
Universal Service.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 7.—In a situation unique in many of its aspects, Claire Adams, former motion picture actress and widow of Ben Hampton, is residing in Beverly Hills in the same home with her mother and her stepmother.

Miss Adams says:

"After all, we are living in a civilized age."

Her father, Stanley Adams, grand opera singer and teacher, says:

"Fate brought us together again after so many years."

Aimee Rozella Adams, the second wife, is united to the other three by a common bond—a love for music.

'FOURTH DIMENSION'

And Lillian Kennedy Adams, from whom Adams was divorced when their daughter Claire was little more than a child, describes their present situation as:

"The fourth dimension of matrimony."

So, while each of the four principals in the unusual domestic drama has his or her individual explanation of it, they all agree it is a most congenial arrangement.

The first Mrs. Adams, gray-haired and elderly, living under a common roof with her former husband and his youthful second wife, has worked out a most delightful philosophy. She said today:

"Mr. Adams and I parted many years ago, and although we have remained the warmest of friends it is well for one to realize when the curtain has gone down."

DESIRED REUNION

When Hampton, pioneer motion picture producer, died last January, Miss Adams returned to Los Angeles, grateful, she says, for the privilege of having had such a wonderful character for a husband. Presently the desire to have her parents together again became uppermost in her mind.

Through nearly 20 years, since the separation and divorce, Mrs. Adams had been living in Los Angeles.

Adams had gone to and fro about the world to Los Angeles, New York, London, Paris, Milan, wherever his career as a singer and teacher took him. Two years ago he married Miss Rozella, a Los Angeles girl, of about the same age as his own daughter.

Weather Conditions.

The southern states high is diminishing in pressure, while the low pressure area, centered north of Lake Superior appears to be developing southward. High pressure has spread over the country from the Upper Mississippi Valley westward. Showers and thunderstorms were quite general over the eastern half of the country during yesterday and last night, and it is raining at scattered places this morning. The rainfall was mostly light, but heavy in some localities. Chicago reported 2.02 inches, Chattanooga 1.30, Atlanta 1.24. Temperature changes were slight. Over the Ohio Valley states and the southern plains the change was toward warmer. There were no high maximum temperatures yesterday except in the Southwest, 110 degrees at Phoenix and in Colorado, where they ranged from 94 to 98 degrees.

River Conditions.

The Allegheny River is falling, while as a result of additional rains yesterday, the Monongahela River is still rising slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.5 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 10.8; Pittsburgh, 12.8; Dam No. 4, 10.4; No. 6, 9.7; No. 10, 10.3, and No. 12, 10.5. The dams are up. The Upper Ohio River will change but little. It will be falling by early tonight.

SMITH, SHOUSE HELP ELATES ROOSEVELT

ALBANY, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Roosevelt was a happy, confident Democratic presidential candidate today.

The big worry of the Roosevelt camp, whether or not former Gov. Smith would support the Governor's candidacy, had been erased by the "Happy Warrior's" announcement late yesterday that he would support the party.

To fill the Governor's cup of satisfaction, Jouett Shouse, Smith champion in pre-nomination days, whose candidacy for the convention chairmanship was crushed by the Roosevelt forces in the drive to victory, wired "Dear Frank" that he would do all he could to help the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. And late last night came word from Cleveland that Newton D. Baker, "dark horse" candidate at the convention, was backing the Governor.

PLEADED FOR HARMONY

The Roosevelt forces had said little about the rumors that former Gov. Smith might not support the nominee whose selection he fought so bitterly, but it was no secret that until he spoke all was not sunshine in the Governor's camp. Every Roosevelt leader, and the Governor himself, had pleaded for harmony and a united party.

Capitol Hill was wondering today whether the famous "Al" and "Frank" friendship would be patched up now that the party battling is over. The former Governor gave no hint as to that in New York and Roosevelt said just 13 words after reading the Smith announcement:

"Gov. Smith's statement confirms my confidence that he would support the Democratic party."

PLANS CONFERENCES

The Governor is busy daily with state business, but he is finding time to plan for his campaign. While the general outlines of his position on most of the pressing campaign problems have been pretty well set forth in speeches during the last year or so, he is preparing for the addresses on particular subjects which will provide the major spots in his campaign.

Yesterday he talked to economists about the effects of the depression upon agriculture and with members of the state power authority about waterpower.

Tomorrow Roosevelt will go to his Hyde Park home for a weekend of political conferences there and at New York.

M'ADOO SEEKS JOHNSON BOLT

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—William G. McAdoo, whose dramatic speech before the Democratic national convention swept Franklin D. Roosevelt into the presidential nomination, today talked with Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, who has approved the New Yorker's acceptance speech.

Johnson has been a critic of the Hoover administration almost since it came into office and his coldness toward Charles Evans Hughes in 1916 was generally regarded as having thrown enough of California's electoral vote to Wilson to elect him.

The former secretary of the Treasury also conferred with Speaker Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and predicted Roosevelt would carry California, President Hoover's home state.

McAdoo expressed gratification at Alfred E. Smith's announcement he will support the party ticket and described as "Republican propaganda trying to stir up trouble" reports he had thrown California's votes to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt because Smith blocked him in 1924.

McAdoo said:

"I felt sure that Gov. Smith, a fine Democrat, would support the ticket.

"There was no element of revenge in any action of mine at Chicago. If there had been, why should I have gone to Roosevelt, who led the fight for Smith in 1924?"

THOMAS GIVEN LEAGUE'S O.K.

CLEVELAND, July 7.—(AP.)—The League for Independent Political Action, which seeks to form a third party from the nation's minority groups, will throw its support to Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, it was announced ttoday by Emanuel Davidore.

Davidore will be chairman of the league's covention to be held here Saturday and Sunday. He added:

"While we plan to support Thomas, we are not committing ourselves to the Socialist platform. We feel that he is the best of the candidates for the presidency.

"We feel that neither of the two major parties has any social planning in its platform."

E. S. Byers, who will deliver the welcoming speech, however, has declared i favor of Gov. Franlin D. Roosevelt. Myers, a Cleveland attorney, managed the La Follette candidacy here i 1924.

Bridge Job Bonds Topic for Monday

A special meeting of City Council to authorize sale of a $500,000 councilmanic bond issue to reconstruct the Smithfield Street Bridge will be held Monday, President John S. Herron said today.

The bond issue will be sold at 4¼ per cent interest and will cover a period of 20 years.

Edgar Thomson Mill Given Rail Order

Due to the order placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for 20,000 tons of steel rails, plans are being made for the reopening of the Edgar Thomson works of the Carnegie Steel Company at Braddock, it was learned yesterday. Work is expected to start early in August. The number of men that will be employed has not been determined.

MINISTER AIDS PITTSBURGH BONUS VET

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Heinie Wagner, one of the Pittsburgh contingent of the "Bonus Expeditionary Force" here, has seldom talked at any length with preacher folk, and never until now, he says, did he ever say a word to such a one that would hurt the man's heart. Heinie reported that his single deviation from that policy a few hours ago was responsible for the sack of potatoes that is on hand in the East Liberty-Brushton-Homewood quarters.

Heinie is chief cook of the unit. His brick stove has the highest stack in Camp Marks.

The preacher, who figured on staging a spiritual effort for the boys shortly, paused at the mess tent. He said to Heinie:

"How is the faith of these men?"

The cook replied:

"The proposition don't get much of a play right now. This ain't the right time for it. But what there is of faith I'd say was low four ways."

HEINIE EXPLAINS

The preacher wanted to know what was meant by "four ways." Heinie said:

"We've been getting by okay, mostly till now. But today one loaf of bread was all that came from supply headquarters. Smoke rations are down to zero. That only means one thing—that us guys are forgotten men. The result is we lose faith in ourselves because we can't somehow make the grade, in our fellow men because they don't somehow go to the front, and in our government because it don't even pay its debts. The fourth faith is kind of low because we figure this ain't the time to lean on heaven."

The preacher went thoughtfully on his way, and a few minutes later the sack of potatoes showed up from outside the camp with his compliments.

Today's mess of black beans, stewed rice and potatoes wasn't so bad. If only smoke rations were a little stronger.

HOMEFOLKS FORGET

Gus (Cowboy) Blume, who had distinction enough before as assistant cook and one who could do a barbaric dance with his shoulders, made a hit as hard-boiled drill sergeant in the parade.

Fred Noble, of East Liberty, has made arrangements for the construction of a brick house. It will be of the tapestry design with black mortar. A local contractor is contributing the material. Frank Mallon and Ed Weisman, of Brushton, will assist.

Anthony Oliver took his two twin sons, Nick and Joe, 9, home for the Fourth, and returned with Cozy, 12. Oliver intends to give his other five children turns at visiting the camp for a few days each.

Mike Carkucci, of Brushton, asserts the only real complaint right now is that a lot of folks back home who promised to keep in touch somehow have forgotten.

Ed McClosky, mayor of Johnstown, paid a special visit to the East Liberty unit last night.

Dan O'Leary, who went to Walter Reed Hospital a week ago with leg infection, escaped blood poisoning, but is still convalescing.

POLICE CHIEF LAUDED

Members of the "Strip" unit, asserted today they were the "lost battalion." They would have missed mess today entirely if the Akron unit had not sent over a supply of fresh fish from Baltimore. John Lindenfelser is the "Strip" cook, aided by Charles Williams and Martin Leonard.

James J. McGrath, who has brought a half dozen contingents from Pittsburgh, is starting back for another bunch. He advises oncomers with families traveling by auto to be sure and have two spare tires for each car against the hazards of the Cumberland Mountains. He figures 1,000 gallons of gas for eight cars for the two-way trip. He declares the chief of police of Connellsville is the friendliest official on the B. & O. route.

A separate McKeesport unit has become established on Fayette avenue. They declare the main Duquesne-McKeesport unit, comprised of 70 men, has lost its real identity. Its personnel, they point out, includes outfits from California, Connellsville, New Castle, Wilkinsburg, Claredon and a dozen other foreign zones. The separatists also assert that proceeds from tag days and contributions back home have been totally absorbed by the non-discript unit and that they, the originals, haven't received as much as a pair of socks. The separatist unit includes the following: Fred Linn, Harry McLaughlin, Ed Fogarty, Marty and Mike O'Grady, Ed Gallagher, Pat Quinn, Charles Smith, Whitey White, Henry Carpenter and John Kennedy.

Olympic Star Saved From Raft in Flood

DODGE CITY, Kan., July 7.—(AP.)—Clyde Coffman, of the United States Olympics decathlon team, and three companions swam to safety, but another youth, Wayne Reigel, 22, drowned when a raft capsized in the flood swollen waters of Mulberry Creek.

Coffman, University of Kansas athlete, is visiting his parents at Ford, Kan., before going to Los Angeles for the Olympic games.

Talk on Employment Legislation Set

Benjamin C. Marsh will lead the discussion at the second of a series of open forums tomorrow night in West Park, North Side. Marsh is executive secretary of the People's Lobby, Washington. The subject for discussion will be "Does Proposed Unemployment Legislation Meet the Needs of the Hour?" The meetings are sponsored by the League for Social Justice.

POLICE AVERT OUTBREAK AT BONUS CAMP

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP.)—Police intervened today to prevent what appeared to be imminent trouble at the bonus marchers' camp on the Anacostia Flats.

It started when John Pace, leader of a Communist organization, the Workers' Ex-Service Men's League, in a speech to the men demanded the overthrow of Walter W. Waters, the veterans' commander-in-chief.

A thousand men moved menacingly toward the speaker as he shouted his demand for the removal of Waters.

SAVED BY POLICE

Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent, with several officers, moved quickly to the center of the crowd. He held up his hand and the advance ended abruptly. Glassford shouted:

"Pace has just as much right to speak here as anyone else. Any of you who disagree with him and don't want to listen, go to some other part of the camp and play baseball."

Leaders among the men supporting Waters waved their comrades away, and the Communist organization's leader was left with a mere handful in his audience.

FUND BACKED IN HOUSE

Meanwhile, at the Capitol, a $100,000 fund recommended by President Hoover to provide homeward transportation for the bonus marchers was approved by the House Appropriations Committee.

The resolution already had been adopted by the Senate. It would let the administrator of veterans' affairs pay railroad fare for the marchers and give them 75 cents a day for food until they reach home. This money, if not repaid, would be deducted from the veterans' final collections on their bonus certificates.

SEVENTY-FIVE SCIENTIFIC TESTS PROVE OLD GOLD COOLEST SMOKE

LABORATORY CHECK PLACES O. G. FIRST, EASIEST ON THROAT

"O. G.'s Finer Tobacco and its Freedom from Added Flavorings Make it a Definitely Cooler Cigarette," say Noted Authorities

"Conclusive evidence that Old Gold gives a cooler smoke . . . cooler than any of the three other leading cigarette brands . . . has been obtained through the most accurate heat-testing method known to Science," it has been announced by the New York Testing Laboratories.

"Seventy-five repeated tests of the four big brands confirmed this finding," G. Brinton Jack, Jr., Director of the Laboratories, asserted. Mr. Jack emphatically stated that the tests were initiated by the Laboratories solely as a matter of scientific research, and entirely without the participation of cigarette manufacturers.

"Accurate temperature records made of the smoke of each of the four cigarettes completed the proof that Old Gold is definitely cooler than the other brands," Mr. Jack asserted.

"It is not our province in this report to speculate on the reasons for Old Gold's cooler smoking qualities," Mr. Jack stated. "But we are told that Old Gold is a cigarette of the finest and purest tobacco quality . . . without artificial flavoring. This alone might well account for its coolness and mildness, since low grade tobacco, or tobacco containing oily flavorings, has a tendency to burn into hot and irritating fumes." He continued:

"These tests required eight months to complete. We purchased hundreds of cartons of the four leading brands through regular retail channels, and each brand was represented in each of the 75 tests. We employed the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, recognized by scientists throughout the world as the most accurate method of measuring the heat given off in the combustion of any organic substance."

Scientists of Two Leading Universities Check Tests That Prove Old Gold Best

Scientists of two leading Universities have checked the tests described on this page and their findings corroborated in every detail those of the New York Testing Laboratories.

Samples of each lot of cigarettes tested have been sealed in airtight bottles:

1. For scientists who may wish to check the tests.
2. To refer to in later years to see what effect the tests have had in improving other brands up to the Old Gold pure tobacco standard.

To any scientific or technical authority, the signed report of these two scientists will be sent on application to P. Lorillard Company, Inc., 119 West 40th St., New York City.

THE EVIDENCE OF SCIENCE

"This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B.T.Us. with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand X
Old Gold averages 155 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Y
Old Gold averages 156 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Z

"To further verify Old Gold's coolness, the temperature (Fahrenheit) of the smoke of each cigarette brand was checked and Old Gold's smoke was found to be definitely cooler than the smoke of the other three brands."

WOUNDED VET GETS MEDAL

Carl Holstrom, thrice wounded World War veteran, of 632 Industry street, Mt. Washington, has received a Purple Heart medal from the War Department, in recognition of military merit. The medal, heart-shaped, bears the likeness of Washington, and is one of those bestowed in connection with the bicentennial of his birth.

Holstrom, reluctant to discuss his military exploits, admitted he had been wounded in the head and leg by shrapnel and gun fire, October 6, 1918, during the Argonne drive. He was a member of the 319th Infantry Machine Gun Company and served 10 months overseas.

Autoists Here Face License Fee Boost

Odd job haulers who converted passenger cars into trucks, many to earn a livelihood because of unemployment, will face an increase of license fees, as a result of a drive by the State Highway Patrol. The State Bureau of Motor Vehicles points out that such converted cars are in the commercial class and must pay the higher rate, according to the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Bus Company Seeks To Extend Service

An application has been made by the Greyhound Transit Company to extend its service to Bedford, via the William Penn Highway to Armagh and Johnstown. The extension will be an amendment to the certificate rights of the line operating between Pittsburgh and East Palestine, O.

NEW LAUGHS ON AIR -:- Network Announcers Confess 'Secrets' -:- RADIO PROGRAMS TONIGHT

Comedy Team With Rudy On WCAE

Another comedy team enters the radio limelight tonight and simultaneously, Rudy Vallee's NBC network program, heard on WCAE at 8, takes on a super-humorous air. Ole Olson and Chic Johnson, comedians of stage and screen, nationally known as the ultra-eccentric type of "nut" performers, join Vallee for an extended series, making their network debut.

Mr. Johnson

Olsen and Johnson have appeared in vaudeville, produced their own stage show, "Monkey Business," and were seen on the screen in "Fifty Million Frenchmen," "Oh Sailor Behave" and "Gold Dust Gertie." They both sing, and Olsen plays the violin and Johnson the piano. They wrote the popular hits, "Oh Gee, Oh Gosh, Oh Golly, I'm in Love," "Over and Over Again," "Words" and "Broadway Rose."

If you've ever wondered what radio announcers talk about when they are not announcing, a revelation awaits you tonight. NBC is putting on a broadcast from the announcers' room of the New York headquarters at midnight over a network including KDKA. During the program the boys read some of their most recent fan letters and tell about some of the celebrities they've met.

Program Pointers

A portion of the addresses at a testimonial dinner to Gen. Albert J. Logan, marking his 75th birthday, is scheduled by WWSW from Hotel Schenley tonight at 10. Gen. Edward A. Martin, chairman of the State Republican Committee, is the principal speaker. Other speakers include Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, former commanding officer of the 111th Infantry; Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Councilman Robert Garland and County Commissioner C. C. McGovern. Maj. E. Lowry Humes is toastmaster.

Gen. Logan

"Object Matrimony," a new series of stories about the adventures of a young man who has been left a fortune on the condition that he marry within a given period, is inaugurated through KDKA tonight at 10:45.

Jack Denny and his orchestra and Walter Winchell, breezy Broadway columnist, are starred with Walter O'Keefe during the cigaret dance hour on WCAE at 10.

"Of Tea I Sing," a parody on the currently popular hit, and an impersonation of Weber and Fields by Georgie Price are heard on WJAS at 7:45.

French interpretations of American tunes are heard when Mlle. Diane Laval presents a program of semi-classical and popular songs from KDKA tonight at 11:20.

Add Brickell's "Pianoisms" program on KQV moves to a new period—6:45 each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday—beginning tonight.

Works of Brahms, Goldmark and Gruenfeld are included on the Columbia Symphony Orchestra concert, with Howard Barlow conducting, over WJAS tonight at 10:30.

"The Man Who Watched," story of how Rene Laennec, famous French physician, invented the stethoscope, is dramatized during the Danger Fighters program on KDKA at 9.

Fan Fare

Jane White, WCAE children's program director, is commuting between Pittsburgh and her summer camp in the wilds near Harrisburg when her busy program schedule permits . . . Welcome Lewis has served notice that she will play vaudeville only until September 1 . . . Inez Kaltenborn, the commentator's daughter, shows evidence of following her father's footsteps . . . Introduced to the radio audience, she ad-libbed with the greatest ease when asked to describe the gowns of some of the women delegates at the conventions.

Miss White

James Melton lost six pounds in one week while playing vaudeville.

Ranny Weeks has taken up water polo.

The other night Buddy Rogers met, for the first time, a girl to whom he was reported engaged.

Just a year ago, Lowell Patton, who opens the daily NBC-WJZ schedule with a song, started playing the organ for listeners . . . An inventory of his gifts during the year from fans shows gold fish, candy, flowers, odd coins, hats, shoes, gloves, invitations to dinner, ties, apples, embroidered articles and hand-knitted sweaters and vests.

By the latest count, 13 baby girls have been named for Connie Boswell during the last two years—and each of the 13 has a little locket as a present from the songster . . . Johnny Marvin is trying to arrange to do his broadcasts from Lancaster Island, in the St. Lawrence, by remote control.

More than 40 girls spend their entire time looking after Pat Barnes' fan mail.

Olsen and Johnson, who make their first appearance with Rudy Vallee tonight, got their start in a surprising manner. After rehearsing a vaudeville act in secret, they went into a Chicago cafe for dinner one night and astonished the manager by suddenly jumping to their feet and putting on the act. Failing in an initial attempt to throw them out, the manager let them finish—and then hired them!

ALIEN WARRANT FOR LANCASTER

MIAMI, Fla., July 7.—(AP.)—A United States Department of Labor warrant charging Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British flier, with illegal entry into this country will be served after his trial on a charge of killing Haden Clarke, fiance of Lancaster's flying partner, Mrs. J. M. Keith Miller, it was announced today. The trial is scheduled for July 26.

An immigration hearing for Mrs. Keith Miller, arrested on a similar warrant, June 22, is scheduled for August 1. She is alleged to have made false affidavits in connection with her status when entering this country on May 27, 1931.

The airplane in which Lancaster flew to Miami from St. Louis immediately preceding the shooting of Clarke, April 21, was offered for sale at $500 here today upon instructions of Gentry Shelton, St. Louis pilot and owner.

Archbishop Curley's Mother Dies at 92

DUBLIN, July 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Maria Curley, 92, mother of Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, died early today at her home in Athlone. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Curley died at the little farmstead at Gold Island, on the outskirts of Athlone, where she spent most of her life. Archbishop Curley was at her bedside. He spent most of his time there since the eucharistic congress, which closed June 26.

Party for Logan On 75th Birthday

Gen. A. J. Logan will be honored at a party in observance of his seventy-fifth birthday tonight in the Hotel Schenley. Brig. Gen. Edward Martin, State Treasurer and Republican state chairman, will pay tribute to Gen. Logan's 50 years of service with the National Guard and as former commander of the 56th Infantry Brigade of the 28th Division.

HOSTESS HOAX SUSPECT HELD

The correspondence school course for hostesses, which Mary E. Conway, of 189 East McMillen street, Cincinnati, was said by police to be organizing, has been held up temporarily. Today in Central Police Court, pending investigation, Miss Conway was held by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg on charges of false pretense and violating a city ordinance.

Detective William Sullivan investigated the business which Miss Conway was said to be operating from a downtown hotel, and through the Better Business Bureau sent Miss Rosemary Kennedy. She was offered a course for $25, but didn't accept, she testified today. Miss Mary McWilliams, of 99 Bradford avenue, Crafton, said she paid $65 cash on the promise of immediate work at the conclusion of the course. Mrs. Helen Straihearn, of 1209 Aiken avenue, said she paid $20. Detective Sullivan said the prisoner had no means of giving pupils positions when they had finished their course.

Four Cottages Burn At Conneaut Lake

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Four cottages at Conneaut Lake Park were destroyed by fire today. The flames spread to nearby pine trees and thence to two other cottages, which were damaged. The fire started from a stove in the James McBride cottage. Firemen from Conneaut Lake, Meadville and Conneautville were summoned. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

The fire was the second at the park in recent months. A hotel was destroyed this spring.

LEIDY, NOTED DOCTOR, DIES

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Joseph Leidy, famed as one of America's leading neurologists, is dead today at the age of 66.

After a protracted illness, he died last night at his home in Penllyn, surrounded by members of his family. He leaves his widow, the former Helen Redington Carter, and three children, Mrs. J. Hamilton Cheston, Philip Ludwell Leidy and Carter Randolph Leidy.

Dr. Leidy was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania medical school in 1887 and in 1900 was awarded insignia by the French government for his services in representing the United States on the international jury of hygiene at the Paris exposition.

Dr. Leidy was the author of a number of medical books and served as medical director with the 30th Division of the World War. He was a past commander of the Pennsylvania commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

Officers Compose Ore Vessel Crew

CONNEAUT, O., July 7.—(AP.)—With every member of the crew a licensed officer with the exception of the cook, the steamer W. A. McGonagle, of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company, was bound for the upper lakes today to load its first iron ore cargo of the season, the first ore vessel to leave this year.

The McGonagle was in command of Capt. Charles Grant, of Lakewood. There were 11 other captains and four chief engineers in the crew, and even the deckhands had master's papers.

Baldwin Volunteers To Stage Carnival

Forty volunteer fire companies from all parts of the county will take part in a parade which will open the street fair and carnival of the Baldwin Independent Fire Company Saturday night at the old McGibbney School grounds.

The carnival will continue until July 14. Water battles have been scheduled for each night. Fire Chief Richard Smith, of Pittsburgh, will be a parade judge.

Veterans Urge Bonus And Dry Law Repeal

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, modification of the Volstead Act and payment of the bonus were contained in resolutions adopted at a meeting of Homewood Post No. 351, American Legion.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

The most interesting society news today is of a wedding, as one might expect in these last days of the bridal season.

News has reached us of the marriage of a New Castle girl, well known here, a granddaughter of the late Thomas W. Phillips, at one time representative of the Twenty-fifth District in Congress, to a member of the old Italian nobility.

The bride is Winifred Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson, of New Castle, and the bridegroom, Count Maurice de Bosdari, of New York. They were married Tuesday in the First Christian Church of New Castle, by the Rev. Dr. G. S. Bennett, with only members of the two families attending the ceremony.

Immediately after the wedding the Count and Countess de Bosdari left for new York to sail for England to visit the bridegroom's mother. Later they will visit Italy and France.

Leave for Europe

The bride attended Holton Arms School in Washington, and spent two years at Wellesley College. Later she studied art at Miss Child's School in Boston, abroad and in New York.

The bridegroom served in the Italian Army during the World War, and has been living in New York for the past five years.

The members of the school set will have a dinner-dance of its own this evening in the Allegheny Country Club. And it's going to be a most attractive affair, with tables arranged on the terrace and dancing on the porch.

* * *

Now that so many girls have been married, we're delighted to hear of some engagements, giving promise of future weddings. Today brings news of a betrothal to end in a fall wedding.

Engaged To Wed

A a bridge in the Henderson home, Ridgeview, Glenshaw, yesterday, announcement was made of the engagement of Lucy Eloise Henderson, daughter of the C. C. Hendersons, to Albert B. McQuown, of Pittsburgh and Punxsutawney.

Mrs. Henderson and her sister, Mrs. John L. Marshall gave the bridge yesterday.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of the Thurston School, and her fiance, the son of Mrs. Mary F. McQuown, of Punxsutawney, is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College.

* * *

Sailing for Europe tomorrow on the Bremen will be Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman and Miss Thelma Watkins. They plan to motor through Italy, Germany and Austria and Switzerland. Mrs. Hershman will visit the Baroness Ketchendorf in Vienna.

To Sail Tomorrow

* * *

Among the guests at a luncheon recently at Devon, East Hampton, given by the Joseph H. Seamans, of New York, were the Harkness Edwardses.

* * *

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. James E. Lawton, of Lima, O., formerly of Pittsburgh, of the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Rosella Lawton, and Henry Michael Smith, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Announce Betrothal

Miss Lawton attended Mt. de Chantal Academy, in Wheeling, and her fiance attended West Virginia University and the University of Miami.

* * *

Miss Anna G. Kinley and Miss Ettie R. Haddock, of Pittsburgh, are in New York, where they are staying at the Hotel New Weston for a few days. F. M. Painter is also at the New Weston.

PARIS DECREES SIMPLICITY FOR CHIC YOUNGER GENERATION

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 7.—There is a special kind of simplicity reserved for the younger generation in Paris—at least according to the new fashions advanced by Paris designers. Evening clothes in current showings of important designers are noticeably marked with a certain style that is suited particularly to younger women who are choosing dance dresses and wraps for the first time.

* * *

DANCE FROCKS are often mere elongations of schoolgirl dresses—jumper costumes, suspender dresses, even aprons. Colors are the bright reds and blues and yellows of schoolgirly days. Sometimes short-sleeved white blouses and ankle-length skirts serve as after-six dresses, and go to the theater and to dances. Wraps are pertly short and youthfully simple.

* * *

LANVIN, ALWAYS an expert at designing the sort of thing young girls like and look well wearing, makes an evening dress in the suspender manner. Bright rust-red crepe de chine forms the skirt, belt and suspenders—the skirt cut on bias lines which fit smoothly over the hips and falls into fullness at the hem. It is shown with a white cape-sleeved blouse, with the neckline in a cowl fold, and without further decoration.

* * *

MOLYNEUX FOLLOWS more or less tailored lines in his younger evening clothes. The dress pictured, in white, is one of those new crepe materials which combines cotton, silk and artificial silk in such a way as to give an extremely dull surface. The short wrap with the frock is of black velvet. Bands of black velvet are incrusted diagonally on the sash of the dress.

Man About Town

Anita Page and Kane Richmond are Romeo and Julieting . . . Joan Burgess and Nick Blair have reconciled again (Oh, make up your minds!) . . . Bert Wheeler and Vera Marsh have it bad . . . Roger Marchetti, who is Howard Hughes' attorney, and Dorothy Layton of the magic lantern colony, are blazing . . . The Walter Donaldson-Kathryn Carruthers long-time Cupiding has faded . . . Cholly Knickerbocker wonders what's become of Emily Vanderbilt—who is in Hollywood.

George White and June Gale are having jolly moments . . . Junior Laemmle's current problem is a New York deb . . . Marjorie Booth and Leo Morrison have the tremors . . . The Theodore Krols (Virginia Lee Corbin) anticipate their blessed event in August. . . . Agnes O'Laughlin's betrothed is not the H. Thomas of the flicker news staff . . . That hotel man returned from the old country with the engagement ring for Lucille Page still buried in his vest pocket . . . Margaret Lee, of "Face the Music," is dangerously ill after an appen op . . . S. Piermont and Jackie ("Scandals") Feeley were secretly sealed last week . . . Mrs. Lew Leslie pawned the tribe's jewels again to save her husband's new show . . . Nan Britton, who did a book "exposing" President Harding, was blackballed from membership in a New Rochelle Women's Club.

The Frank J. Carmody-Dorothy McKeon merger plot has foundered . . . A survey of the Metropolitan Opera House revealed that some of the windows hadn't been washed in 30 years . . . Russ Columbo has signed with Fox Films for 5 years, the longest contract ever given a radio name . . . Most of the local theaters are renting at $500 per week, the lowest terms yet . . . Houses on the road are offering showmen the entire first week's proceeds—if they'll stay a second . . . Billy Rose, who offered a reward for a name for his newest revusical will call it "Bottoms Up" . . . The corporation that controls The Casino, where "Show Boat" is tenanting has banished all free lists—Ziegfeld himself having to pay for all passes to the press.

Gloria Shea, who looked like a sure-fire smash, has been released by Warner Brothers because of temperament trouble . . . The largest automobile parking space in the world will be fashioned under the entire Radio City . . . Two of the local showmen are rushing scouts to bag the gal who clicked with "I Wish I Were In Dixie" at the Democratic convention—whenever there was a lull in the proceedings . . . Lee Posner, the exploiter, is the latest to be marked for a shellacking by Long Island outlaws . . . The cast of "Cat and Fiddle" now have their own man in the box-office to protect their co-operative receipts . . . Last Week, however, they rated nothing for wages, because the net fell far below figures agreed upon . . . If George White does a show next year Eddie Canton will star on a percentage, sans guarantee.

A scallion to the George O'Brien flicker "The Killer," at the Winter Garden, which is so hammy the spectators at each performance heckle it—and then when it ends, they rise and boo . . . An orchid to The Review of Reviews' "How Racketeering Began," by Burdette G. Lewis . . . An orchid to La Harlow for her make-believing in "Red-Headed Woman," which comes in second . . . An orchid to the creator of The Mint Smash, a swelegant cooler-offer—One lump sugar dissolved in aqua, four sprigs of mine, two ounces of rye whisky, add a bit of mint on top—and then thank me . . . An orchid to the Hudson River Show Boat cruise which features 16 pretties.

Add silly ideas—the local stores that peddle girdles with the Republican Elephant or Democratic Donkey patterned on them. . . . Alfonso, the ex-Spanish monarch, had his agents here all week offering his N. Y. Central holdings for almost nothing . . . English flicker moguls now rate Janet McGrew (Mrs. Wesley Turner) as the British Joan Crawford . . . The reason one tony speakeasy in the 50s is never raided or even bothered by upturned palms is that a playboy Senator uses it for his local hideaway . . . Incidentally, moguls of the speakeasy industry here assert that not more than a handful of them have made a dollar in the last 6 months . . . I don't believe it.

If anybody but Roosevelt had been nominated, Raskob would have fathered an AT&T bull pool, intended to show the faith of Big Business in the Party . . . Business guessers believe that the next "billion-dollar racket," which is essential to any boom period, will be either television or air-conditioning . . . Last time it was radio. Before that motor cars . . . When the Roxy re-opens it will feature ideas that Roxy himself has been saving for his Rockefeller Center Theater . . . Alice Lake is keeping Charles Butterworth from getting too lonesome for Claudia Morgan . . . A fleet of cabs was peddled as junk last week to save garage and storage expenses . . . For five dollars per!

Frances Dee and Charles Boyer Are Like That . . . Paulette Goddard, who had it Reno-vated, found a new heart there . . . After weeks of fruitless advertising for a customer, the Shuberts paid a man $50 to take their 70-ft. yacht away . . . Fred Astaire will play the lead in "Gay Divorce," but Dorothy Waller's role is a bit, instead of the femme love interest . . . William Lovejoy, ex-head of the Harvard School of Drama, now with RKO, will make a tour of the universities this summer and fall to select new cinema talent among the students . . . They would have you believe that the local gendarmes are planning to vote themselves a 10 per cent cut in wages to avoid a stiffer slice . . . That edifice at 41st and Park has been torn down to save taxes . . . That is real gold in the crown of the American Radiator Building in New York . . . It's a girl at the Chet Smiths.

The Imperial Theater passes from the list of modern theatrical innovations next season—The Aborns having signed it for operatic revivals . . . -:- Plays and Players -:-

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Bert Wheeler, who recently jumped Hollywood and Robert Woolsey, will do his stuff on the stage again beginning tomorrow, in New York. He will appear in a "presentation" that also will feature Harry Richman, Mitzie Mayfair and Jeanne Aubert, the French mamselle, who once was married to one of the packer fortunes of Chi. Until Bert fled from Hollywood, Wheeler and Woolsey had been a team on both stage and screen for several years, their association including an appearance a few seasons ago as featured comedians in the Ziegfeld musical hit, "Rio Rita."

Blyth Daily, now appearing in New York in "Bridal Wise," has written a play, "Week-End Brides," which falls into the comedy classification. Miss Daly, whose stepfather is Frank Craven, is a daughter of the late Arnold Daly, first American actor to make George Bernard Shaw a popular playwright in this land.

* * *

Next Season. Cornelia Otis Skinner, who has just returned from a professional trip to England, will include her portrait of "Empress Eugenie" in her performances of the coming season. Written by herself, "Empress Eugenie" was alternated by Miss Skinner with "The Wives of Henry VIII" in her appearances in England.

* * *

Jean May, pleasantly remembered as a former leading woman with the George Sharp Players here, and Walter Abel, seen here in "Mourning Becomes Electra," are playing leads in summer stock in Stamford, Conn. . . . Joan Crawford's next release will be a talkie version of "Rain," which Gloria Swanson did as a silent under the title of "Miss Sadie Thompson" . . . Regis Toomey, alumnus and letter-man of Pitt, plans to play host to representatives of his alma mater who participate in the Olympics in Los Angeles . . . Irene Ware, from the Broadway stage, will make her talkie debut in "Chandu, the Magician," in which Edmund Lowe will play the title role . . . "Blondie of the Follies" will be the title of the next starring film for Marion Davies, with a cast including Robert Montgomery, Billie Dove, Zasu Pitts, James Gleason, Jimmy Durante and Clyde Cook . . . Barry Conners and Philip Klein have written an original screen script, "Pier 13," which will be the next Joan Bennett vehicle.

Joan Blondell Excels As Film Reporter

Mystery and intrigue supply an interesting theme for Joan Blondell in "The Famous Ferguson Case," which opened in the Enright yesterday. The story concerns the trials of journalism and moves rapidly along at the expense of a life and a lot of trouble. Joan Blondell is a reporter. In the supporting cast are Tom Brown, Adrienne Dore, Kenneth Thomson and Leslie Fenton.

Edwin Forrest Scared Boy Under Barr's Piano By Mad Scene

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Since I started the collection of old playbills, pictures and stage curios to be placed in the Carnegie Institute, a whole Noah's Ark of such material has been sent to me. Out of these things, rescued from the flood of engulfing years, about the most important are seven or eight volumes of bound programs from the old Opera House, now the Warner Theater. These programs go as far back as the year 1877, when J. Newton Gotthold was manager of the Opera House.

Newton Gotthold was still remembered when I was a boy, as the most wonderful fencer upon our stage. I never heard anybody praise his acting, though he must have been a good actor, but everyone raved about his ability as a swordsman. The actor today has as little use for swordsmanship as the parson of those days.

Mr. Seibel

REMEMBERS FORREST

This collection of programs was placed in my hands by E. J. O'Brien, a resident of Brookline, a playgoer whose memories go back to the days of Edwin Forrest and Mary Anderson. He saw both of these great players face to face in the old home of James P. Barr, still standing in Oakland, on Fifth avenue.

James P. Barr, one of Pittsburgh's pioneer newspaper publishers, often invited celebrities to his home, and that's how young O'Brien, who was his nephew, came to see them.

He remembers Mary Anderson—so does everyone else — as a beautiful angelic creature almost too lovely to be human. But his memory of Edwin Forrest is is different.

He was only a small boy when this happened. He entered the drawing room right after Forrest had been asked to recite. Forrest, who was a giant with a voice like one of the bulls of Bashan, started in to give the mad scene from "King Lear" as the boy entered the room. Seeing this terrible man rush toward him, bellowing in fierce rage, the boy let out a wild shriek and dived under the piano.

There were actors in those days!

TWAIN AND CAMPBELL

The first big attraction of 1877 was the famous comedian, John T. Raymond, in the play of "Col. Mulberry Sellers," based on one of Mark Twain's earliest books, "The Gilded Age." But Mark Twain isn't mentioned anywhere in that program; he wasn't famous yet, though everybody was quoting Col. Sellers' favorite line from the play, "There's millions in it."

During the same week Raymond played a comedy called "Risks; or, Insure Your Life," by the Pittsburgh playwright, Bartley Campbell, who also wrote "My Partner;" but the man who played the Chinaman in the Campbell drama, Charles T. Parsloe, was then playing the same role in a play by Mark Twain and Bret Harte called "Ah Sin."

PITTSBURGH LABOR PLAY

The play of that season which intrigues me most was called "Workmen of Pittsburgh," and was said to be "written by the late Laura Keene." She was playing in the Ford Theater when Lincoln was shot. This Pittsburgh drama of hers, in which an actress named Marian Mordaunt was the star, had a scene of the Point Bridge by moonlight. In that scene the hero cries out: "If I can't save you, we will die together!" In an earlier scene the heroine has exclaimed: "May heaven forgive you, John Leonard, I never will!"

VIEWS OF PITTSBURGH

Under the regime of John and Harry Ellsler, Newton Gotthold disappears from the scene. Perhaps fencing went out of fashion when Bartley Campbell began writing plays of labor struggles.

"The Lower Million" appears to have been another with the scene laid in Pittsburgh. In the third act was shown "the burning of the Round House," evidently a reminiscence of the railroad riots, which had just taken place, while another scene showed Pittsburgh as seen from the hills.

In this play appears Louise Le Bois, a Communist, showing that Bartley Campbell was up-to-date on the Red Menace. Of course there were Bolsheviks, under another name, in "Siberia," which he wrote a few years later.

We Pittsburghers do not realize that the American drama, as distinguished from the European adaptations of men like Augustin Daly, owes a great deal to that Pittsburgh dramatist, Bartley Campbell, who was one of the first to take native themes and characters for his plays.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

THERE'S a certain guy in this town that I like. It may sound impossible to you, but it's an actual fact. He'll probably be extremely offended by this little story, but it's too good to be permitted to slip by.

For some time now I have taken this chap around with me. That is to say, on an average of once a week for the past two months he has been my guest at various places. He's not a cheap bird, but it somehow seemed that I always wound up with the check. The first five times I didn't notice the situation. But after that it dawned upon me that my friend wasn't exactly the type of man who tossed his money away.

In spite of what they might tell me, I have always believed that everyone has a conscience. Even on Broadway. So I waited and waited. And a few days ago I had my reward. The phone rang and there was my thrifty pal.

"Say, Mark," he cried excitedly, "I've found a new eating place that beats anything in town. It's the last word.

"Good isn't the word for this place," he enthused. "You eat in the open, and they serve great food and marvelous wines. Will you dig up a young lady and eat there with me tonight?

"I'll bring a girl with me, too. You'll love this place, and tonight you're going to be with me. What do you say?"

I agreed to go with him. And, accordingly, we met at 7 o'clock and sat down to dinner.

He was the complete host. He ordered lamb for all of us. I don't like lamb, but that made no difference to him. He ordered red wine. I said I preferred white wine, but again he refused to listen.

What can you do with a bird like that? After all, the young lady and I were the man's guests. He was so proud of this restaurant—which, incidentally, I didn't like at all—that there was nothing I could say to him.

When the meal was over, he sighed contentedly, signaled the waiter and called for the check.

The check arrived. My friend took it and scanned it carefully. He drew forth a pencil and tapped it reflectively. Then he nodded with satisfaction—and handed me the check.

"Here you are, Mark," he murmured in a matter-of-fact tone. "It's correct." . . .

BEATRICE LILLIE is the wife of Sir Robert Peel. And since she told me this story herself the other night, I imagine it must be fairly true.

Sir Robert, from all accounts, is hardly a boisterous chap. Never having been out with him, I do not know exactly how he acts. But according to his reputation, he is quiet and unassuming.

At any rate, Beatrice and Sir Robert attended a party one night in the home of a Chicago millionaire. The people were extremely dull, and Sir Robert wandered into the barroow by himself and sat down.

The barroom was decorated as one would expect a Hollywood movie magnate to do it. Its walls were done in yellow. Painted clear around the room was a horse race scene with two nags running neck and neck and the others trailing along behind.

For two long hours Miss Lillie's husband sat in his chair and stared at the horse race picture. People wandered in, looked at him, had their drinks and wandered out again. But Sir Robert just sat and sat.

Miss Lillie finally entered the barroom and saw her husband sitting silently and gazing at the wall.

"How long has he been here?" she asked the bartender.

"More than two hours, Miss," replied the bartender. "He's just sitting there and looking at the wall. I can't understand it."

Miss Lillie walked over to her husband and spoke to him. He did not reply. She spoke again.

"Bobbie!" she cried sharply. "What on earth are you staring at?"

Sir Robert turned slowly in his chair and looked up at his wife. Then he turned back again and pointed to the horse that was running last in the horse race scene.

"You know," he said solemnly, "I don't think that last jockey is trying." . . .

CREDIT the astute Richy Craig, Jr., with the story of the actor who wanted to act but couldn't get a job. In former years, he had traveled extensively with a fellow actor. Now both of them were in New York and both of them were absolutely busted. Each was trying to find something that would keep him from starving to death.

The first actor took to hanging out in the Automat. He would sit around for hours at a time. Every once in a while, he would walk around the place and try the little doors on the machines. Some time, he hoped, he would strike one that would not be locked.

This went on for several days. The actor was really desperate for something to eat. He entered the automat, tried several doors—and then one of them opened.

Hurriedly the actor thrust in his hand. Out came a plate of ice cream. With trembling fingers he carried the ice cream to a nearby table and began to eat it rapidly.

He was nearing the end of the portion when he felt a tap on the shoulder. He glanced up to see his old pal.

"Yes," said the pal mournfully, "that's the way life goes. After all we've been through together. And after all I've done for you."

The man with the stolen ice cream looked at his friend in perplexity.

"Why what's the matter, Frank?" he cried.

The pal shook his head.

"You know I haven't got a dime,' he said reproachfully, "and you know that I'm very hungry. And here you sit just finishing your dessert!" . . .

WITH ALL this political talk in the air I am reminded that one of the best stories I ever heard was told by ex-Secretary of Labor James J. Davis at a dinner some years back. It concerned two men who practically grew up together. One saved every cent he made, trusted nobody and thought of nothing but the almighty dollar. The other man lived for his family and his friends and went broke more than once trying to help a pal in difficulties.

They often talked about it. The hard and thrifty gent called his old friend a fool and told him he would never amount to anything. But the other man merely smiled.

"I've helped a couple of pals," he said, "and they've helped me. I'm happier in my life than you are in yours. You're the one who is wrong."

One morning came big news. One of the Vanderbilts had died. The thrifty man rushed into his friend's office.

"Did you see this?" he exclaimed. "One of the Vanderbilts has died! I wonder how much money he left!"

The friend who believed that pals meant more than money looked deep into the other man's eyes.

"You wonder how much he left?" he repeated. "Every d——d cent." . . .

Love-Making Fireman In Sheridan

John Mack Brown makes love much as he fights fires in "Flames," film that opened in the Sheridan Square yesterday. Obviously, he enjoys doing both, and who can blame him? Autoist in Jail In Killing of Two WASHINGTON, Pa., July 7.—Andrew Churilla, 21, of Canonsburg, was held in Washington County jail today on a charge of manslaughter growing out of an accident in which his automobile killed two men on the lawn of the First Methodist Church, Canonsburg, June 17. Bail was placed at $4,000.

Churilla's car, it was said, got beyond control and careened over the church lawn where a Sunday school picnic was in progress, crushing the victims.

Harold Lloyd Interested In Play

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 7. After several visits to "Whistling In the Dark" at a local theater, Harold Lloyd is showing great interest in the picture possibilities of this mystery-comedy; in fact he tells me he is about ready to assure Joe Schenck that he will do the story after all.

Harold Lloyd

Heretofore, he has opposed it because it would force him to go to work immediately and because he dosen't approve of plays for screen vehicles. Audiences, he argues, know the denoument in advance.

No decision can be made for several days, however, as Harold has gone to San Francisco to see the inter-collegiate championship meet. Hollywood sent a large party to this event. Harold went with Douglas Fairbanks, Howard Hawks and Morley Drury, famous ex-quarterback for the University of Southern California. They had a special radio fitted up in their compartment to listen to the broadcast of the Democratic convention.

The other day a group at Universal were discussing the oddities of Hollywood.

"Well," drawled Tom Mix, "the funniest thing I ever saw or heard out here was a bunch of cowboys last night yelling themselvse hoarse at the dog races."

Photographers took no closeups of Helen Hayes when she arrived here to play the feminine lead in "Farewell to Arms." The reason was, Helen's forehead was burned from a visit to a beauty specialist in Chicago. Nothing serious, but she had been promised it would heal on the train . . . After a separation of seven months (the longest since their marriage) Irene Dunne's husband, Dr. Francis Griffith, is due here any day for a three week's visit. The pair will go to Del Monte . . . One of Charlie Chaplin's few appearances in Hollywood to date was a visit to Marion Davies on her set at M. G. M. . . . The door to Adela Rogers Hyland's office at R.-K.-O. has her name on it and beneath: "The Woman's Viewpoint" . . . Reminds me of that famous sign Dorothy Parker left on her door at M. G. M.: "Gone to see Irving Thalberg. Back next week." . . . The return of Erich Von Stroheim to direct "Walking Down Broadway" probably will result in Marion Nixon being switched to another picture.

MADDEN SAFE IN SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., July 7.—(AP.) — Owney Madden, New York's Al Capone, sat in a cell today and tried to draw comfort from the fact that for the present at least he will not go the way of Legs Diamond, Vannie Higgins and Vincent Coll.

Prison gossip said it might have been solicitude for his safety that led Manhattan's biggest beer and night club racketeer to stroll to the steel gates of Sing Sing late yesterday and demand admittance.

He had been sought as an alleged parole violator, but unsuccessfully. New York police had guessed he was hiding away in Canada.

Another theory about his sudden capitulation was that its motives were economic. The golden flow along the Rialto is not what it was and those in the know speculated that Madden may have decided to wait the turn of the business cycle in seclusion.

Park Bather Injured By Another's Dive

James Troiano, 19, of 510 Paulson avenue, was swimming in the recently opened Highland Park pool, when another bather dived and kicked him on the left shoulder yesterday. Troiano suffered a dislocated shoulder and was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

"Blood Will Tell" But After a BLOOD Test What?

That's the question that should interest every sufferer. The microscope tells a truthful story—the Laboratory tests are a matter of science — but what of THE TREATMENT? How soon can HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE be lowered to normal? Can the terrible pain of stomach troubles be relieved? Will the treatment stop the rheumatic pains racking the muscles, and will the nerve-breaking insomnia yield? Will unsightly skin ailments disappear under treatment? Can the workingman and his family afford these treatments? All these questions find happy answers in the Health Service offered by this Institute.

Symptoms of a faulty blood stream we are successfully correcting: Anemia, Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Nervous Disorders, Skin Disorders—Psoriasis, Eczema, Acne, Impure Blood—Stomach Troubles. Over 40,000 treatments have been given at this Laboratory.

Chicken Thieves Fired On, Escape

In a five-mile chase of suspected chicken thieves, early today, Chief of Police Joseph Sellnecht, of Shaler Township, and County Detective John Duderstadt, fired two shots, which went through the pursued machine, as the suspects fled. The officers sighted the car near the home of Carl E. Scholl, near Glenshaw, who had complained that chickens were being stolen.

City Street Worker Hit by Automobile

2 HELD, 1 HURT IN MINE CLASH

FAIRMOINT, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—Two men were under arrest today and a picket badly injured in a hospital, following an outbreak at the Barnesville mine of the Consolidation Coal Company.

John Snider, a miner, is charged with reckless driving and Sam DeMarco, a picket, is accused of attempting to assault miners with an umbrella. Guy Carifonia, an aged picket, knocked down by Snider's automobile as it sought to evade irate pickets, suffered injuries.

Officers said Snider, attacked by pickets, swerved his car to avoid them, striking Carifonia. Later, they say, DeMarco led an attack on a truckload of miners. Activities occurred yesterday while 500 men guarded the Monongah mines without violence.

TRUCK FREIGHT PERMIT FOUGHT

Joseph G. Darby, of Los Angeles avenue, who owns 19 trucks, was opposed as he appeared before Commissioner Samuel Walker, of the Public Service Commission seeking a certificate to transport freight within a 30-mile radius of Pittsburgh.

Not only the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, but all independent truckers of the Pittsburgh territory appeared. They claim the territory is sufficiently covered.

Dennis J. Loughman, who wants a certificate to deliver freight by truck between Pittsburgh and Waynesburg, by way of Washington and Amity and thence to the state line at Mt. Morris, also appeared before Commissioner Walker.

Mine Pickets Riot; One Hurt, 8 Held

WHEELING, W. Va., July 7.—One miner is in the hospital and eight strikers are in Belmont County Jail as the result of a near riot at Provident mine, St. Clairsville, this morning. Four hundred pickets became unruly on road leading to the mine. A National Guard airplane dispersed the crowd. George W. Issmic suffered a fractured skull.

Six auto loads of miners were stoned by pickets at Dillonvale mine, Jefferson County. Several arrests were made.

Man Ill in Cell Dies in Hospital

David Babin, 40, living at the Helping Hand, Water street, died in Allegheny General Hospital early today a short time after being taken there from Central Police Station. He was arrested at the Helping Hand last night on a charge of drunkenness.

Super-Dredges Built Here Start for Service On Mississippi

Pittsburgh latest contribution to waterways developments are two super-dredges today en route to Memphis for use on the lower Mississipi River.

The boats, U. S. Ockerson and U. S. Potter, were built by the Dravo Contracting Company at Neville Island and are two of the largest and most powerful on inland waters. They are 214 feet long, weigh 1,500 tons and were built at the cost of $452,000 each. Three more are under construction. The U. S. Dundee is expected to be finished within 10 days.

The suction dredge opening is 32 feet wide and lowers to the depth of 20 feet. In can remove 1,600 cubic yards of material an hour. Two suction pipes draw the sand through a pump, with disposal possible from either side of the boat through 32-inch pipes. These pipes connect to equal size lines stretched on pontoons to the shore. The boats are twin-screw drive.

Capt. C. D. Ferguson, of Memphis, and with 42 years in government service, will be master of the Potter. Capt. William M. Smith, Memphis, will be in charge of the Ockerson.

WOMAN AUDITOR ASKS PROBE

Miss Pauline Dillon, first woman auditor of Coraopolis, today was pondering her next move to obtain a requested investigation of the borough's affairs, following her refusal to sign the auditors' report until a probe had been made.

Two auditors, John B. Foster and William J. Lawrence, signed the report, but Miss Dillon sent a letter to Council last night explaining that "irregularities" had been found sufficient to justify a conference with the finance committee. She did not disclose the nature of the alleged irregularities. Council indicated that she would be asked to resign one of her two positions, secretary of the board of health and auditor.

Miss Dillion today said:

"It is strange they just found out I had two jobs, neither paying much. As to the audit I am undecided. They wanted me to sign the report and investigate afterwards. This I refused to do."

Dry Is One Who Won't Give Away Any of His Liquor

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Having covered both political conventions, we are unloading some softboiled observations:

We never understood politics, and we always will.

No convention is a success unless it splits the party.

The man of the hour never will admit his 60 minutes are up.

Any local boy who thinks he is a national rates this telegram:

"Come home. You're still a local boy."

You cannot tell which way the cat will jump from the way his tail is pointing.

A dry is a politician who won't share his liquor. A wet is a statesman who will share it. Provided it's yours.

That a politician is like a witch doctor smacking a sick Zulu with a club. He's going to save the country his way or not at all.

That there may be a third party organized by Republican and Democratic alternates who didn't get their pictures taken in Chicago.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

VERNON, Tex., July 8.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Ranches all gone? Yeah? Well, I am on one right now of 600,000 acres, belonging to W. T. Waggoner, with 25,000 cattle, and some of the best horses in any state. He is one cowman that was smart enough to solve the low prices of cattle, and make ranches pay. Every cow has got her own oil well.

Will Rogers

The town this will sent from is Vernon, an old-time cowtown, but now a place that is a real modern Claremore. Courthouse bigger than Garner's Capitol in Washington. Garner is the talk of everybody in Texas. These people down here don't know that there is a guy named Roosevelt mixed up with him in this new enterprise. The ticket down here is "Garner and Garner." Yours, Will.

SAFETY MEN'S BATTLE NOW DEADLOCKED

Action Before Civil Service Board At Standstill

The fight by discharged police and firemen who charge Mayor Charles H. Kline with firing them because of political differences, was "anybody's battle" today with action before the Civil Service Commission at a standstill.

John Heinz, president of the Firemen's Association, and Fred W. Baer, of Washington, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, returned today from Erie, where they conferred with Edward Allen, grand president of the Fraternal Order of Police. They reported to Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, counsel for the ousted police and firemen, but would make no public statement.

DISCREPANCY FOUND

Publication of the list of dismissed men, it was said, brought to light the fact that whereas Council ordered 162 policemen and 98 firemen of the "seven-year" classification dropped, 28 police and seven firemen not so classified were included in the dismissal order.

Council's action in abolishing 162 jobs in the police bureau and 98 in the fire bureau, and in appropriating more money for the police and fire pension funds, was interpreted to mean that all of the 260 men who were dropped from the payrolls would be pensioned, since all of the "seven-year-men" are eligible for pensions.

COUNCIL OVERRIDEN

Inclusion of the 35 men not eligible for pension means, it was said, that Council's wishes were disregarded. The number of others eligible for pension, but retained in both bureaus, is great enough that it was unnecessary to fire comparatively young men.

Dismissed men were also speculating today as to the reason for the firing of 80 policemen and 31 firemen and the pensioning of the remaining 82 police and 67 firemen included in Council's orders.

The 13 police and firemen who have appealed to the Civil Service Commission for reinstatement on the grounds that they were illegally dismissed, marked time pending possible councilmanic action and possible criminal action against city government heads.

PENSION FUNDS CRITICIZED

Both the fire and police pension funds are on an unscientific basis, F. J. Owen, actuary for the Berkshire Life Insurance Company, of Pittsfield, Mass., told council.

Owen was hired by City Controller James P. Kerr to make a survey after the Chamber of Commerce had criticized the funds.

The municipal fund, Owen said a preliminary survey showed, is in good shape. The survey will take about 15 days at $50 a day.

Council President John S. Herron said:

"We want to satisfy the Chamber of Commerce. We think our pensions funds are going along very well."

Home Burns, Man Faces Arson Charge

Charles Cuda, 40, arrested in connection with a fire in his home, 224 Alpine avenue, July 4, was held for court on an arson charge today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. Police testified they found two five-gallon cans of gasoline and gasoline-soaked tubs in the cellar. Cuda denied firing the building, or placing the gasoline.

Meadville Woman Faces Check Charge

Mrs. Mary Meade, 47, of Meadville, was ordered turned over to New Orlean's Federal Court by Judge Nelson McVicar today. She was apprehended at the request of the Louisiania authorities, who charged she passed a $30 Spanish-American war veteran's check.

Another Talkie Program at Mosque

Syria Temple will stage another sound motion picture show at the Mosque Saturday for Shriners and their families. The performance will begin at 8:15. Admittance will be on presentation of membership cards.

Ruling Follows Legal Battle of Divorced Parents

Mrs. Mildred A. Teresi, 340 Lamarido street, Brookline, was awarded custody of her three children today by Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court. The decision, which followed an agreement of counsel, ended a court battle between the woman and her divorced husband.

In procuring a writ of habeas corpus, she charged her divorced husband, Samuel T. Teresi, of the El Tower Apartment Hotel, took the children, June 21, under the pretext of taking them to a swimming pool, and did not return them to her.

The children are Howard, 8; Marilyn, 6, and Samuel H., Jr., 4.

Evidence in the divorce suit, obtained by Teresi, was placed in the record. Mrs. Teresi contested the divorce suit and filed an appeal in the Superior Court.

Artillerymen Will Go to Camp July 15

A special train will carry 700 officers and men of the 176th Field Artillery to Camp Tobyhanna July 15 for the annual two-week military maneuvers. The men will march from the armory in Oakland to the East Liberty Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, where they will entrain.

Dedicate Pumping Station Tomorrow

The new $900,000 Brilliant Pumping Station at Aspinwall will be dedicated at 2 p. m. tomorrow, Managing Engineer James H. Kennon, of the Bureau of Water, has announced. Addresses are scheduled by Councilmen, Mayor Kline and Kennon.

Patrol Driver Freed In Death of Girl

Robert Purvis, North Side patrol driver, today was exonerated in the death of Laverne Palmer, 6, in Main street, Sharpsburg, June 20, while taking prisoners to the workhouse. Testimony indicated the girl stepped into the patrol's path.

OFFICER OPENS FIRE AS TRIO ATTACKS

3 Alleged Holdup Men Trapped, 2 Flee Deserting Pal

Police today were seeking to identify the two companions of Joseph Leona, 21, of 414 Cedarville street, a robbery suspect, who was shot and seriously wounded at midnight by Patrolman Frank Smola.

The shooting occurred in a garage in the rear of 360 Pacific avenue, which Patrolman Smola had been detailed to watch. An automobile which police say figured in several holdups and robberies lately was housed there.

According to Patrolman Smola's report he followed three men into the garage. They were changing license plates on the car he was watching, he reported.

Drawing his revolver, the officer said he commanded the suspects to throw up their hands. He was attacked and the men attempted to flee. The officer fired three shots and Smola said he heard Leona cry out.

Police Lieut. John Held, answering Smola's alarm, found Leona lying in the rear of a residence at 361 Pacific avenue. The others escaped.

POLICE SEEKING 'BABY BANDITS'

A quartet of baby gunmen that held up the orchestra and 5 couples in the Trianos Dancing Studio, second floor, 416 Federal street, last night, were the object of a police search today.

Three of the bandits were described as 12-year-olds. The oldest, about 15, waving the only weapon in the crowd, stopped the orchestra and ordered a lineup of the dancers.

During the holdup the leader snatched the cash box containing the dancers' dimes from the proprietor, Louis Dikos. Signaling to the others that he had the cash, the four departed. In the box was $10, Dikos said.

The bandits were hatless and coatless. They wore no masks.

Mounted Policeman Upset by Truck

Mounted Patrolman Frank Froelich and his horse were slightly injured when a tarpaulin on a truck knocked down both horse and rider in Fourth avenue yesterday. At Patrolman Froelich's orders the truck swung around to pass another car. As it was passing the officer the tarpaulin struck the horse, knocking it down and pinning the officer under it. The truck did not stop, the report said.

Seeks to Reclaim Land from Car Line

A suit that will test the ability of former owners to regain property condemned for the right-of-way of the Pittsburgh, Butler, Harmony and New Castle Railway Company was filed in Common Pleas Court by Belle R. McKee, of Ross Township.

She seeks ejectment of the company from property on Girtys Run road, alleging it has no right there since it abandoned its line after 1931.

Awards for Truck Drivers Tonight

Plaques and certificates will be awarded tonight, in Moose Temple, to fleets and drivers who have established a record for reducing traffic accidents by 11.5 per cent during the fifth interfleet truck safety contest staged under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council and the Better Traffic Committee.

Detroit Honors Detective Here

The official thanks of Detroit was extended today to Robert L. McMillen, veteran county detective by Chief of Police Fred Frahm. The appreciation, in a letter sent Chief George W. Murren, was due to McMillen's arrest of Linton Alvin, coal miner of Collier township, wanted in Detroit two years for the murder of Morgan Robertson.

Numbers Suspect Seized in McKeesport

Francis Angert, 27, of 211 Fifth avenue, Homestead, was arrested late yesterday by Motorcycle Policeman Jack Morton, of McKeesport, and charged with violating a city ordinance. Angert, alleged numbers pickup man, when searched had $14 in silver and bills and a number of lottery slips for a numbers pool. He was later released on a $50 forfeit.

Court Grants Dry Ban Against Inn

A temporary injunction against the Rosebud inn, Linhart, Wilkins Township, was directed today by Judge Nelson McVicar at the request of prohibition agents. Final hearing was set for September 13.

COACHES SHOW BOYS' INGENUITY

Material for Many Of Parts Came From Scraps

Some conception of what high school boys can accomplish in the way of craftsmanship, using for the most part materials obtainable from the family scrap heap, may be gained by a visit to the Carnegie Museum. There state entries from Pennsylvania in the $75,000 competition of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild are being displayed and judged this week.

The exhibit comprises some 180 brilliantly colored models of the famous royal coach of Napoleon. Each was built from plans supplied free by the guild, and the boy was at liberty to obtain his materials where he chose. The result is an array of models which are, to superficial inspection, absolutely identical. Only the judges, armed with a formidable array of measuring instruments, can distinguish among the entries.

They began work Tuesday and expect to conclude July 19, when they hope to have the score for each of the entries. It will be fully itemized, covering the 230 different points involved in the appraisal of each model. It will be possible to take any coach, check any dimension in question, and show exactly why it received the score it was given on that dimension.

Many different materials enter into each coach. There is wood for the body and tongue, obtained as a rule from scrap. There are brass, tin, and galvanized iron, also easily procured. Glass from used photography plates makes ideal window material. Spools turned down can be fashioned into first-class hubs for the wheels, and a piece of soft leather from the upper of an old shoe makes a covering for the tongue.

Each item, however, has been transformed in the process of coach building to such a degree that the aggregate, represented by the finished model, gives not the slightest hint of its plebian ancestry. Visitors, in fact, have taken a special fancy to several of the gay little entries, more than one of which will doubtless find its way into a permanent museum exhibit, here or elsewhere.

WOMAN DRIVER HURT AS AUTO PLUNGES

Forced from Road, Car Drops 35 Feet Over Embankment; Girl in Path Saves Sister

A woman was injured and two girls were unhurt when an automobile plunged down a 35-foot embankment on Lemon's Hill, Versailles Township, late yesterday.

Mrs. Gertrude Robinson, 30, of 814 Enterprise street, McKeesport, suffered an injury to the spine and cuts and bruises when her automobile skidded on a trolley rail, crashed through a fence and fell 35 feet. Mrs. Robinson crawled out and walked away from the wreck. She told police that a car bearing an Ohio license plate forced her to make a sharp turn that caused her to skid.

SISTERS ESCAPE

Henrietta and Gloria Buchanan, of Lemon street, McKeesport, narrowly escaped injury from Mrs. Robinson's car. When Gloria saw the automobile skid she pulled her sister from its path.

Frank Bason, 32, of Altoona, suffered fractures of two ribs and other injuries when his automobile crashed into two trucks on a hill near Murraysville. Bason, en route to Pittsburgh, found the road blocked by two eastbound trucks, one of which was passing the other, he told physicians at Pittsburgh Hospital, where he was taken.

CYCLIST HURT

Hugh Patton, 20, of 1544 Westmoreland street, suffered injuries to his left arm, face and body when the motorcycle on which he was riding was in collision with an automobile driven by Albert C. Rudolph, of 3034 Shady avenue, at Lincoln and Lemington avenues, shortly after midnight.

Police today were seeking the driver of a mail truck alleged to have run away after a collision with the automobile of A. R. Willis, of 818 Walnut street, Edgewood, on the Riverton road near Baldwin street. Mrs. E. C. Serdinig, 55, of the Walnut street address, was injured. Willis told police the truck driver did not stop.

Asks Public to Aid Goodwill Industries

Oscar Raup, general manager of the Goodwill Industries, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street, has issued an appeal to residents to accept Goodwill bags to be filled with unwanted articles. These will be repaired by Goodwill workers and sold at nominal cost to reimburse the workers as a means of reducing unemployment. Those desiring the bags are asked to communicate by telephone with the Goodwill organization.

Shenango Traction Petition Opposed

Permission to abandon trolley service between Wheatland and West Middlesex, asked by the Shenango Valley Traction Company, is being opposed by residents of the communities.

Formal protests were lodged before Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker, it being asserted if the line is abandoned, many residents will move.

The company claims it is losing money.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

Divorces Teacher, Charging Desertion

On a charge of desertion, a divorce was granted in Common Pleas Court to Joseph L. Desant, Versailles, foreman at the National Tube Company, from Grace E. Desant, Elizabeth Township school teacher. He testified that when he returned from work December 21, 1928, he found an unsigned note from her reading:

"Well, I have left. You have your Christmas present and can have your freedom forever."

Divorces were granted Marie Litzinger from Owen D. Litzinger, Hilda W. Breeze from Richard H. Breeze.

"We've spilled the beans"

in the smoker's interest

Do you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long has been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!"

Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has chosen to raise this question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have not feared to "spill the beans."

LOGAN SLAYING CASE DELAYED

LOGAN, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—A hearing for Harry Robertson, head of the Logan City Commission, and his Negro employe, Clarence Stephenson, on charges of slaying Mrs. Mamie Thurman, was continued today until July 28.

Counsel for the state explained to Magistrate L. W. Hatfield that chemical tests of stains found in an automobile owned by Robertson had not been completed. Defense attorneys agreed to the postponement, the second one in the case, but said they would insist upon proceeding July 28.

The body of Mrs. Thurman, wife of a Logan policeman, was found on Trace Mountain June 22. She had been shot twice in the head and her throat was slashed. Robertson and Stephenson were arrested the next day.

The commissioner renewed a $10,000 bond under which he has been at liberty for two weeks. Stephenson was remanded to jail.

TRAGEDY BOWS MRS. BARNEY

LONDON, July 7.—(INS.)—Still bowed down by the tragedy that has "made me forget how to smile," Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, young society woman acquitted of the murder of her sweetheart, gave way to feminine impulse this afternoon and paid her first visit to her hairdresser since Michael Scott Stephen was shot and killed in her exotic West End flat.

Mrs. Barney spent the morning in bed at the Belgrave Square home of her millionaire parents, Sir John and Lady Mullens. Early this afternoon she arose, summoned the family limousine and went to the hairdresser.

She told newspapermen who greeted her upon her return:

"I'm very glad it is over. I am most thankful I am a free woman today. It was a terrible ordeal while it lasted."

Stamp Chief Flies To End N.Y. Shortage

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(INS.)—To relieve a shortage of 1-cent John M. Smith, superintendent of John M. Smith, supedintendent of the stamp division of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing today left by airplane with a consignment of 3,000,000 stamps of this denomination.

Another lot of 7,000,000 one centers is being packed for shipment by train and will reach New York in the morning.

2 Dead, 1 Injured In Michigan Fire

GRATLING, Mich., July 7.—(INS.)—A mother and her infant were killed by suffocation when fire destroyed their home here today.

Mrs. James Eaton, 20, had returned to bed after placing milk on a small oil stove to heat. A short time later the house was in flames. Mother and child could be seen in the bed as it fell through the blazing floor, from the second to first story.

Eaton, the father, was taken to a hospital suffering serious body burns.

McKees Rocks Will Try to Pay Teachers

Henry Haupt, president of the McKees Rocks school board, announced that an attempt will be made within two weeks to pay the June salaries of more than 75 school teachers.

Because of more than $100,000 in outstanding taxes the school district went into debt to meet the April and May payrolls, but the school board refused to increase the debt for June, Haupt said.

Westinghouse Gets $1,750,000 Order

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today was awarded a $1,750,000 contract for a 165,000-kilowatt electric turbo generator, by the Philadelphia Electric Company's Richmond generating station. Three-fourths of the work will be done at the South Philadelphia plant, the remainder at East Pittsburgh, Westinghouse officials said.

Crystal Hoax Used To Swindle Woman

ERIE, Pa., July 7.—(AP.)—Marie French, 32, of Girard, who drew $471 from a bank on promises of getting great wealth, today said she had made a mistake.

Miss French reported to police last night that a Mme. De Von had influenced her to bring the money to an East Side house. She gazed into a crystal while Mme. De Von worked to produce the wealth. A few hours later, Miss French said, she awoke and her money was gone.

Retailers Warned On Tax Violations

COL. HERRON: "I CAN SEE THE LIGHT OF IMPROVING CONDITIONS IN THE DEPRESSION!"

Surplus Workers Again Drifting Back to Farms

Increase of production in small factories and industrial plants was reported today by Col. C. C. Herron, of Philadelphia, regimental commander of the Volunteers of America and a former Pittsburgher, here on his annual inspection tour.

Decrying the famine and suffering in a land of plenty, Col. Herron said:

"Not for two years have I seen so many small factories and industrial plants in operation. The small businesses seem to be pointing the way to the larger ones. It looks to me as though the surplus of factory labor is getting away from the large industrial centers and is being absorbed by small towns and farms whence it came."

He lauded the patience being shown by the jobless. Col. Herron is conferring with Lieut. Col. Frank H. Wise, regional commander of the section established by himself in 1898. He left the Pittsburgh district in 1907.

JUDGE PEEVED, BATHTUB GONE

SEATTLE, Wash.—(INS.)—Judge Adam Beeler, who resigned from the Washington Supreme Court, to run for United States Senator, wants his bathtub.

Edward Edwards, house wrecker, was sentenced to three months in jail because Judge Beeler's tub was missing.

The tub disappeared after Edwards sold to Robert H. Baird, another house wrecker, for $5, a partly wrecked house here belonging to Judge Beeler. Edwards said he had a right to sell the house. Judge Beeler arose and said dramatically:

"Where is my bathtub?"

Deputy Prosecutor Ben Maslan assured the ex-justice every effort would be made to recover the tub. Police Judge John B. Gordon passed sentence on Edwards.

The sequel to an alleged attack on L. C. Clark, chairman of Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners, while returning from an Independence Day celebration in Mt. Lebanon Park, will take place tomorrow night in the Municipal Building.

Earl E. Gangewere, his wife, Alva, and his father, E. J. Gangewere, all of 46 Florence place, Mt. Lebanon, and A. C. Feagan, 1213 McNeilly avenue, Dormont, are scheduled to appear before Justice E. B. Bishop on charges of disorderly conduct.

According to Police Chief W. J. Kane, the younger Gangewere and Feagan are alleged to have attacked Clark following an argument in a traffic jam in Willow Terrace.

Billie Wants Flo To Settle on Farm

HOLLYWOOD, July 7.—(AP.)—Returning here to make her first picture in 10 years, Billie Burke alighted from the train last night with an ambition to have her husband, Florenz Ziegfeld, settle down on a Southern California farm.

She said:

"I told him, if he would just come out here and buy a farm, I would have no objections to his glorifying it with as many farmerettes as he wants."

Miss Burke is to appear with John Barrymore in "Bill of Divorcement."

Arriving on the same train was Katherine Hepburn, New York stage actress, who will make her screen debut in the same picture.

TEARFUL GYPSY GIRL WEDS

ASHLAND, O., July 7.—(AP.)—By the light of flickering campfires, a gypsy princess, with tearful eyes, became the bride of a Romany king's son near here last night, while several hundred tribal friends danced, feasted and made merry.

As a flower-trimmed wreath of ribbon streamers and a scarlet veil were pressed upon her head to symbolize the union, the 19-year-old bride, Rosa Miller, of Chicago, broke into sobs from an unexplained sorrow. Some said perhaps she loved another.

The bridegroom, George Ephrim, 20, was distinguished only by a large red rose pinned to his white sweater.

Steve Ephrim, the Romany chieftain and father of George, purchased the bride for his son for $2,000, the gypsies said.

The wedding festivities started early yesterday and continued until after midnight, when the bride came forth for the wedding dance and to receive the wedding symbols.

M. E. SUMMER CAMP OPENS

Epworth Woods, the new summer camp of the Methodist Episcopal Church Union of Pittsburgh, on the Perry highway at Dutilh opened today with 78 children enrolled for two weeks. The children were sent by the Polish Mission, South Side, and the Methodist Episcopal Deaconess Home, Fifth avenue.

The camp comprises 375 acres and has a large lodge, bunk houses and several cabins. Camping periods for other Pittsburgh groups will follow during the next two months.

Twenty-one college men and women counsellors under direction of Miss Dora Einert, faculty member of Carnegie Institute of Technology, direct the camp activities.

TELL IT TO SALLY

-:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:-

By SALLY MARTIN

Trust Your Youngsters and They Will Trust You

Do you tell the kids how much fun you had when you were a girl—and then keep them shut up tight at home "because youngsters nowadays are no good?"

Do you???

I'm asking you, because that is just what a lot of mothers are doing, including Joan's. All these mothers feel sincerely that they are protecting their little girls—but are they?

Listen to what is happening to "protected" Joan.

Is it happening to your daughter, too?

"Dear Sally:

"Won't you please help me? My mother is so funny that I don't know what to do.

"I am only 17, but I am very unhappy. I never get a chance to go any place, and I know there are lots of other girls in the same fix. Don't you think a girl of my age should be allowed to have friends, to have them come to the house, and to go out with them now and then?

SNEAKS OUT

"My mother tells me of all the fun she had when she was a girl, and I can't see why she won't let me have any, but she won't. She claims that the boys and girls nowadays don't know how to have fun without drinking.

"If I go anywhere, I have to sneak out, and that certainly is not what I call fun, or what I want to do. But what can I do? I can't stay home all the time and know nobody.

"The other day I went out and got to drinking, and some fellow came along with a car and took me to his room. He made a date to meet me the next day, and we went to his room and talked. He wanted me to marry him that same day. When I told him I would have to wait till I got out of high, he said he would wait for me.

GETS DESPERATE

"Now he wants to know when he can get me an engagement ring, but mother would have a fit if she ever saw me with one. If he should get me one, should I take it? I told him that he was getting too serious, but he said he loved and wanted me. I know he could make me happy and I certainly am far from that now.

"I am getting thin because I can't eat. He is on my mind all the time. Do you think parents should be so cruel as to make their children stay at home all the time? I think that is just the reason why so many girls get in trouble. They get desperate, just like I do, and try to find a little fun by sneaking out. Do you think I am doing right when I do it to find a little happiness? I could have lots of nice friends if I had a little freedom and could bring them home.

"Do you think I am just a silly kid, or just human? I feel like running away, but if I did they would make me come back, and then make my life unbearable. What shall I do? I need your advice, because my mother never tells me anything, and I can't ask her. JOAN."

"I need your advice because my mother never tells me anything, and I can't ask her!" What a terrible indictment of mother! Does it fit you?

"But life is dangerous!" you say.

SHOULD BE PREPARED

Yes, life is dangerous; but some day your youngster will have to be out in the midst of that danger. Nothing that you can possibly do will prevent that. Is it better to send her out in helpless ignorance, or to send her out trained and prepared by your own wisdom and loving understanding?

Can you train a child to walk by crippling its feet and binding it in a chair?

Train your girls to live by letting them meet life; but let them meet life under conditions of safety in your own home. You won't approve of all the youngsters nor all the ideas they bring into your home. But since those youngsters and those ideas will form an inevitable part of your children's lives, you had better meet them right now with your children, rather than let your children meet them on the sneak around the corner.

No normal boy or girl will sneak unless he or she is forced to. Trust your youngster, and he'll trust you. Show a desire to understand, and he'll give you the chance to understand everything in his life.

Fay King Gives Sage Advice in Relation to Child and Its Step-Parent

By FAY KING

In these days of divorce children must often spend a part of the time with each parent.

The parents have married again, and the little child finds one real parent and one step-parent in each of the homes.

Now it is quite natural for a little child to love anyone who is kind and good, and makes the child welcome and happy.

One has only to look at a child to see if it is happy and well cared for, and when a parent sees that the little one is clean and well-nourished, the parent the child is visiting should make the child's visit a happy one.

Don't worry the child by pumping it about affairs in the other home.

Underwood Rehearses Madge in New Role

My consternation must have been visible in my face as Dicky told me to take off the place I had laid for Noel at our welcome-home dinner for Lillian and the girls for both he and Mr. Underwood laughed amusedly, and Harry said:

"Don't be doleful! Your little scheme hasn't failed. We've brought home the bacon, but we want to make an artistic job of its frying."

"I don't know what you are talking about," I said bewildered. "Please, explain."

Dicky waved a lordly hand in the direction of his friend.

"Go ahead, Old Timer," he said; "you're the best little elucidator in the country."

Mr. Underwood took a bow in the most approved stage fashion.

"Gramercy for the best greens," he said. "It's like this," he added, turning to me. "Your spouse and I hunted Noel to the Veritzen lair, and managed to get him from under the noses of the various he and she wolves guarding the place. Then we laid our nefarious scheme before him, and he swallowed it so fast that we were obliged to apply first aid to keep him from choking. Here's the dope he's going to sling."

"Don't miss a word of this!" Dicky admonished, with a mischievous glance at my strained, absorbed face.

"I'm not going to," I said, and Mr. Underwood glared in mock ferocity at Dicky.

NOEL TO COME

"If you have quite finished your unseemly and unmannerly interruptions," he said, "I will endeavor to acquaint the Lady Fair with the details of the little comedy in which she will play a leading role this evening."

"You mean if she doesn't die of an overdose of words before you get to the point," Dicky muttered.

"I shall not even reply to an observation so beneath my contempt," Mr. Underwood retorted. "Now, Lady Fair, here's what you're to do—"

He leaned forward and spoke didactically, as if he were addressing a college class.

"You're to be seated with your guests around you at your well-spread dinner table, which, if Katie's well-known tempo holds, will not have any food upon it until long after the usual dinner hour. There will come a ring at the doorbell, and Katie will usher in Mr. Noel Veritzen, highly flustered and most apologetic for having come in at your dinner hour."

"'I had no idea,' he will say, 'I must have mistaken the time. I thought that your dinner was over.'

"Then you, Lady Fair," Mr. Underwood went on grandiloquently, "will rise from your seat, advance graciously toward the youth and say with hospitable insistence, 'My dear Noel! This is such a delightful surprise! Katie; lay a plate for Mr. Noel at once. No,' when he demurs politely but not too forcibly, 'I insist.'

EXPLAINS DEPARTURE

"That will settle it," Mr. Underwood went on, when he had finished outlining my imaginary conversation with Noel. "Noel will yield reluctantly, take his place at the table, next to Mary, of course, and will be able to tell his father with every detail of veracity how he stumbled upon your dinner, and was compelled to join it."

"But how will Noel get away from his father and the Arlens at that time of the evening?" I asked. "Won't they suspect something?"

"Ah!" Mr. Underwood waved an airy hand in my general direction. "Do you think that your spouse and I are so little skilled in the art of diplomacy?"

"In other words, plain and fancy lying," Dicky interpolated with a grin.

"In the art of diplomacy," Mr. Underwood repeated firmly, loftily ignoring Dicky's interruption. We advised the youth to have an imperative summons by wire or telephone to the city this afternoon, and to make the time of his return indefinite. With no engagement on hand, what more natural then that he should drop in to see his literary affinity, the famous librettist of his musical drama?

"He cannot help mistaking their dinner hour, or being forced to yield to the well-known importunate hospitality of the Graham menage. Do you see any air holes in this scheme?" he demanded suddenly of me.

"Not a pinpoint," I told him, with a laugh which held distinct admiration and gratitude. "I'll go at once and see that the places are relaid in such fashion that it will be very easy to slip in Noel beside Mary."

Household Hints

Pillowslips should be ironed lengthwise to get entirely rid of wrinkles.

Be chary about the amount of water used in wiping up floors. Too much water means swelling and warping of the boards.

If a milk pudding gets burnt, remove the burnt skin, add some more milk and a little butter, and rebake in a gentle oven.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

There is scarcely any item in the household equipment that requires the consistent attention that the medicine closet does. New supplies are constantly being added to the stock on hand, yet the old ones are often permitted to get in a delapidated condition. Labels get smeared and indistinct from exposure to dampness and therein danger lies. Sometimes a bottle with only a few drops of its contents slips to the back of the closet and is forgotten. This not only robs the bathroom of an important well-kept appearance, but offers the temptation of using stale supplies. Include a thorough renovating of the medicine closet in the household routine, place new labels on bottles and throw away anything for which there is no future use.

Pepper-and-salt hair is the most difficult of all kinds to dye. Dark hair comes out one shade, white hairs a lighter one. The woman who fancies she must duck her head in the dye pot had better consult somebody who knows the whole works, if she is to presto-change from white-and-black to solid color. One has to know the game in that particular case.

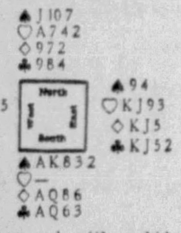
Compensation

"Hands which work out as beautifully as the one below restore courage which has been brutally shaken by powerful Slam hands 'unjustly' defeated by a couple of -0 spots and an Opening lead ruffed by trumps," writes Mr. Dexter W. Wilbar, a prominent bridge player of Brocton, Mass.

Mr. Wilbar is right. While bidding is a scientific process, the element of favorable or unfavorable distribution is an important factor in the results attained with any holding of cards. This hand, played by Mr. Wilbar in the South position, is a vivid illustration of that fact.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



South opened with a bid of two spades, figuring that his favorable distribution would compensate for the missing ½ honor trick. North responded with two no-trump, and the eventual contract was four spades.

As Mr. Wilbar pointed out, the success of the contract rested on the following seven fortunate breaks:

1. West led his fourth best heart, which Dummy won with the Ace.
2. After a mental "toss-up," South discarded a small club.
3. A diamond lead from Dummy to South's Queen won trick 2.
4. South led a small spade up to Dummy's knave - ten - seven, and West was forced to go up with his Queen. West returned a heart, which South trumped with the spade King.
5. South led a small spade, which was won in Dummy with the Knave, and found the trumps to be favorably distributed.
6. South led a small club from Dummy, which was won by South's Queen, again finding the absent King in East's hand. Another trump lead exhausted the outstanding trumps.
7. South led his Ace, then a small diamond. He found them distributed 3-3 in opponents' hands, cashed the thirteenth, and made four-odd, losing one spade, one diamond and one club.

While it must be conceded that Fate was unusually kind, every player is entitled to base his bids upon the probability of getting at least an even break with luck.

Sometimes Fate is more than passing kind, and showers a person with her favors. Mr. Wilbar, in this hand, was thus favored.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

South is Dealer.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	?

What should North bid, holding:

♠ J 3 ♡ Q 8 7 ◇ A K J 5 4 ♣ 10 9 8

Answer: Two no trump. The hand looks strong enough to produce game, and two diamonds would not sufficiently convey this possibility.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

One Person in Ten Has Gallstones

Not so long ago I wrote about kidney stones, and pointed out that stone formation can take place anywhere in the body where there enters fluid containing salt. Stones in the kidney and gallbladder are of common occurrence, and today I want to tell you particularly about stones that form in the gallbladder.

Dr. Copeland.

The gallbladder is a small pouch located on the under surface of the liver. It contains many fatty organic salts. Infection may occur in the gallbladder and produce an inflammatory condition of the lining of the sac. This condition is called "cholecystitis." The salts contained within the gallbladder may become deposited around a collection of germs and form a stone, technically called "choelithiasis."

The stone may be small or large, and more than one stone may be present. As many as a hundred gallstones have been found at one operation. When the stone is small, it may work its way out of the gallbladder into the duct or tube leading into the intestine, and causes extreme pain, a condition called "gallstone colic," which does not subside until the stone has been dislodged.

If the stone is caught in the common duct, it will obstruct the passage of bile from the liver and cause jaundice. The skin assumes a yellowish tinge and there is marked itching of the skin due to the excessive deposits of bile.

Gallstones are more common than is believed. The ailment is found in about 10 per cent of the population. It is most common in those over 40 years of age and is rare before the age of 30.

The condition is more frequently encountered in women than in men, and it is believed to be encouraged by sedentary habits and faulty diet. Overeating and overweight are suspected to be factors, but this theory has never been proven true.

The formation of gallstones among persons suffering from diabetes is exceedingly common. The explanation for this is still unknown.

There are some persons having gallstones who show marked digestive disturbance. Gas, nausea and distress after meals are common complaints. In acute attacks the pain is severe and passes to the back and right shoulder. In some cases, however, there is no pain or discomfort, and the stones are accidentally discovered during an X-ray examination for some other ailment.

Within recent years, due to the great advance made in the use of the X-Ray, it is possible to visualize the gallbladder and in most cases to photograph the gallstones.

I receive many letters requesting advice about medicine and diet that will dissolve or cure gallstones. Once gallstones have formed, they cannot be dissolved. Operation is the only cure, but this does not mean that all cases require operations, for gallstones often are harmless and cause no pain. It is only when gallstone colic is present, or when the gallbladder is inflammed, that surgical attention is necessary.

The operation is simple and need cause no alarm. Please bear in mind that repeated attacks of gallstone colic are dangerous if neglected. A ruptured gallbladder may result from such negligence. This is a serious condition and requires immediate attention.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are having quite an argument as to how he should introduce my parents to our friends and strangers. His parents are dead.

He claims he cannot call my parents father and mother as they are not that to him. I told him that he is showing very poor manners, also that he is being disrespectful to them.

He said you would agree with him on this point, that he should introduce them as "in-laws" to let people know that his parents are dead. J.

I do agree with your husband in that he should not be urged to use, in these introductions, names that he does not feel. I wish, as I am sure that you do, that there might be not even a question about his wish to use the words Mother and Father for your mother and father. But if he feels that "they are not that to him," that's all there is to it, until he changes his mind. I agree with you that it would be a most happy circumstance if he would feel that he could use these words, but I don't agree with you, dear friend, that not using them is "showing very poor manners" or that it is "disrespectful" to them.

Now what to do as the "next best thing" is the question. To me the word "in-law" is, as it apparently is to you, a very cold and bleak and unfriendly word. So we should avoid it, when we can . . . and usually we can.

The customary choice is the use of the words Mother and Father with the addition of the last name . . . Mother Graham, Father Graham. Would your husband be willing to adopt this form? This choice would be more gracious and warmhearted than the "in-law" addition.

If he even objects to this . . . and I hope he won't . . . then "Mary's mother" and "Mary's father" is the next best form.

Do let me know what "Himself" decides, or if I may make any more suggestions.

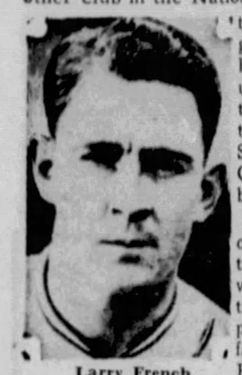
ROVERS FORTIFIED FOR LATER STRAIN

THE GIANT SERIES up to this afternoon showed very clearly the part that excellent pitching is playing in the Pirate rush. The visitors have scored more runs this season than any other club in the National League except the Phillies, whereas the Bucs rank eighth, but the Rovers grabbed the first three games of the set because the New Yorkers could not keep up against Pittsburgh's strong pitching their previous run-getting average. In the three engagements, Bill Swift, Steve Swetonic and Larry French held the Giants to six runs and 23 hits for a club batting average of only .219.



Larry French

That the hurling is of such a high order is most encouraging, inasmuch as the outcome of the great race probably will depend on how the various contenders go through the double-header period. Pitching will be the deciding factor in that grind, and with Swetonic, French, Meine, Swift, Spencer, Harris and Chagnon in a fine stride and Kremer overdue, the Pirates, who will have 15 dual bills on their program after today, appear to be as well fortified as any rival. Swetonic and French, in particular, are delivering in brilliant style. They have pitched 18 of the club's 40 victories to date, or almost 50 per cent. Swetonic has won eight of his last nine games and French has won seven of his last eight.

IF THE LIVELY ball had been in use in the old days, the late Ed Delahanty would have made a greater home-run record than the one now held by Babe Ruth, in the opinion of Perry Werden, former big leaguer and himself once a slugger of renown. He says he has watched them all, from Anson down to Foxx, and ranks Delahanty and Ruth at the top.

"Delahanty possessed tremendous strength in his arms, shoulders, back and legs, and his timing and rhythm were perfect," Werden declares. "If he had a weakness no pitcher ever found it. High, low, inside, outside, curve, fast ball or slow ball—they all looked alike to Del. I saw him hit an inside ball off his shoetops out of the park. The fielders never knew where to play for him. He could hit to any field."

JACK DOYLE, Cub scout, reports the International League having a great season for attendance. He saw a Sunday crowd of 26,000 in Montreal and week-day crowds of 6,000. But scouting that loop is futile. Toronto is the only free city, now that the Detroit club has transferred its interests to Montreal.

Reading is tied up with the Cubs, Baltimore with the Senators, Buffalo with the White Sox, Rochester with the Cardinals, Newark with the Yankees and Jersey City with the Dodgers.

ALREADY JOE M'CARTHY is discovering unusual things about Charley Devens, the former Harvard pitching star who was snatched up by the Yankees while the front office of the Braves was trying to make room for him on the McKechnie roster. "For one thing, Devens has an overhand cross-fire delivery," McCarthy remarked. "I have been around in baseball, boy and man, for 25 years, and this is the first of the breed I have seen. It is also the first time Arthur Fletcher and Jimmy Burke have seen that sort of freak. I have assigned Herb Pennock and Cy Perkins to the job of perfecting Devens' style and his control. But just imagine, an over-hand cross-fire!"

Charley Devens

SO GOOD A judge of collegiate baseball timber as Andy Coakley, coach at Columbia and himself a former major league pitcher, rates Devens the best college slinger of the year. He thinks the boy has a great chance to be a success in the upper professional set.

It has leaked out that Devens received a bonus of $5,000 for signing with the Yankees, with a contract calling for $6,000 for the remainder of this season. A world series share of $4,000 would give the youngster $15,000 for 1932, and it may be that he will not start a game for the Yankees this year. Apparently, he learned more than the classics while at Harvard.

IN THE RACE for the National League batting championship, Paul Waner has got to fight against an outside factor in the form of the short right-field fence in Philadelphia, which aids a couple of his rivals, and in the opinion of Lefty O'Doul it's going to be too great a handicap for the Pirate star to overcome.

O'Doul, a former Phil, expresses the belief that the bandbox park in Quakertown will enable Chuck Klein or Don Hurst to beat Waner out for the swatting title, and he says he is inclined to give Chuck the edge over Don.

O'DOUL FIGURES THAT the Phils' short fence will handicap Waner by at least 20 points. "Klein and Hurst, as every one knows, are good hitters," Lefty remarked, "and they have a great advantage over Waner and other batters because they play half of their games in the small Philly park. That advantage adds at least 20 points to their average. I know what that short right-field fence means to batters who have its advantage in 77 games. I won a batting championship when I was with the Phillies, and the short right-field fence helped me get the title. At that the batting championship wouldn't be out of place in Klein's possession, because he is a real hitter."

CLOSE OBSERVERS OF track and field form in this country are about convinced that as far as the javelin-throwing event in the Olympic Games is concerned, it might be just as well to send the first-place gold medal to Matti Jarvinen, of Finland, and tell him to stay at home.

They consider it a waste of money to bring Jarvinen here to make a show of the other toothpick tossers. The Finnish star's latest throw of 242 feet was three feet better than his pending world record, and about 20 feet farther than any American can chuck the implement.

SPEAKING OF FOREIGN Olympic teams, none was recruited from a wider or more varied field of occupation than the Australian group. Boy Charlton, swimmer, grows wool, and George Golding, 400-meter runner classes it.

Bonnie Mealing, backstroke swimmer, is an expert typist and stenographer. Alex Hillhouse, distance runner, is a schoolmaster. Noel Ryan, swimmer, is a bank clerk, and Eddie Scarf, wrestler, is a butcher.

Francis Ouimet

EVIDENTLY TIME HAS no effect on the golf form of Francis Ouimet. It was in 1914 that he first won the United States amateur title, but 17 years afterward, in 1931, he stepped out and won it again. He did not compete for the Massachusetts state open championship between 1915 and 1932, but when he made his second start in that event last week he came home with the crown. Only one other amateur, Jesse Guilford, ever won it. And in view of his consistently good game throughout the 72 holes of play, Ouimet is likely to be installed as the favorite in the national amateur tourney, when he undertakes to retain the laurels he won last year. Some others had flashy single rounds, but none matched the veteran in the steadiness he showed in making the four rounds in 70-74-72-71.

I. C. 4-A. MARKS PUZZLING TO ROBERTSON

By LAWSON ROBERTSON
Chief Coach, American Olympic Team.

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 7.—The intercollegiate squad, which will try for Olympic honors on the tryout finals on July 15 and 16, now is quartered in this town and doing a bit of resting and reviewing the results of the Intercollegiate 4-A meet at Berkeley. Nothing has occasioned more comment than Frank Wykoff's winning time of 9 9-10 seconds in the 100-yard final. If that race had been a runaway affair for the great University of Southern California star, the exceptionally slow time would seem to be consistent. But the facts are these:

The day before Wykoff ran the 100 in 9 7-10 and won by a huge margin, he was looking back at the 80-yard mark and was slowed down through the final 10 yards to win with ease. Had Wykoff been pressed in that race, I am sure he could have stepped it in 9 5-10.

KIESEL EXTENDS WYKOFF

Now we get to the final on last Saturday.

Wykoff was off in front, but at no time did he have more than one step lead. He was under pressure all the way. One or another of his rivals was at his heels through the first 85 yards and when he shook them off he discovered Bob Kiesel, of California, coming with a cyclonic rush that almost won Kiesel the race. Bob lost to Wykoff by a margin as wide as an eyebrow.

I don't believe that at any time during his career has Wykoff been forced to run faster or put forth greater effort than he did in that century dash last Saturday. Those who saw the bristling contest feel that Wykoff must have run in new record time for the Intercollegiate 4-A and possibly had tied the world record, but the time was 9.9, which was two-tenths of a second slower than Wykoff's speed the day before, when he simply loafed through at least 20 yards of the 100-yard trip. The whole thing doesn't make sense, as the coaches and athletes view it.

CARR TIMED IN :46.6

I timed the 440 in which Bill Carr beat Ben Eastman in the finals. Long years of handling a watch has given me fair ability at least in clocking runners.

My watch showed :46 6-10 as Carr's time for the event. Checking up with other coaches, I found that they had the identical figures, :46 6-10.

But the official time was given out as 47 seconds. I never have seen hurdle races where there seemed to be so much speed and such keen competition. The finals over the sticks resulted in finishes that looked like dead heats to some of the onlookers. The men who competed are stars.

They jumped and ran to the absolute limit. Each winner was out to the last ounce of his ability

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: ALEX MORRISON'S ACCURATE GOLF—Morrison, famous golf technician, was the first to make a business of trick golf shots, and, during his varied exhibitions, he has hit a golf ball off a girl's knee, foot, wrist and head. Also off the neck of a bottle, off a mirror and similar objects where extreme accuracy is needed in the swing. Morrison probably has the most perfectly arced, accurate swing in golf. In all his performances it is strange that he should have used someone's head for a tee more frequently than anything else, where a divot would be most disastrous, but he has made 6,188 such shots without a miss. Practically all of his exhibitions have been in theaters or on golf courses before public galleries.

LOSS OF STAR HURTS GIANT CHANCES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The value of a great shortstop to a winning ball club is being strikingly exemplified in the play of Bill Terry's Giants, who are fighting hard to stay in the pennant race with Travis Jackson on the hospital squad.

Jackson, tall and fast, was rated as the best shortfielder in the game only a few seasons back, and he is still a youngster, but a bad knee has cut seriously into his career. Possessed of one of the strongest throwing arms in the game, Stonewall is of the hustling type and his bat is feared by every pitcher in the league.

GIANTS' MAINSTAY

The Giants might have been able to overcome the handicap of a questionable slab staff had Jackson remained in the lineup. He is to the Giant infield what Pie Traynor is to the Pirates. Little Eddie Moore, former Buccaneer, is making a commendable effort to fill the bill, but it is a hard assignment for anybody. Eddie, by the way, has unusual baseball versatility; he can play three infield positions cleverly and he is a corking outfielder.

Manager Terry has not offered any alibis for the in-and-out performances of his team, but Bill realizes that the Giants are not the same with Jackson ailing. Meantime, the Polo Grounders are engaged in a long tour which will bring them in contact with the four dangerous clubs of the West.

The Pirates increased their first-place position yesterday as they defeated the Giants in both ends of a doubleheader. Terry's men showed a spunky front, but they were forced to bow in two close decisions. The scores were 4 to 2 and 3 to 1.

SUHR LEADS ATTACK

Steve Swetonic and Larry French each recorded his ninth victory of the season in the bargain bill. Steve and Larry were in rare form as they twirled in the order named. The timely batting of Gus Suhr was a potential factor in the winning of both games.

Swetonic yielded but six hits as he triumphed over Southpaw Jim Mooney in the early fight. Mooney made way for a pinch-hitter in the sixth and Sam Gibson finished. The Pirates scored twice on Gibson in the eighth.

Adolfo Luque fought it out with French, and the Cuban marvel turned in a fine job. Larry held the enemy attack to eight safeties. The eighth inning of this game also was a lucky round for the Pirates, they scoring twice to decide the issue.

KILRAIN FIGHT TO BE ON AIR

NEW YORK, July 7—Fuel will be added to the flames of controversy over the broadcast of the Sharkey-Schmeling championship tomorrow when Hearst Radio Service will demonstrate how it thinks a fight should be broadcast by restaging the Sullivan-Kilrain championship fight over Station WINS, New York, from 7:45 to 8:15 p. m. Ford Frick and Bill Corum, noted sports writers of the Hearst newspapers, will do the broadcasting.

Tomorrow is the anniversary of the battle between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, which went to 75 rounds and was the last bare-knuckle championship fight. It was fought July 8, 1889 at Richburg, Miss., near New Orleans, and lasted two hours, 16 minutes. Frick and Corum will broadcast the last half hour of the fight.

Invitations to listen in have been sent to Charles Francis Coe and Graham McNamee, who broadcast the Schmeling-Sharkey battle, and also to Jake Kilrain, who is employed as a watchman at a plant in Quincy, near Boston. WINS broadcasts on 1180 kilocycles.

COMMISSION RAPPED

NEW YORK, July 7.—(INS.)—Officials of the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting system, in answer to queries today, announced they would continue "as before" to select their own announcers of fight broadcasts, despite the State Athletic Commission's assertion that it would not permit broadcasts by announcers who were not "fight experts."

No formal protest was lodged with any organization, as it is believed the athletic commission has no power to enforce its ruling. Columbia officials said:

"It is no more logical for the commission to choose or to approve broadcasters of fights than it is to approve and choose those who cover fights for the newspapers."

New York Black Yankees at Pittsburgh Crawfords.

Owing to a death in the Buch family, the Books-Homewood City League game, scheduled on the Books' field this evening, has been postponed. The game listed with the Homestead Grays tomorrow night also has been postponed.

Two important second-half games in the City League will be played this evening. The Ferris Club plays at the North Siders and Dormont invades Bloomfield to oppose the Thomas Club.

In the independent ranks, the New York Black Yankees will resume their series with the Pittsburgh Crawfords, meeting Greenlee's aggregation in a twilight game at Greenlee Field. This is ladies' day at Greenlee Field and a banner crowd is expected. The teams also meet in doubleheaders on Friday and Saturday, the games starting at 4 o'clock.

On Saturday evening the Honus Wagner All-Stars will meet Dormont at the High School Field in a benefit game for the Dormont unemployed.

Tomorrow afternoon William S. Haddock and Steve Cox, of the Greater Pittsburgh Commission, will leave for Toledo, O., for the meeting of the National Baseball Federation. Plans will be discussed for the annual tournament, which probably will get under way when the officials return.

The Frank Ferris nine and the Geislers battled to a 10-10 tie in their City League game last evening. In a Greater Pittsburgh League contest, the Iroquois warriors shutout Swissvale, 7 to 0.

St. Clair Golfer Gets Hole in One

E. S. Stanier, a member of the St. Clair Country Club, scored a hole in one on the 185-yard No. 4 hole of his home course yesterday.

Using a No. 2 midiron, Stanier hit the cup without a bounce to make the unusual ace. He was playing in a threesome with H. H. Schloter and E. B. Jenkins.

SHARKEY'S TRAINER ILL

NEW YORK, July 7.—(INS.)—Jack Sharkey will be in town tomorrow, and the first thing he will do will be to rush to the bedside of little Tony Polozzolo, his faithful buddy and trainer, who is lying on a cot in Medical Arts Sanitarium. In the midst of the joy of having sent a world champion to the post, Tony was taken down with appendicitis.

GENE HEAVILY INSURED

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—A $250,000 insurance policy was placed today on Gene Sarazen, British and United States open golf champion, by his manager, Ray McCarthy. One hundred thousand of the amount covers Gene's hands alone.

GIBBY PRAISES YOUNGSTERS

Fine spirit, hustle, discipline, and, above all, a winning triangle combination involving Catcher Grace, Shortstop Vaughan and Second Baseman Piet were given as the reasons for the Pirates' mad dash toward the National League pennant by Manager George Gibson in a talk featuring the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE last night.

Gibby also lauded the work of Capt. Pie Traynor, the Waner brothers, young Bill Swift, the pitcher, and others.

Traynor also spoke. He declared he would not predict that the team would win the pennant, despite its fine position in the race, but said the club was taking every game in its stride and hoped to keep up the pace. He characterized Floyd Vaughan as the greatest shortstop in the game, although only a youngster, saying he rates him over Glenn Wright, former Pirate star, as an all-round player because he does not hit into double plays as Wright so often did when here.

The two leaders of the sensational Pirates were interviewed by Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Julius Levin, of the sports department, recited a poem about the Miracle Boston Braves of 1914, written by Doyle; Miss Marian Salmon played "Dark Eyes" on the piano, and Harry Keck, sports editor, as master of ceremonies, had Herb McGee, WCAE announcer, on the spot.

Helene Madison Sets New Swim Mark

NEW YORK, July 7.—(INS.)—Three new world swimming records were recorded yesterday after sensational efforts in the first of a two-day swimming meet featuring women Olympic aspirants under the auspices of the Women's Swimming Association of New York. The events were held over a 50-yard course.

Helene Madison, of Seattle, clipped three-quarters of a second off the 150-yard medley standard by churning the distance in :33 3-5 in an authorized exhibition.

Carlson to Attend Coaching Clinics

Dr. H. C. Carlson, head basketball coach at Pitt, is all booked up for the summer months with a flock of floor clinics.

Besides his own floor school, opening on July 11 and running to July 22, Carlson will attend clinics at Massillon, O., and Villanova College.

RACE PROGRAM CHANGED

SHARON, Pa., July 7.—The new program of a race each week will be inaugurated at the Sharon Speedway, Sunday afternoon, when semi-stock car drivers of the district engage in a 50-mile race. At the same time, competition is to be resumed for the championship among stock car pilots of Northwestern Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. The title will be awarded at the close of the season at the track on basis of points won by each driver.

ROOKIES HOLD MAJOR LEAGUE SPOTLIGHT

VAUGHAN, PIET AMONG YOUTHS ACCLAIMED

Associated Press.

The present National League race might well be termed the "race of the rookies."

A group of young men who scarcely were known in the best circles a year ago have made President Heydler's follies what they are today and prospects are they will divide most of the honors when it's all over.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, leading the field by three and a half games today, could trace their success directly to the pitching of Steve Swetonic and Bill Swift, who between them had won 16 games, and to the fine play of Tony Piet and Floyd Vaughan.

WARNEKE CUB 'FIND'

The second place Chicago Cubs probably would be several notches further down but for the sensational hurling of Lonnie Warneke and the play of Bill Herman at second base. Huck Betts and Bobby Brown have by their consistently great pitching kept the Boston Braves at or close to the top ever since the race began.

Swetonic, who shares with Betts, of the Braves, the distinction of leading the National League's pitchers, scored his ninth victory yesterday by beating the Giants in the first half of a doubleheader, 4 to 2, on six hits. Larry French stopped the New Yorkers, 3 to 1, in the nightcap.

Warneke rang up his eleventh triumph, halting the Phillies, 6 to 1, and putting the Cubs back in second place, one percentage point above the Braves, who lost to St. Louis, 4 to 2. Bill Hallahan let the Braves down with five hits.

REDS, DODGERS SPLIT

Cincinnati and Brooklyn battled all afternoon without getting anywhere. The Reds took the first game, 6 to 4, as Owen Carroll outpitched four adversaries, but the Dodgers came back to win the second, 3 to 2, behind Freddie Heimach. Chick Hafey, who has been out of the Cincinnati lineup with illness for many weeks, appeared as a pinch hitter in the last inning of the nightcap, but failed to connect safely.

Only one game survived an epidemic of rain in the American League. In that, the Boston Red Sox came from behind a 4 to 0 disadvantage at the end of the fourth to beat out St. Louis, 5 to 4.

Upon the sturdy shoulders of Stanley Hack has descended the burden of doubling for Bill Jurges, star Chicago Cubs shortstop, who was in a hospital with two bullet wounds inflicted by a girl.

Hack, who came to the Cubs this year from Sacramento, of the Pacific Coast League, will occupy the third-base berth while the regular third baseman, Woody English, plays Jurges' shortstop position.

If Hack fails to deliver the goods, Hornsby himself will take the third-base position, the manager said. The Rajah declared he does not anticipate a slowing up of his team's drive in spite of the fact that Jurges surpassed all of his mates in batting in runs.

PART OF LARGE CROWD WALKING ACROSS FIELD AT FINISH OF THE PIRATES' DUAL VICTORY OVER GIANTS YESTERDAY

TEAM MATCHES CARDED

By TOM BIRKS

Miss Lindsay Boyd, 16-year-old star who recently created a new women's record at Shannopin Country Club, will have an opportunity to show her prowess over her home course at Montour Heights today, when the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association holds a one-day tournament.

An invitation 18-hole medal play tournament is being played over the Churchill Valley Golf Club course this afternoon with a list of notables from the district clubs competing. Among the stars in the fold are W. W. Martin, Oakmont; J. R. Dunn, president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association; E. E. McCoy, George H. Flinn, Jr., R. C. Long, Joseph Crawford and W. J. Powell, Oakmont; John Graham, South Hills; R. A. Lyne, Fox Chapel; H. W. Stoebner, Field Club; Clarence Overend and L. M. Bair, Field Club; Fred Weppner and J. F. Sweeney, Stanton Heights; J. C. Trees, Oakmont, and Enos Kirkpatrick, South Hills.

About 1,000 watched Ted Luther give the first driving exhibition of the season at Aspinwall Bob-O-Link range yesterday. The former West Penn Open champion thrilled the large crowd with distance shots from the tee. Luther also demonstrated the use of other clubs.

Next Thursday Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland Country Club pro, will be the attraction Monday, July 25. C. H. McDonald, professional at Bob-O-Link, is going to stage the first Western Pennsylvania Open tournament for irons. Bob-O-Link is a nine-hole course, with sand and grass tees for the players. Play will be of 36 holes. Players from all over Western Pennsylvania, including practically all of the leading pros, are entered.

to gain victory. Yet in neither of the hurdles was the official time anywhere near the world record.

TRACK FAST, TIME SLOW

Although the track was dry as a chip and is perhaps the fastest track in the world, all these facts have puzzled the group now assembled here and the boys can't make head nor tail so far of them. Especially that situation involving Wykoff where he is accorded 9.7 for a 100-yard job and received 9.9 for running with all the magnificent speed which he possesses. It's one very big riddle. Especially for California coaches and contestants.

VENZKE ON COAST

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 7.—(AP.)—Candidates for the American Olympic games team began arriving here yesterday.

Gene Venzke, school boy from Pennsylvania and the country's premier miler on this season's record, checked in with his coach, Mike Sweeney; Harry Brocksmith, a two-mile runner from Indiana, and several others. The visitors went through light workouts in the huge Stanford Stadium where the trials will be held July 15 and 16.

Equipoise Nears Sun Beau's Mark

CHICAGO, July 7.—(AP.)—Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's great handicap star, is going after Sun Beau's record as the greatest money winner of turf.

Fred Hopkins, trainer for the fleet four-year-old, today said it was planned to enter the thoroughbred in at least nine of the richest stake events of the year. His earnings already have passed the $200,000 mark and a victory in but a few of them would send him past his goal, $376,744.

SPORT VIGNETTES

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

One of the things that is wrong with the fight game in Pittsburgh right now, aside from poor financial management of the arenas, is the fact that boxers who are clamoring for work will not box the opponents against whom the public would pay to see them matched. This goes for local boxers as well as the more famous out-of-towners.

For instance, the promoters will tell you that Ted Yarosz will not box Davy Grove, conqueror of Jimmy Belmont and with a draw with Paulie Walker in his record.

And Grove will not box Buck McTiernan at Hickey Park next week, because of a disagreement over weight.

Battling Gizzy's manager keeps telling Charley Baxter to go and get a reputation, and there are a lot of fans who would like to see a bout between Charley and the Battler.

Marty Gornick won't box Joey Speigal because Joey is a southpaw, and he also doesn't want to play with Baxter.

Jimmy Thomas won't take on Mose Butch because Mose is a wrongsider.

That's the promoters' side of the debate. All of these matches are more or less "naturals." It's the fighters' own fault if they don't come together.

They say our Pirates have been getting a lot of breaks recently, but did you ever notice that a winner in any sport always seems to get the breaks, and generally makes them by playing a heads-up game?

The Olympic Games get under way at Los Angeles three weeks from next Saturday, and for a period of two weeks thereafter professional sports will take a back seat.

Are there thrills in amateur sports comparable to the professional brand? If you leave it to Gustavus T. Kirby, former president of the A. A. U. and a member of the Olympic Committee, he'll tell you he ranks the finish of the 1908 Olympic Marathon in London, won by the American, Johnny Hayes, and the finish of the Olympic eight-oared crew race on the canal between Antwerp and Brussels in 1920, won by the United States Navy oarsmen, as two of the major sports thrills of all time, alongside the Dempsey-Firpo fight at the Polo Grounds, New York, in 1923.

Dorando, the Italian, had to be assisted across the finish line in the Marathon, after falling four times inside the Stadium in view of 100,000 pairs of eyes, and was disqualified, with Hayes rightly being declared the winner.

If you hear any of the Pirates or the fans at Forbes Field yelling, "Come on, Arkie!" they're addressing themselves to Floyd Vaughan, the young shortstop of the league leaders. That's his old nickname, and it's just caught up with him here. He's from Arkansas, which explains everything.

H. Lee Merriman, former Beaver Falls High School, Geneva College and Cornell University athlete, is a visitor in Pittsburgh for a few days. He will be remembered as the quite husky son of D. W. Merriman, the football official and former Geneva star, who played in the "Who Tackled Joe Thompson?" game with W. & J. In addition to weighing in at 320 pounds as a football lineman, young Merriman was a weight man in the field events, and won the National A. A. U. junior 56-pound weight toss at Denver several years ago. He is the assistant to the manager of the Harrisburger Hotel in Harrisburg, and looks the part.

The elder Merriman was one of the officials in that game between Pitt and Cleveland Naval Reserves in Cleveland after the 1919 season which saw the Panthers' three-year winning streak halted, a memorable contest which caused a lot of squabbling at the time.

And now, just what is a "fight expert?" The New York Boxing Commission, in ruling that henceforth only fight experts shall describe fights over the radio, lists newspaper boxing writers, judges and referees as "experts." Well, we've seen a lot of each classification that weren't and aren't.

DIEGEL LEADS IN CANADIAN

OTTAWA, July 7.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, defending champion in the Canadian open golf championship, showed up at the Ottawa Golf and Hunt Club course today to play in defense of his title over a course he never had seen.

Post entries raised the starting field to a total of 116.

Leo Diegel, seeking his fifth Canadian title, made the turn in 35, two under par, to take the early lead at the nine-hole point.

Bobby Cruickshank, New York professional who tied for second in the American open with Phil Perkins, made the turn in 37, even par.

Bill Burke, former American open champion, had a 38. Dick Greeb, professional of Kingston, had the same score.

Horton Smith, who has been showing to good advantage in practice, made the turn in 38, while Lex Robson, recently crowned Canadian professional champion, was out in 39.

The starting time of Hagen and Johnny Farrell, originally set for 11:15, was moved back to 1:30 at Hagen's request to give him a little rest before starting the first round.

NET FAVORITES ADVANCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 7.—(AP.)—Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Cal., defending title-holder led seven seeded players into the quarter-finals of the Rhode Island men's singles as play in that championship division was continued on the turf courts at Agawan Hunt yesterday. Martyn Buxby, of New York, and the University of Texas, completed the round of eight, the Southwestern conference star winning his berth in Tuesday's play.

Gledhill, top-seeded in the singles tourney, Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., Dave Jones, of New York, Fritz Mercur, of Williamsport, Pa., and Jake Hess, of Fort Worth, Tex., all members of the favored group, advanced with ease.

HOUSTON GETS PITCHER

HOUSTON, Tex., July 7.—(AP.)—Houston of the Texas League, has obtained Bill Beckman, Columbus American Association right-hand pitcher, on option. He will fill the gap caused by the injury of Mike Cvengros, who suffered a broken finger several days ago.

120-Foot Torch For Olympics Is Lighted

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—The great torch which will burn during the course of the Olympic Games was lighted for the first time last night as thousands, gathered at Olympic Stadium, looked on and cheered. The spectacular presentation was for the purpose of taking pictures.

The torch stands 45 feet above the stadium peristyle and is 120 feet above the ground level. It was planned by Stanley Gould, Olympic engineer, and built after two years of experimentation.

The fire bowl is lined like the inside of a locomotive box, of asbestos and brick construction. A special burner turns the red and blue of the gas flame to a color like sunlight, making it visible by day.

MERMAIDS SET FOR TRIALS

Misses Lenore Kight, Mary Hagar, Ann Cosgrove, Louise Clark, Joan Gorman, Anna Mae Gorman and Irene Patnik will represent Jack Scarry's Homestead Library club in the Olympic swimming trials in New York Friday and Saturday of next week.

Miss Mae Cutnell, of the Keystone A. C., will compete in the backstroke, and Miss Mary Louise Miller, of Uniontown, in the breaststroke events. Durland Johnston, of Carrick, will compete in the diving trials at Pasadena, Cal., July 17 and 24, while on Thursday and Friday of next week Henry Stanton, formerly of the P. A. A., and Andy Swaney, of Uniontown, will compete in the men's swimming trials at Cincinnati. Johnston is the national low-board junior diving champion.

Miss Marie De May, of the Union A. C., of Turtle Creek, will compete in the women's track and field trials at Evanston, Ill., Saturday of next week.

Miss Francis Kanzius, 16-year-old high school girl from Burgettstown, Pa., is to go to the Coast to try for a place on the Olympic team as a discus thrower. She has been averaging better than 112 feet with the platter in practice.

SWIM STARS GATHER

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Women swimming stars of the Far East and Midwest were gathering in New York today for the international meet with Hungary Saturday and Sunday and the final Olympic trials at Jones Beach, Long Island, next week.

The Los Angeles delegation of Georgia Coleman, Josephine McKim, Norene Forbes, Jennie Cramer and Marjorie Lowe flew in yesterday, and Helene Madison, of Seattle, Wash., arrived by train.

Eleanor Garatti Sayville, of San Francisco, and Helen Lee Smith, of Indianapolis, also are entered for the international meet. June Showalter, Barbara Tompkins and Mary Alice Shively, of Indianapolis, are entered in the Olympic trials next week.

Fight Broadcasts May Be Discontinued

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—There may never be another coast-to-coast broadcast of a championship fight here if the State Athletic Commission enforces its edict barring professional announcers from the microphone.

Rather than submit to the commission's ruling that none but "boxing experts" shall be privileged to broadcast future bouts, both the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting Company have threatened to take the ring battles off the air.

The commission, as a result of the flare-up following the description of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout by Graham McNamee and Charles Francis Coe, announced that in future the mikes must be manned by none but "boxing sports writers, judges or referees."

Olympic Rowing Trials on Today

WORCESTER, Mass., July 7.—(AP.)—Nine college and club eight-oared crews, veterans of almost every famous rowing course in the country, begin the three-day struggle for Olympic shields today on Lake Quinsigamond's historic 2,000-meter stretch.

Four trials will be run off to open the regatta, two semi-finals tomorrow, and on Saturday the two survivors will decide which will represent the United States in the international competition at Long Beach, Cal., next month.

CHAMP TO EXHIBIT

Blair Nunamaker, national horseshoe pitching champion, will give an exhibition of his sport as a feature of the American Legion picnic at Edgebrook Grove, South Park, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A full program of other sports also is scheduled.

FRANK BROIDA, GOODMAN WIN NET TITLE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 7.—Irvin Goodman, stocky, little Pitt blond, crashed the tennis hall of fame here yesterday as he and his southpaw partner, Frank Broida, of Harvard, sprang a sensational surprise to down Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace, and Paul Barber, Sewickley star, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, in the final battle for the Westmoreland County men's doubles net title on the gallery court of the Greensburg Country Club.

Goodman, rated a clever performer, especially at the dual game, but never ranked with the cream of the Steel City crop, has played good tennis and bad in the course of his brief career—but if he never flashes form again as long as he sticks to the pastime to which he is so whole-heartedly devoted, he still can live happily in the knowledge that once, at least, he has scaled the heights whereon sit the racquet greats in Olympian majesty.

O'Loughlin and Barber, calm and confident, reeled off set one and four games of stanza two, while their youthful opponents, products of the old McCahill asphalt rectangle and of the Schenley Park public layout, floundered about and sought to find themselves. The Pitt-Harvard combine here settled down to business to run four games in a row, an achievement that should have warned the leaders. But O'Loughlin and Barber reeled off two games with loss of but two points to bag the set and the match seemed on the ice.

However, Brodia and Goodman ran out the next three sets to pull out the match in sensational fashion.

Yesterday's two-man clash terminated a conclave that had been in progress since last Friday. John O'Loughlin copped the men's singles crown with a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Frank Smith, of Edgewood, the day before yesterday, and Mrs. DeLlovd Thompson, Washinton (Pa.) luminary, defeated Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown contender, 8-6, 6-2, in the women's singles windup on Monday.

A novice tennis tournament is planned on the South Park courts next month with both singles and doubles for men and women scheduled.

TEXAS HORSE WINS STAKE

CLEVELAND, July 7.—(AP.)—The $4,000 Rainy Day sweepstakes for two-year-old trotters was won in straight heats yesterday by Spencer McElwyn, whose illustrious sire, Spencer, set the Grand Circuit record of 2:05¼ for the stake in 1927.

Spencer McElwyn, owned by W. H. L. McCourtie, of Dallas, Tex., and driven by the veteran Ben White, was a heavy favorite for the race and easily met the challenges made by Sir Raleigh and Hollyrood Portia.

It was White's sixth rainy day victory. He won his first in 1924 with Sumatra and his fifth last year with Brevere, the latter one of the better 3-year-olds this season.

Slim Ransom Named McDonald Mentor

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 7.—Alured (Slim) Ransom, who has just completed a great career as an athlete at Geneva College, has been appointed coach at McDonald High School, according to announcement from school authorities.

Ransom succeeds Bill Cox, who quit to take a similar job at Washington High, succeeding Hank Day, present Washington and Jefferson College grid coach. Ransom will have complete charge of all sports and also will teach physical education.

AUTO RACE ON AGAIN

The 50-mile automobile race at Arden Downs, Pa., postponed last Monday because of rain, will be run on Saturday at 4 o'clock daylight saving time. Two three-round boxing bouts will be offered as an added attraction.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7.—I forgot whether it's onomatopoeia (don't worry, I looked that up in the dictionary), hyperbole (I looked that up, too), or plain irony (I'm trusting to memory on this one), but, anyway — one of the mainstays of the Yankees is a guy named Gomez. And, if you can make a Yankee monicker out of a Latin-American tag like that, then I can prove Calvin Coolidge is a Persian.

Nick Altrock

"Well, howsoever and so forth, this guy Gomez, who hails from Havana, has got a touch of old Cy Young, Rube Waddell and Big Ed Walsh in him. He must have had his pitching technique mixed up at Sloppy Joe's bar in his home town.

For a Havana pitcher he certainly is a perfecto for the Yanks this season, and, as a potential opponent for the American League pennant, I hope he is one of those trick cigars that blows up once in a while, Caramba! What a pitching son-of-a-gun!

BANNEROT WINS OVER BLOOM

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 7.—(AP.)—Favorites continued their march toward the title yesterday in the annual West Virginia golf championships.

Fred Bannerot, of Charleston, who has displayed spectacular golf, defeated Harold Bloch, of Wheeling, 4-2, in one of yesterday's outstanding matches.

In the first round Bannerot won over George Hewitt, of Wheeling, 4-3, in a dull match.

Palmer Stacey, of Lewisburg, defeated A. H. Johnson, of Charleston, 3-2, in another second-round match.

Earle (Greasy) Neale, of Morgantown, won over Dr. Gory Hogg, of Lewisburg, 4-3; F. M. Crum defeated W. E. Weis, Jr., of Elkins, 3-2; P. A. Bennett, of Martinsburg, put out Otis Curtin, 3-2; John O. Tucker defeated Karl Stout, 4-3; L. R. Seiberg, of Wheeling, took R. M. Rowand, 2-1; Sid Davis, of Charleston, won from J. M. Compton, of Bluefield, 1 up.

In the third round today, Bannerot is paired with Seibert, Stacey with Tucker, Neale with Bennett and Crum with Davis.

Miss Fritzie Stifel maintained her lead in the women's division and entered the third round of play, meeting Mrs. H. O. Everett. Mrs. E. W. Stifel, Fritzie's mother, also entered the third round, playing Mrs. E. Knight.

Southern Net Play In Quarter-Finals

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 7.—(AP.)—The majority of seeded stars advanced to the quarter-final round of the Southern tennis tournament today by virtue of victories scored yesterday.

The biggest upset of the tourney so far was the defeat of Billy Reese, seeded fifth in the running, by Quinn Connelly, of Houston, Tex., an unknown, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, top ranking player, defeated Perry Eastman, 6-2, 7-5, to enter the quarter-finals.

Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, easily won from Jack Simpson in straight love sets. Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., won over Kendall Cram, of Nashville, 6-3, 7-5.

HEAVIES BOX IN MILLVALE TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

George Panka vs. Pietro Corri and Frank Novak vs. Tiny Powell, 10 rounds each, and Ray Jennings vs. Bill Gunther and Leo Clements vs. Jack Kearns, 6 rounds each, Hickey Park, Millvale.

Leo Lavere vs. Odonne Fiazzi, 12 rounds; Rod Milnault vs. Vittorio Livan and Ted Sandwina vs. Jack Sigmoreen, 6 rounds each, Fenway Park, Boston.

Cut-priced boxing makes its bid for public favor tonight when the Hickey Park management, in Millvale, stages an all-heavyweight show consisting of two 10 and two six-round bouts.

George Panka, of Homestead, victor in his last few starts and bidding for a return to his former prominence, meets a seasoned foe in Pietro Corri, New York Austrian, who has boxed many of the outstanding big fellows. As a co-feature of this windup, Frank Novak, of the North Side, is booked with Tiny Dick Powell, of Akron, for 10 rounds.

George Panka Tiny Powell

In two six-rounders, Ray Jennings boxes Bill Gunther and Leo Clements takes on Jack Kearns.

The tickets are scaled from 75 cents to $2, tax inclusive, and the show gets under way at 8:45 o'clock.

Between Rounds

Marty Gornick is in training again following a layoff for an injured left hand. His stablemates, Jack Wilson and Dominick Mancini, also are working for battles, along with Al Becker, whose broken thumb has mended. All of them are handled by Irish Kane.

A return bout between Frankie Petrolle and Battling Battalino has been arranged for the Queensboro Stadium, New York, July 19. Petrolle, a brother of Billy Petrolle, recently upset the dope by handing the former featherweight champion a bad beating.

Bernard Kelly has canceled the show he planned for Fairmont, W. Va., tomorrow night, with Lloyd Clements and Tom McCafferty in the main bout.

Miss Didrikson Sets New Track Record

DALLAS, Tex., July 7.—(AP.)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, of Dallas, candidate for a place on the American Olympic team, has challenged anew for recognition as one of the greatest women athletes.

At the Texas women's A. A. U. track and field meet in Denton she won the 80-meter hurdles race in 11 9-10 seconds. Her previous mark in this event, 12 seconds, is recognized as an American record and has been submitted as a world record.

Miss Didrikson also won seven other events, the discus, javelin throw, broad jump, baseball throw and the 100 and 200-yard dashes. She tied for first in the high jump. Her team, the Golden Cyclones, of Dallas, won the meet.

MARKET DRIFTS IN NARROW RANGE

Traders Keep to Fence Awaiting Developments At Washington, Lausanne

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—The stock market drifted idly today, as uncertainties over developments at Washington and Lausanne kept traders on the fence.

In the main, the list was inclined to follow its recent pattern of declining in the first hour and hardening thereafter, but the movement was extremely narrow. An upturn in the B-M-T issues tended to prop the list during the late morning. A midday slump in International Shoe was momentarily unsettling, but the market stiffened thereafter.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit common and preferred rose about 2 points. International Shoe dropped more than 6 points, getting close to 20. Early losses of a point or so in such issues as American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Eastman and Corn Products were regained. The American and Foreign Power common and preferred issues and International Telephone advanced moderately. The tobacco shares, and some of the leading rails got up fractionally. United States Steel recovered a loss of ⅝. Armour of Delaware preferred gained nearly 3 points.

International banking quarters remained moderately hopeful over Lausanne, holding that distinctly constructive developments were bound to come out of the parley, regardless of the apparent deadlock over the "war guilt" clause. Foreign bonds were again steady to firm, and buying of such equities as American and Foreign Power and International Telephone have been prompted by a feeling that nations were coming together on economic problems. In commodities, the sweeping advance in hog prices has attracted considerable attention in financial quarters, and presumably was responsible for the upturn in Armour of Delaware preferred. The New York tractions advanced in response to the Mayor's call for a unification conference.

The break in International Shoe carried that issue down to a price of less than half the year's peak of 44⅜. This stock has been commanding high premiums in the loan market, making the short position costly, but at least one prominent bear operator holds that unwillingness to loan shares to shorts is a sign of vulnerability.

The deadlock at Washington over relief measure was naturally displeasing to Wall street, as it prolonged legislative uncertainties, but United States government bonds held up well, seemingly indicating a feeling that no extremely costly legislation will be enacted.

MONEY ON CALL DROPS TO 2%

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP.)—Call money renewed at 2 per cent on the New York Stock Exchange today, the lowest rate since October 15. Since early in January the quotation had been posted daily at 2½ per cent. One year ago it was 1½ per cent, but the rate stiffened after England dropped the gold standard last September. In December it went as high as 3½ per cent. Lowering of the call charge follows the recent reduction in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate of 2½ per cent.

Money brokers attached no particular significance to the change, pointing out that the former rate had been out of line with other short term credit charges and that call funds outside the exchange had been available at 1 per cent for a considerable period. There has been no increase, it was said, in the amount of money available for loanings, while demand for new accomodations has been small.

WIDER CREDIT USE BUSINESS PROBLEM

Hoyt, Morris Plan Head, Urges Consumer Policy To Hasten U. S. Recovery

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The immediate problem of financial restoration is how to get out into business the added credit resources released by the bold open market expansion policy of the Federal Reserve System.

As a concrete suggestion for breaking the ice, the banking and industrial committee, headed by Owen D. Young, proposed the wider use of trade acceptances instead of open book accounts, in dealings between retailers and wholesalers and manufacturers. The idea was first brought forward in its present form by Irenee du Pont, vice chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. It is excellent as far as it goes.

Mr. Rukeyser

RISK NECESSARY

Contending, however, that the essence of the problem lies in increasing consumption, not in mere stimulus in buying in the primary markets by retailers, James A. Hoyt, former president of Morris Plan Corporation of America and one time vice president of the First National Bank of Detroit, in a message to this column, urged that the campaign be extended to include credit instruments given by ultimate consumers to retailers. Mr. Hoyt declared:

"Your recent article, in which you take the position that the 'banks can aid the jobless by freer lending policy' is most certainly on the right line. There must be some boldness manifested, some risks taken, if the country is ever to get out of the slough of despondency. The banks cannot expect the masses to have confidence in the banks until the banks themselves display confidence in the country.

"I have formulated a suggestion for starting the credit machinery, and thereby stimulating trade.

"To extend the trade acceptance plan to retail business might have the desired effects. It is much more likely to do so than confining the use of trade acceptances to the wholesaler-retailer transaction. It would reach the ultimate consumer. It would present an even more direct and effective method of tapping the now unused store of bank credit. Here is how it would work:

PLAN DETAILED

"Mr. Retail Buyer, desiring to purchase an electric refrigerator, selling at, say, $160, would pay in cash 25 per cent of the purchase price, $40, to the retailer, the electrical appliance company, which would make out a draft on Mr. Buyer for the balance, $120, payable in six monthly instalments of $20 each, and this draft, accepted by Mr. Buyer, becomes retail trade acceptance. With the indorsement of the dealer, it becomes two-name paper and should be acceptable for discount by the electrical appliance company's bank. It possesses all the qualities of the standard trade acceptance, except as to its maturity. It runs for six months (or eight or ten or twelve, as the case may be) and is therefore not now eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve Bank.

"It could be made eligible by a slight change in the rules of the Federal Reserve Bank as to the maturity of eligible paper, even if that should require an amendment to the law. Such an amendment has frequently been suggested. As long as eligibility is restricted to paper that is self-liquidating in character, the fundamental principle of the Federal Reserve requirements is not impaired.

"Made eligible, here would be provided a still larger outlet for the immense unused credit resources of the Federal Reserve system. Not only the trade acceptances, representing wholesaler-dealer transactions, but the retail trade acceptances representing dealer-consumer transactions could be used as the basis for Federal Reserve issues."

Brazilian Railways Buying German Coal

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 7.—(AP.)—Contracts for coal for Brazilian Railways were allotted by the purchasing commission today to representatives of the Ruhr district in Germany.

The Bank of Brazil started buying exchange bills in reichsmarks to pay for the coal purchases.

The national coffee council denied, however, reports that coffee had been exchanged for the coal.

Lake Ore Shipments Show Large Decline

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Iron ore shipments from upper lake ports in June totaled 253,557 tons, compared with 3,808,043 tons in June, 1931. For the season to end of June, 388,456 tons were shipped, against 5,753,259 tons in the same period last year.

Street Hears That Europe Is Covering Shorts In U. S. Market

In usually well-informed quarters report was current that foreign covering of exceptionally good character has been going on in American stocks for several days past. Buying from abroad to retire outstanding commitments on the side of the decline is reputedly for the account of well-posted interests who took a bear position in our securities early and have maintained their stand for more than two years. These reports, it is interesting to note, coincide with the gossip around just prior to the holiday that several houses, frequently mentioned as handling a goodly foreign business in speculation, were inclined to feel a bit more optimistic. It is more than probable, however, that buying intended for covering by such interests, has been distributed with a view to avoiding detection.

The high premiums commanded in the loan market by various stocks are not always indicative of underlying strength is shown by the action of International Shoe. About a week ago that stock was leading at a premium of $1 a share, in other words commanding $100 a day for the privilege of borrowing 100 shares. The stock merely held firm in face of that condition and yesterday suffered a bad break, followed by another slump today, yielding to show a loss of fully 12 points at today's low level, which incidentally represented a new minimum price for the bear market. The company's statement for the first six months is expected shortly and apparently the street is not inclined to look for a particularly satisfying showing.

A spectacular upturn in Nickel Plate 6s of 1932 was the feature of yesterday's trading in the domestic bond market. Secondary rails as a group were inclined to strength, but a bulge of 8 points in that issue was easily the outstanding movement. For the better part of the session the buying was termed excellent, judging from its origin, but the average observer was perplexed by its meaning. Ultimately, however, it developed that the buying was presumably based on expectations that the Interstate Commerce Commission will approve the "four-party" merger plan for the east very shortly. Such a move, it was pointed out, would place the Chesapeake and Ohio in position to aid the Nickel Plate in meeting maturity of the above $20,000,000 issue on October 1. Moreover, attention was called to the fact that Nickel Plate thus far has refrained from approaching the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for assistance.

Possibilities for developments to generate a rally in securities are Washington and Lausanne. Adjournment of Congress should produce a temporary rally and any agreement at Lausanne that would settle the European financial question should be the signal for a recovery movement. While conservative interests still advise investors to wait for the news, they are not inclined to be bearish at this time.

Although approximately $450,000,000 in bonds have been removed as a prior obligation since 1903, the preferred stock of United States Steel Corporation is valued currently at only slightly above the extreme low level prevailing in that year, when earnings of the corporation experienced their first sharp setback. The common shares, despite an increase of about 70 per cent in the number outstanding, resulting from the stock dividend in 1927 and the offering in connection with bond retirement in 1929, are quoted at more than twice the extreme low price of 10 in 1903.

Although the first substantial indication of business recovery has been indicated by a contraction in the spread between prices of raw commodities and finished goods, a condition which automatically increases the total purchasing power, the Alexander Hamilton Institute sees no reason to expect immediate reflection of this condition by the stock market. The current bulletin says: "The fact that the stock market broke to a new low level last week is no reason for minimizing the significance of the currently favorable aspect of the commodity price situation. In the depression of 1921 the stock market did not begin to recover until four months after the commodity price spread began to narrow and factory output began to expand. This means that if general improvement is now definitely under way, the stock market may not start to reflect it before this fall. At that time, however, the stock market should begin to broadcast the glad tidings of the business recovery which started some months earlier just as it broadcast in October, 1929, the sad news of the depression which began in July."

WALL STREET HEARS

That American Tobacco's earnings for the first half year may have set a new high record.

That a large buying order has been placed for American Telephone at a price around the recent low.

That speculative liquidation is still in progress in General Foods.

That Columbia Gas directors will maintain the dividend authorized three months ago.

COTTON SINKS UNDER SALES

NEW YORK, July 7.—Cotton futures opened steady, 5 to 7 points lower, under realizing, commission house selling, more favorable weather prospects and the reported check in the Lausanne conference.

The relatively steady showing of Liverpool brought in a little buying, but selling continued and the decline extended to 5.93c for July and 6.20c for September, making net losses of about 12 to 15 points by the end of the first half hour.

The market seemed to be chiefly influenced by the improved southern weather and uncertainty as to the outcome of the Lausanne conference.

The decline extended to 5.89 for July and 6.16 for December, making net losses of 16 to 19 points, but selling was checked at this level by the forecast of showery weather over a considerable part of the south. Rallies of several points followed and the market at midday was quiet and steady at net declines of 9 to 10 points.

LIVERPOOL, July 7.—Cotton—Receipts, 2,000 balls, all American. Spot in active demand, large business done; prices 21 points higher. Quotations in pence: American middling fair, 5.89; strict good middling, 5.44; good middling, 5.19; strict middling, 5.07; middling, 4.97; strict low middling, 4.89; low middling, 4.79; strict good ordinary, 4.59; good ordinary, 4.29. Feeling of Insecurity Comes To Lynn After Hearing Friends Quarrel

CHAPTER XXV.

"I don't intend waiting until tomorrow," Bill told Lynn, "and you can go back to bed. It may not be conventional, but it won't hurt you, once. I'm not here to see you. I'm here to see Mara. I haven't heard a word from her since she walked out on me."

"Since you threw her out!" cried Lynn.

"Is that what she said? Well, it doesn't make any difference."

"You——"

But he had walked in and closed the door, spun his hat on a bookcase and sat down in a chair.

Lynn had rather liked Bill. Now she disliked him very much. She said:

"Mara was right to leave you. If you think she's going to stand for the way you treated her and——" She stopped, conscious of delicate ground.

"Oh, so she's told you about Betty?" guessed Bill. "Well, what did she expect? If a man knows he isn't wanted, he goes where he is—that's all there is to that. What about Frank Houghton?"

"I don't know what you're talking about," said Lynn, "and as long as I can't put you out, I suppose you can stay. I'm going back to bed."

She did, and lay there wondering if there was any way she could reach Mara, warn her. Of course she couldn't. Equally certain was it that Mara was with Houghton. Would he bring her home. She hoped he would not.

She heard the striking of matches as Bill sat there smoking and waiting. If only Jennie would come! Jennie could handle him. But Jennie had said that she would be very late. "You and Mara better sleep in the bedroom," she had added.

There was no way in which to reach Mara.

If only she would come home—alone.

SURPRISES MARA

She did not. With a sick feeling, Lynn heard her come laughing up the stairs with Houghton long after midnight. Lynn rose and groped for her robe and slippers again. She wouldn't lie there like a coward; she'd stand by Mara.

The door opened. "Good night, Frank," said Mara to the man with her. And then she screamed. "Bill!"

Bill said, "Don't get all hot and bothered. I haven't a gun. Wouldn't use it if I had. Just wanted to know where you were—and with whom. That's all. I've found out, now. Thanks a lot, Houghton—I suppose you mean Houghton?—for bringing my wife home safely. You can get out now."

Houghton said, "I don't like your tone, Burt. I see no harm in taking your wife to dinner."

"I want to talk to Mara," said Bill. "I'm not concerned about you. If Mara wants to dine until midnight with a man, in order to keep her job, she can do it."

"To keep her job?" asked Houghton.

"Sure; that's how they all do it," Bill told him. "Good little old S. A. Vamp the boss, or his nephew, and your job's safe. And now will you get out?"

"Mara!"

"Oh, please go!" she cried out. "Please don't believe him, Frank."

"You'd better believe me," said Bill. "What good would it do not to? You're a married man, I believe. Mara's married, too, although she appears to forget it sometimes."

HAS A JOB

Lynn said, appearing suddenly, "You'd better go, Mr. Houghton."

He went, shocked, bewildered.

Bill growled, "You don't have to be in on this, either, Lynn."

"I don't intend to be," she said, clearly, "but I'm right here, within call."

Bill laughed. "I'm not going to beat her up; she isn't worth the effort."

Lynn went back to the bedroom, but even with the door closed, she could hear.

"How far has this affair with Houghton gone?" Bill asked.

"It isn't an affair. How dare you—just because a man is decent to me!"

"I see. Well, he needn't be decent any longer. You're coming home now. I've got a job, out West. It starts in two weeks. You're coming West with me."

"Why don't you ask your beauty-parlor girl friend to go?"

"She doesn't happen to be my wife. She'd make me, I imagine, a much better wife than you've made me," said Bill, "but I married you."

"If you think that I'm going to condone——"

"You'll have to," he told her soberly. "Granted I was unfaithful to you, what of it? There are worse things than that, where a man's concerned. Granted, if you like, that you've been unfaithful to me."

"I haven't! I haven't!"

"No, I don't suppose you have. That doesn't matter, either. We're going to start over again on what's left. It wasn't my fault that I lost my job."

"Nor your fault that you didn't find another?" she demanded.

"No. Do you think I liked it, sitting home day after day, waiting for you to come and remind me you were supporting me? That's a devil of a position for a man to be in. You might have made it easier for me, saved my pride a little, encouraged me. But you didn't. Every day it was the same."

"Every day you were the same," she accused him; "growling about this and that, complaining, ugly."

THREATENS DIVORCE

"What did you want me to do? Run around and wash dishes and sing, 'Goody, goody, the wife's got a job and I can stay at home and do the housework!' What do you take me for? It wasn't any easier for me to accept what you grudgingly gave me than it was for you to give it. If my disposition was rotten, perhaps it wasn't all my fault."

"What about Betty?" she demanded. "Where does she come in?"

"Nothing. Nowhere. That's over and done with. She was—kind. That's more than you were. It's over, I tell you. She understands. And you're coming West with me."

She cried shrilly, "I'm not! I never want to see you again. I'll divorce you."

"Better be careful," he warned her.

"I'll divorce you," she repeated. "I can take care of myself!"

Surprisingly, he said nothing for a moment. Lynn, in the bedroom, heard him walk to the door. There he paused, and his words reached her clearly:

"Think it over, Mara. You've got 10 days before I have to start. You know where to reach me."

MARA DISCHARGED

The door closed.

"Brute! Beast!" cried Mara, and cast herself upon the couch and wept noisily.

Lynn did not speak or stir. She was not so sure. She thought. Marriage can't be like that. But it was. She thought, how can they go on, after the things they've said to each other? Oh, if I believed for a minute that Tom and I could stand shouting ugly words at each other, I . . .

Somehow, this business of Mara and Bill made her feel insecure.

A few minutes later Mara came into the room, undressed and climbed into bed. Lynn, pretending to sleep, lay still.

Mara said: "You're awake, aren't you? You heard what he said. Before I'd go West with him I'd—I'd—"

"What?" asked Lynn.

"I don't know," Mara admitted forlornly. "Lynn, what shall I do?"

"Do you love Frank Houghton?"

"Of course not," replied Mara virtuously. "I'm married!"

To her own and Mara's astonishment, Lynn laughed wildly. She said: "Sorry. Go to sleep, Mara; perhaps things will be different tomorrow."

They were. For when Jennie and Lynn entered the apartment together that evening they found Mara walking the floor. As they came in she cried:

"I've lost my job!"

"Mara, how? Why?" asked Lynn, concerned, while Jennie, nodding, inquired, "Well, what did you expect?"

"How? Frank Houghton, of course!" said Mara. "Because of what Bill said last night. Because of what I said today."

"What did you say?" asked Jennie.

"I had lunch with him. He said—he said he couldn't risk losing his job or letting down his wife and kids, but that I could divorce Bill and take an apartment somewhere and give him a key!"

Lynn murmured something, but Jennie smiled.

"And you didn't like him enough?"

"Like him enough! As if I'd ever like any man enough!"

"I don't think you would. Neither would I," said Jennie, "but that's not saying that I wouldn't accept, if the key were gold-plated and the apartment had plenty of service."

"Well," said Mara in the little silence that followed, "I'm not downright immoral like you, Jennie Le Grande!"

"No? I wonder what being moral is? Being immoral, I suppose, is only a question of what you want to pay for things," said Jennie, without rancor, and vanished into the bedroom.

"I hate Frank Houghton," said Mara, after a moment. "If he thinks he can do this and get away with it! I'm going down to see the boss tomorrow."

"I wouldn't if I were you," Lynn advised her.

"I shall. I won't lose my job simply because I've been decent," said Mara.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty clerk in the Sea Coast Bank and Trust Company, loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice presidents. They cannot marry on Tom's salary, so Lynn plans to hold her position. She learns, however, that the bank does not want married women. She seeks the aid of David Dwight, prominent lawyer, whom she met through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Dwight had been Sarah's sweetheart years before, but gave her up to marry wealth. David, attracted by Lynn, offers her a position, but due to Tom's objection, Lynn rejects it. Later, Tom informs Lynn he has an opportunity to become rich by taking advantage of secret information relative to the bank's merger and buying stock. Lynn disapproves on the ground that it is dishonest and Tom reluctantly promises not to speculate. That night, Mara Burt's husband calls looking for his wife, who left him and is staying with Lynn. In spite of Lynn's protests, he comes in.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Boys and girls of East Liberty, members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, are going to have a very pleasant surprise when they attend the regular meeting at the Enright Theater Saturday. Manager "Bill" Zeilor has arranged for the "idols" of the Pittsburgh Pirates — Lloyd and Paul Waner to attend the meeting and meet the youngsters.

Paul Waner

These two stars of the diamond are credited with keeping the Pittsburgh Pirates at the head of the National League race, with their batting power and speed. They have one, and only one, hobby, and that's baseball. They eat, sleep and talk nothing else.

Tommy Laird, sporting editor of a San Francisco newspaper, tells the following story on Paul when he was playing in the Coast League:

"Paul is the only player I know of who, after finishing his time at bat, can come back to the bench and tell you what his batting average is. In fact, after making four hits one day out there, the papers that night told about Paul's average being .399. That night I happened to drop into the hotel where the visiting team was quartered and met their first baseman in the lobby. He called me over and pointed to an article in the paper telling about Paul's average.

"'Tommy,' he said, 'I'll bet you all the tea in China that this newspaper is wrong.'"

"'Why?' asked Tommy."

"'Because,' continued the first baseman, 'after Paul made that fourth hit today he laughingly told me while he was still on "first" that that hit brought his batting average up to .401. And I'll take his figures every time'."

Lloyd Waner

PAUL RIGHT

Sure enough. Tommy Laird took out a pencil and figured Paul's batting average and it figured .401. Tommy said that the next day he apologized to Paul for the error.

So, boys and girls, you're in for a real treat when you attend the Junior Komic Club meeting Saturday morning at the Enright with an opportunity to meet "Little Poison" and "Big Poison."

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

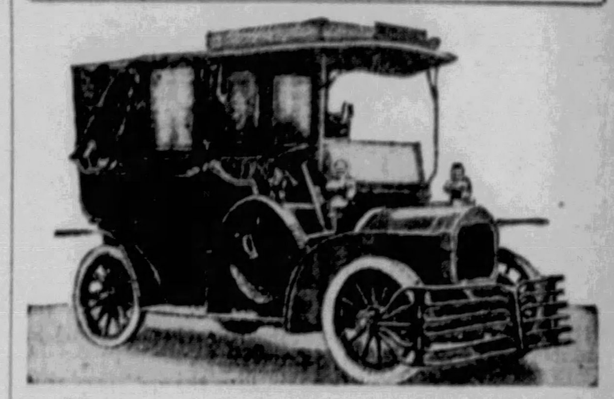
This Is Going to Be a Good Old World After All



Thanks to our Cousins Across the Sea, the highways will soon be safe for pedestrians. Above is an actual photograph showing the Rex Safety Cradle, perfected in England. This superbumper supplies the finishing touch in horseless vehicle design for the conservative motorist. "The cradle," says the pamphlet, "is made raisable at will, so that the cradle moves with the wheels to any angle and thus always presents a safe front." Is that plain enough, or must we explain it all over again?

A National Ticket Trained In School of Experience

One of the outstanding reasons why Gov. Roosevelt will make a great President and Speaker Garner a splendid Vice President and presiding officer of the Senate, is that they will enter power on the fourth of next March after long and invaluable experience in the public service.

Another reason is that they will have the assistance of an able Speaker of the House in Congressman Rainey, who will also enter power at that time after long and invaluable experience in the public service.

Harmonious co-operation between these three capable and experienced public servants will result in prompt procedure in the solution of our national problems. There will be no more of the exasperating hesitation and delay due to jealousy and dissention on the one hand and ignorance and inexperience on the other.

Mr. Roosevelt began his public service when, at the age of 28, he was elected from an overwhelmingly Republican district to the State Senate.

As the result of the ability he displayed in the Upper House of the New York Legislature he was re-elected by a greatly increased majority.

Before he could complete his term of office he was called to Washington as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, where he served for the next eight years.

And Mr. Roosevelt will go from Albany to Washington next March after two terms as Governor of the Empire State of the Union. He was elected to his second term by an indorsing majority of 700,000.

Mr. Garner began his public service as County Judge before he was 26 years of age. At 30 he was elected a member of his State Legislature. At 34 he was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress and has been re-elected to each succeeding Congress in complete approval of his public service.

Congressman Rainey also began his public service as a member of the Fifty-eighth Congress and has been re-elected, with only one exception, to each succeeding Congress.

Experience is not only a great teacher of the people. Experience is also the best of all training schools for the service of the people.

Because they have been long trained and tested in the public service of their respective states and of the nation, Roosevelt of New York for President, Garner of Texas for Vice President and presiding officer of the Senate, and Rainey of Illinois for Speaker of the House of Representatives, is a truly national ticket that, from the outset of the campaign, commands the confidence of the national electorate.

Still Stalling

Duquesne Light Company Tries to Sell City Council Another Gold Brick.

The Duquesne Light Company has offered another "gift" to the City of Pittsburgh. It is a large box, wrapped in fancy paper with a nice big bow on it. But examination shows that the company still is doing its shopping in the five and ten cent store.

This is the second time during the fight for lower rates that a proposition has been made which was dressed up to look big but which actually was a trivial concession.

The first rate reduction offered would amount to 10 cents a month for the great majority of residential consumers. The latest offer would make substantial savings possible for families with large houses and a large consumption of electricity but it would offer no further advantage for the average family.

Study of the rates shows that a family using 160 kilowatt hours in a 12-room house would save $1.25 a month. This would be excellent. But the ordinary family using 60 kilowatt hours in a seven-room house would save only 10 cents a month. Even if the family in the smaller house should use 160 kilowatt hours it would still save only 10 cents.

The new rate proposal first of all would not offer a great enough total reduction to provide a satisfactory settlement of the dispute. Second, it would benefit only a small proportion of the consumers and would not give fair treatment to families in small houses or apartments.

The two offers made by the Duquesne Light Company were attempts to settle the dispute by negotiation and avoid a rate case before the Public Service Commission. It is to the advantage of both the city and the company to come to an agreement since a case would involve large expenses and might not be settled for several years. But if the company wishes to show that it is acting in good faith instead of merely delaying the establishment of lower charges, it must make a more equitable offer than it has up to the present time.

Analysis of traffic accidents reveals that there is an actual, concrete danger line—the middle of the street. The right side of the street is the proper place on which to drive, and crossing the danger line is fatal. In four years that practice has caused 61 deaths. In 1931 it caused 17 deaths as well as accidents that resulted in injury to 214 persons. To quote a comment in a bulletin of the Traffic Safety Observers:

"Crossing over the center line into the lanes of traffic in the opposing direction is inviting disaster. It indicates a lack of regard for the violator's own life as well as a disregard for the rights and safety of others."

It is axiomatic that there is a right and wrong way to do anything, and the right way to drive is on the right side of the road. Any other way is unlawful except for passing a car ahead, and that only under prescribed conditions for safety.

Pittsburgh is trying to be the "Safest City" for 1932, in a contest promoted by the National Traffic Safety Council. Drive lawfully and help your town to win this high honor.

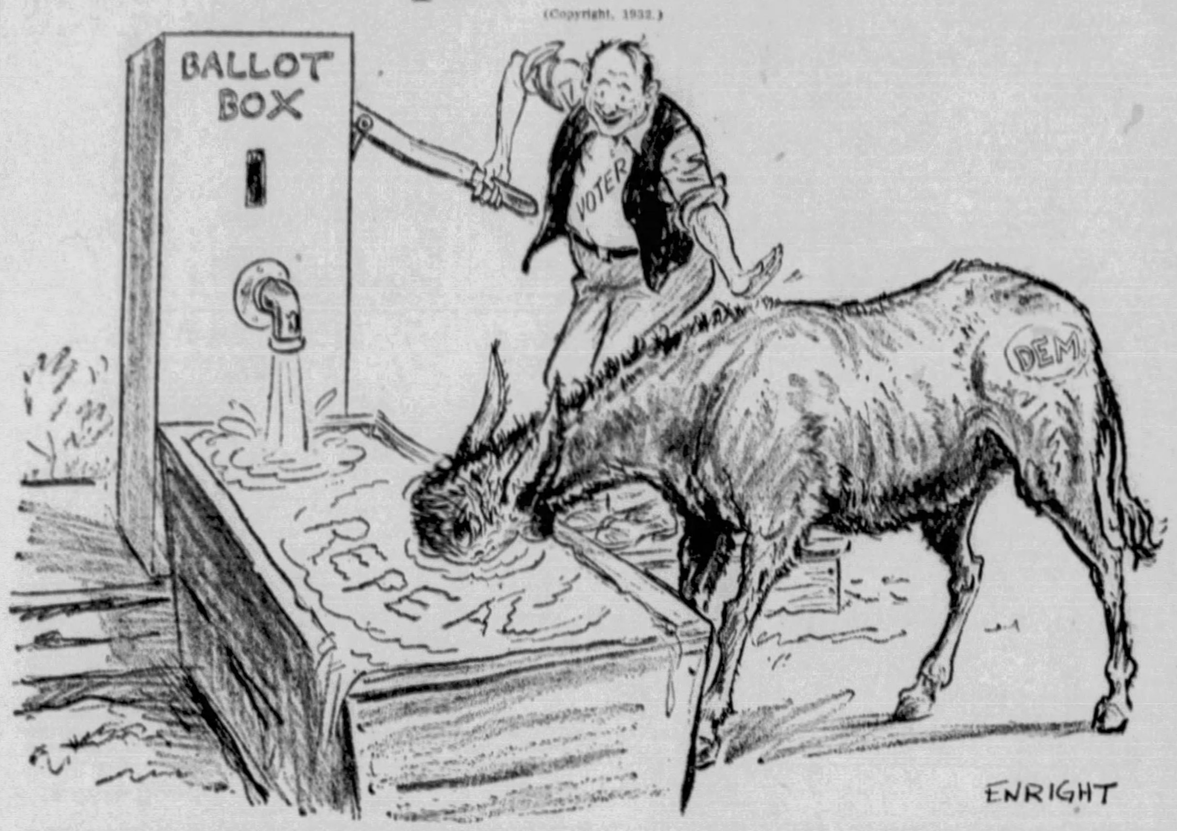
Up to His Ears!

(Copyright, 1932.)



The resolutions committee may have led the Democratic donkey "to water," but they didn't have "to make him drink."

The Democratic convention was more than ready for repeal. Mere moisture had no attraction for the donkey. He had a little of that with the thistles and cactus of the arid desert.

The voter will be at the pump handle next November and there is no danger of this well running dry for lack of ballots.

There was but a feeble protest on the part of those who thought the donkey should be tried out on a teaspoonful of repeal to see how it agreed with him.

Democracy already had its nose deep in the trough, "up to the ears." Those ears are listening to the music of the pumphandle.

Wealth Eternal—or Nearly

The "Glory of Kaieteur."

FIVE TIMES THE HEIGHT OF NIAGARA.

The magnificent torrent rushing over the rocks of Kaieteur is in height, in beauty and in the majesty of its roar among the finest of all waterfalls.

The falls is five times higher than Niagara, 820 feet against Niagara's 164 feet. The Falls of Victoria, owned, like Kaieteur, by Britain, are 360 feet high, against Niagara's height of less than half.

In volume of water, however, Niagara, carrying the overflow of the Great Lakes, is the monarch of the earth. Over the edge of Niagara, every second, pours 222,000 cubic feet of water. The Falls of Victoria have 38,430 cubic feet, whereas Kaieteur has only 23,400 cubic feet a second, a little more than one-tenth of Niagara's volume.

However, there are many sources of power in waterfalls as in men. VOLUME is not everything. HEIGHT counts, and there Kaieteur has the advantage.

Twenty-three thousand four hundred cubic feet of water falling every second from a height of 820 feet produces terrific power.

We who see this cataract, or even an inadequate picture of it, think of its BEAUTY; we are impressed by the grandeur of a great river rolling down a cliff nearly 1,000 feet high.

The practical eye of a "power" man sees in this cataract more than nature's beauty. It sees possibilities of wealth, lasting year after year, for thousands of centuries, as long as the earth shall last and the sun continue to raise the ocean's water, in mist, and drop it in rain to form cataracts.

As Niagara remained through all the history of the United States and through thousands of centuries before, unused, until now harnessed by man, so this great Kaieteur waterfall today is free of any harness.

But the turbines and the electric wires will come to harness the force and send it to distant factories.

Cities will be lighted, cars will be run, clothing and food will be manufactured by the power that now goes to waste.

Everywhere on earth, in the center of South America, now unused, here and elsewhere in the widespread British possessions, in many places in our country, nature has provided power that can be turned into wealth.

This is one of the most beautiful, most magnificent of all those natural storehouses of future power and gold.

Of course a man always MEANS to be prompt; but it gives him more moral courage to pass right by the speakeasy, if he knows that somebody is waiting at home with her eye on the clock.

Sometimes, a woman has such a keen dramatic instinct that, every time she repeats the scandal about another woman, she adds a few more effective touches to it and works it up to a more startling climax.

A man's summer loves are so light that they never weigh on his conscience—and there is seldom a perennial among them.

When a man comes home and finds that his wife has forgotten that he rushed off without kissing her good-bye, that morning, it is almost as great a relief as when he goes to have a tooth examined and finds that the dentist is away on his vacation.

* * *

Somehow, even the plainest woman feels dashingly seductive in a red bathing suit and even the wildest man feels intellectual looking in horn-rimmed spectacles.

* * *

Half a woman's days are spent in keeping her straight hair wavy—and the other half in keeping her wavering husband straight. As long as woman exists on this sweet earth, these will be the two vital and absorbing problems in her life.

Who remembers the name of that Boston college professor who advised his young students to become "snobs and gentlemen?" Wonder how many of those young men are holding jobs in garages and filling stations these days.

The car doesn't really shrink, after marriage—it's just that the arguments take up so much more room.

If "home is where the heart is," then some men are never at home, except when they are on a golf course or in a speakeasy.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

To a Friend

O Friend whose soul has glimpsed afar
My own in passing by,
I can not follow where you are
Or ask that you come nigh

No picture have I of your days,
If well or ill you fare;
Or where you tread down sunnyways
Or shadowed paths of care.

And yet, O Friend, because you came
To cheer my darkest mood,
You kindled in my heart a flame
Of deathless gratitude.

A flame that burns with steadfast glow,
Though you are far or near,
And makes Earth brighter since I know
That you have sojourned here.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 7.—Greenwich Village never turned out a more complex literary figure than Gertrude Stein. Every few years it cradles an Upton Sinclair or a Harry Kemp, kindly rebels of life who trumpet at conventions but express an eager love of humanity. But Miss Stein remains an enigma.

She was the first of the weird literary hedge flowers The Village nurtured and her epileptic essays brought that elusive twin yearning—fame and fortune. Today, with a plentiful income, she lives abroad, mostly in an out-of-way village near Paris. She is rarely seen by Americans.

Advanced modernists hail her as the high priestess of a growing cult. In their eyes she is "a weaver of words in strange patterns." Her first effort was a despient volume called, for no reason at all, "Tender Buttons." Totally misunderstandable, it had an enormous sale.

Her grotesque metier is the use of words to achieve "symphonies in sound" instead of intelligible meaning. Thus one may be bewildered by such sombre attenuation as this: "The moon struck, whose job is cadence, mild autumn dusk and red apples laughing in the lane."

The army of disciples—and they are to be found in every walk of life—believe her to be inspired. But the majority, regarding it as divinely useless mirth, read her with tongue in cheek. There are, too, minor cynics who believe they know the source of her incredible incoherence.

As a fairly consistent reader of the Bible, I suggest those interested read from The Song of Deborah. Better still perhaps turn to the Old Testament—Book of Judges V, Chapter V, verses 27 and 30. Then read some of Miss Stein's high voltage verbiage. And see what you shall see.

* * *

In the same fashion I wonder if George M. Cohan might not have plucked his zippy enthusiasm for the flag from the late H. C. Bunner, famous editor of Puck. He was a sterling poet who inscribed many popular strophes to the stars and stripes—such as "Hats Off, the Flag is Passing By," during the formative days when Cohan was ventilating his nasal twang for the populace. Bunner's home in Nutley, N. J., fairly fluttered with the American emblem. His next door neighbor, incidentally, was Annie Oakley, the celebrated rifle shot.

* * *

Such implications do not suggest plagiarism on the part of Miss Stein or Mr. Cohan, of course. No one entirely escapes the influence of those who have gone before. Two of our greatest cartoonists were swayed by John McCutcheon during their Chicago days. Most columnists, to express a generous toleration, have been influenced by the pioneering of Bert Leston Taylor. Hoyt blazed the trail for musical comedy of today. And so on.

Likely the most pestered man in town these days is the cherubic Roxy, since he became chief of Radio City. Everybody out of work is trying to reach him by mail, phone, letter or personal contact. He stands it for a few weeks and then, with S. Jay Kaufman and other intimates, shoves off for Europe, playing penny-ante all the way over and back.

* * *

Theodore Dreiser, like Maud Adams, is among the self-effacing celebrities. Each by an inverse process secured more publicity than any others in their especial fields. Dreiser, with his stained-glass expression, moons along deserted streets and upon receiving visitors at home sits in a rocker rolling his handkerchief into a ball. He has an office, hidden away and frequently moved, where he works. His shop is filled with filing cabinets, in turn filled with newspaper clippings. His stories are always written from actual facts. Dickens worked in the same fashion.

Idiosyncrasies: When Bernard Sobel grows excited he has fits of sneezing . . . Francis P. Sisson, the banker, discovered the humorist, George Fitch, when he ran a Galesburg (Ill.) newspaper . . . Albert Payson Terhune has ballooned to 280 pounds . . . But feels swell . . . Billy De Beck brushes his hair 15 minutes before going to bed . . . Harold Bell Wright's books have been the best sellers during the depression . . . Dean Cornwell smokes cigarets incessantly without inhaling . . . Lynn Fontanne waits in the wings to tell Alfred Lunt how marvelously he performed.

A mug with a Boston accent has just "contacted" me over the phone as a prospect for a new-fangled memory course. He's wasting time. I have a dandy memory for everything save dates, names and faces. O, yes, there's one other thing I'm always forgetting, but it has slipped my mind.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Sometimes, looking back over my life, I feel mighty disgusted.

All the grand chances I've had, and passed up! The dreams that were given me, that I've let fizzle out!

Often I hear people say, excusing themselves, that they did the best they could. I wish I could say that, but I can't.

I don't believe I've ever done the best I could in any act of my life. I can't look back on a single 100 per cent deed. Every job I've ever done has been marred by some carelessness, selfishness or stupidity.

And, as the years go by, and the blundering record accumulates, I grow disheartened. Aw—what's the use?

Pretty hard to face moments of realization like that. Probably you know. I suspect you've faced them yourself. And did you, too, feel so disgusted that you wanted to chuck it all; vowed you'd never try again? Probably. That's how I feel. But when I do, something always comes to steady me in my panic, always the same memory—

The memory of my father's hand.

My father was a poor man.

Never in all his life was he beyond the grasp of poverty. I can not remember that he ever had a really fine suit or a week of pleasuring. He would have been tickled with them if he had, for he had a young and merry soul, but the chance never came, for there were so many of us to feed and educate.

He was always handicapped. While he was still a boy, that illness came upon him that was to make every breath a torture for the brief years he lived, yet never once did I see him stint his service to others, because of his own private agony.

He loved to give. He lived to do. He loved to do things well. He was one of those people who delight in doing even the smallest things perfectly. I have an inlaid table which he made, and some letters, written in his beautiful, flowing script. Yet even in this manual work he was handicapped by his hand.

So plainly I can see my father's hand, scarred and calloused by work, with its ragged cuff and its twisted finger.

That finger was hurt while we were all babies, and the pinch for money was particularly hard. I supposed he was working overtime, as usual; perhaps was groggy with weariness. For some reason he fumbled, and his hand was caught in the swiftly moving machinery. A flash of steel, and half the finger dangled from the bone.

No company physician in those days. A doctor's bill meant the cost of a pair of shoes. He never hesitated, when he faced that particular decision. With a sickness I don't want to imagine, he somehow staunched the blood, managed a clumsy splint, and wrapped the finger together again. There were bad days, mother says, but the flesh miraculously mended—and he kept that twisted finger.

But always it was a good deal of a nuisance. Always it spoiled the delicate perfection of the thing he wanted to do. He was very proud, and that must have hurt his pride horribly.

A maimed hand, an empty pocketbook and failing health—hard handicaps for a man who loved to live abundantly.

YET HE MANAGED IT!

He kept on dreaming, even though he knew his dreams could not come true.

He kept on trying, even though he knew the results would always be marred.

And now, looking back at his life, I see that it was really a great triumph. A flame burned in him that I have seen in few other men. And sometimes, through my tears, I see his crippled hand touched by the same high glory that lay on another Hand, pierced by a nail.

Always when I am ready to give up, discouraged by my own blundering, I remember that hand.

It's a great thing to be proud; to want to do things well, to gratify that pride.

BUT IT'S A GREATER THING TO CARRY ON WHEN YOU CAN'T DO THINGS WELL—TO CARRY ON WITH THE KNOWLEDGE OF YOUR OWN FAILURE GOADING YOUR PRIDE.

THE WORLD OWES MUCH TO THOSE WHO HAVE SUCCEEDED—

BUT IT OWES MORE TO THOSE WHO HAVE FAILED, YET WOULD NOT TAKE THE COUNT!

Isn't It So?

All the world's a stage, and there are a lot of stage frights.

Brains are about as useful to some people as its eyes are to a potato.

The man who can hold his tongue generally knows how to hold his money.

When there is a screw loose in an automobile it rattles. The same applies to a man's head.

The old-fashioned woman who sat down beside a basket of darning and mending now has a daughter who sits down beside an ash tray.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Perhaps the one you married has not come up to your expectations.

You may have discovered traits you did not know existed.

You expected the one you married to make you entirely happy and you expected too much because happiness is never perfect.

You know that you yourself have many unfavorable characteristics, but you tried to keep them hidden till after the knot was tied, anyway.

Have you any reason for thinking that you are any the less a disappointment to the person who took you as a companion?

There is plenty of meanness in all—you confess you are not exempt.

Still you sometimes wonder if you would not have been happier if you had married a different sort of person.

Perhaps your life might have been far more unhappy.

If you and your life partner enjoy each other's companionship, you are getting along as well as the majority of couples.

To expect more than you are willing to give is fatal to happiness.

If conditions are not congenial you may be the one to blame.

Happiness is largely a matter of disposition, so cultivate a sweet temper or a least an even, kindly one.

Wise Words

Every sweet hath its sour, every evil its good.—Emerson.

For as the crackling of thorns under a pot, so is the laughter of the fool. —Ecclesiastes.

My tongue within my lips I reign;
For who talks much must talk in vain.
—Gay.

There is no greater sign of a general decay of virtue in a nation, than a want of zeal in its inhabitants for the good of their country.—Addison.

Text for Today

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose.—Romans, viii:28.
